POPE STRICKEN; CONDITION GRAVE

Pontiff's Physicians Are Forced to Administer Heart Stimulants.

SAID TO BE UNCONSCIOUS

One Report Is That Disease of the Kidneys Is a Complication.

OVERTAXED HIS STRENGTH

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

ROME, April 8.--The Pope has suffered a relapse and his condition is causing great anxiety.

To-night there are rumors that his Holiness is unconscious, that the situation is most serious, and that a catastrophe is possible at any moment. These rumors may be exaggerated, but there is no doubt that the Pontiff's condition is grave.

According to one report late to-night, the Pope's condition is much worse. Hourly injections of cocaine and strophanthus are used to sustain his heart. Prof. Marchiafava has decided to stay in the Vatican for to-night.

The foreign diplomats have, it is stated, been warned that the condition of his Holiness is critical. The Vatican officials are remaining on duty throughout the night.

It appears that his Holiness, who is in his seventy-eighth year, having been born on June 2, 1835, disregarded the warnings of his doctors that, owing to his weak condition, he must not fatigue himself by giving numerous audiences daily. He was convinced that he had completely recovered from his recent illness. Yesterday, after a heavy day's work, the Pope retired to his apartments very fatigued and hardly able to walk. He went to bed without touching food. His secretaries, alarmed by his feverish temperature, which rose to 100 degrees, immediately summoned Prof. Marchiafava and Dr. Amici. Both admitted that the condition of his Holiness was very serious, and that there were symptoms of Bright's disease. Prof. Marchiafava insisted that Dr. Amici must spend the night at the Vatican.

The Pope spent a bad night and obtained practically no sleep, while the fever remained unabated. Dr. Amici was so alarmed at the patient's prostrate condition that a 4 o'clock this morning he telephoned for Prof. Marchiafava.

During the day there was a slight improvement, but only the Papal Secretary of State, Cardinal Merry del Val, was allowed in the Pope's bedroom in the morning. At noon, however, the Pope's two sisters were permitted to visit him. When they left the Vatican at about 2 o'clock, holding handkerchiefs to their eyes, they made no effort to conceal their anxiety.

In the afternoon the doctors, after seeing the patient, had an hour's consultation. They paid another visit to him this evening. So far no formal bulletin has been issued, the doctors being anxious not to convey the impression that there is imminent danger. It is stated on good authority, however, that the members of the Pope's entourage are really alarmed but are anxious to withhold the bad news until it is impossible to hide the facts.

The Pope was greatly depressed at having to disappoint 2,000 pilgrims from Treviso who were to be received to-day. His Holiness's birthplace is in the diocese in which Treviso is situated.

The news of the Pope's relapse spread quickly through Rome and caused an intense sensation. The city is filled with thousands of pilgrims from all parts of the world.

Temperature Again Rises.

ROME, Wednesday, April 9.—The physician in attendance on the Pope throughout the night reports that at midnight his Holiness's temperature showed a slight rise.

This, however, did not prevent the patient from getting a fair amount of sleep.

ROME, April 8.—An official statement given out at the Vatican to-day said:

> The Pope is suffering from a relapse of the influenza.

The Osservatore Romano, the Vatican organ, published the following official statement this evening:

> Since yesterday evening the Holy Father has been indisposed, with a relapse of influenza. His condition is causing no anxiety, but he requires much rest.

The truth is that the Pope's relapse is causing great anxiety because it was not expected, and for the further reason that at his advanced age there is the ever-present danger of his being unable to withstand the drain on his strength. During his recent illness the Pope was much depressed, but as he regained his health this distressing symptom disappeared. With the return of the influenza depression is one of the symptoms that have again been manifested.

To-day the temperature reached a little over 100 degrees Fahrenheit, which in itself is not alarming, but the heart showed weakness and there were evidences of kidney trouble. The condi-

AUTO RACES TO SAVE RIDER.

Leonie Burrill Thrown, Despite Mrs. Rex Beach's Effort to Save Her.

Miss Leonie Burrill, 20 years old, the daughter of Middleton S. Burrill, a well-known lawyer of 26 East Thirty-eighth Street, was seriously hurt when she was thrown from her horse at the Ninetieth Street entrance to Central Park in Fifth Avenue late yesterday afternoon. The horse slipped on the asphalt after Miss Burrill had almost mastered it when it ran away.

Mrs Rex Beach, wife of the author, and Mrs. Fred Stone, wife of the actor, in Mrs. Beach's automobile, raced along the driveway in Central Park for nearly ten blocks, Mrs. Beach making frantic and futile efforts to catch the frightened horse.

Miss Burrill suffered a concussion of the brain and was taken to the Presbyterian Hospital, where it was said last night that her condition was critical. She took the horse from the Fifth Avenue Riding Academy yesterday afternoon and spent an hour or so in the saddle before the animal became frightened near 110th street and bolted.

Miss Burrill seemed about to conquer the animal, which was tiring, as it turned into the Ninetieth Street entrance of the Park. Mrs. Beach shouted words of encouragement to Miss Burrill, who stuck gamely to her saddle.

The horse was still going at a mad pace, however, as it stepped on the asphalt outside the Park. It slipped, and Miss Burrill, who was almost exhausted, was thrown headlong. A passerby grabbed the horse as it struggled to its feet, and Mrs. Beach and Mrs. Stone went to the assistance of Miss Burrill, who was conscious, but in great pain. A passing physician gave first aid and Mrs. Beach's auto took Miss Burrill to the hospital.

Miss Burrill gave her name and address, but soon after she arrived at the hospital she lapsed into unconsciousness. She was placed in the care of Dr. Cobb and the police notified her family.

SHIP HITS THE QUEENS.

City's Best Ferryboat Damaged, but No Passengers Hurt.

The ferryboat ueens, finest and newest of the harbor craft owned by the city, had left the Battery and was heading for St. George, S. I., shortly before 7:30 last evening, when, about midway between Governor's Island and the Statue of Liberty, she was struck amidships on the port side by a coastwise steamer bound out to sea. It was a smashing blow that gouged a hole in the ferryboat large enough to call later for a patch of canvas 20 feet square, but it was above the water line and so the Queens was able to proceed to St. George with her badly frightened passengers.

The authorities at Staten Island received no word as to the identity of the offending steamship, which went on its way out to sea. The accident happened under a clear sky and in harbor water that was as smooth as any skipper could ask. How it would be explained was not suggested last night as Capt. Braisted of the Queens reported only that none of his passengers had been hurt.

The Queens did not go out again last night and will not for several weeks to come, for the needed repairs will be extensive. It was the Queens which figured in a harbor accident only three weeks ago when the trawler Heroine ran down and sunk the lighter Wyckoff. That was a foggy, drizzly night, however, and on that occasion, the Queens came to the rescue, standing by in response to the distress signals and rescuing one of the Wyckoff's crew from the wreckage.

PROF. OLSON IS ACQUITTED.

Killing of Wife's Persecutor, Jury Holds, Was Not Murder.

ST. PAUL, April 8.—The jury in the case of Prof. Oscar M. Olson, formerly of the University of Minnesota Farm School, charged with the murder of Clyde N. Darling, alleged wrecker of the Olson home, returned a verdict of not guilty at 8:35 o'clock to-night. It had been out since 5 o'clock this afternoon. At 7:40 the foreman announced that a verdict had been reached. Judge Orr was called. He arrived almost an hour later. When the words "not guilty" came from the foreman Prof. Olson attempted to rise, staggered, and dropped back into his seat. He recovered his composure, and with tears in his eyes shook hands with the jurors, the Judge, and others.

"There is going to be a happy reunion in the Olson home to-night," was all the professor would say as he started for his house, where he was awaited by his wife and little daughter. Prof. Olson had not seen his daughter since his arrest on the night of the shooting.

DOG YELPS AT OPERA.

Caruso's High Notes in "Aida" Rudely Broken in Upon.

Just as Caruso at the Metropolitan Opera House last night reached the part in the third act of "Aida," where he takes the highest notes of the opera, the silence of the big horseshoe was suddenly broken by the piercing yelp of a small dog, apparently in misery.

"Ki-yi, yi-yi-yi," went the startling yelp, high above the note of the famous tenor.

For a shade of a moment, Caruso was seen to hesitate. An agonized look came over his face, but he got a quick grip on himself and proceeded.

"Ki-yi-yi," went the dog in a second shrill shriek of pain, and then a muffled, half-uttered yelp indicated that the owner of the animal had obtained a strangle hold.

There was a commotion, especially in the neighborhood of the shrieks. A well dressed woman with a crimson face was seen struggling with something fluffy. A few near her caught a glimpse of a canine pet and began to titter. Several ushers rushed in her direction, but the look of unconcern she had assumed by that time made them hesitate. Those who were aware of the episode wondered if the owner of the dog pinched its ear on purpose or had accidentally jabbed it with a hat pin. Anyway, the owner's name could not be learned and just what Caruso said, under his breath, was likewise lost.

MRS. PANKHURST DOING WELL, UNFED

Like Olive Wharry, Who Is Released After 32 Days of Hunger Strike.

FEATS PUZZLE PHYSICIANS

Professional Fasters Outdone, or Have Suffragettes a Secret Supply of Food Tablets?

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 8.—Five days have elapsed since Mrs. Pankhurst entered Holloway Jail, which she then declared she intended to leave as soon as possible, alive or dead. She was then, according to her own statement, in bad health. She has consistently refused all food placed before her by the prison authorities, and the current reports that she is being forcibly fed are denied on high authority. The rumors of her imminent collapse have been as thick as the reports of her impending release on license.

The real facts of the situation, as obtained by The Daily Mail from an authoritative source, are that she was found by the doctors, on their examination last night, to be showing only very slight effects of her five days' lack of nourishment, and that, as far as could be foreseen, she was likely to be able to endure it for several days to come.

The reserve of strength which she has shown puzzles the prison doctors. It is known that she is drinking water, and instances in which life has been maintained for many days at a stretch, without serious discomfort, on a diet of water alone are not infrequent. It is, however, suggested that Mrs. Pankhurst took into prison, concealed in her clothing, tablets of highly concentrated nourishment, which are taken surreptitiously. She was not searched on her admission to prison.

The members of the Women's Social and Political Union have been hoping that she would be released in time to make her appearance at the great demonstration in Albert Hall, which has been planned for Thursday, but, should the authorities find it necessary to let her out of jail by then it is unlikely that she would be able to participate in the meeting.

Reports of her condition are made frequently each day by the prison authorities to the Home Office, and as soon as she is in danger of collapse she will be released on a license to which very stringent conditions are attached. The Home Secretary has power to impose such conditions as he thinks fit, and they are unlikely to be such as will allow her appearance at a public meeting. On her recovery from the effects of her starvation she will be rearrested and returned to prison.

Apart from the interest in Mrs. Pankhurst, there are several important developments of the suffragette movement. The first is the arrest of Annie Kenney on the charge of inciting crimes and misdemeanors. The next is the release of Olive Wharry and Zelie Emerson. Miss Wharry, who was sentenced to eighteen months for setting fire to the tea pavilion at Kew Gardens, has been without food for thirty-two days. A remarkable feature of her case is that for twenty-nine days she was able to conceal her hunger strike from the prison officials. How she could thus dispose of three meals a day has not been revealed, but it is understood that she surreptitiously passed them to other prisoners during exercise time. It is believed that Miss Wharry went to the length of refusing even water. She says she could have continued foodless for several days longer.

Miss Emerson left Holloway Jail in a closed motor ambulance. She was sentenced seven weeks ago and has been hunger-striking the whole time. There was a demonstration as the ambulance left the prison, a few women following, cheering and waving the suffragette colors. A hostile crowd jostled them, making police interference necessary. Earlier in the day Ellis Griffith, Under Secretary for the Home Office, answering a question in the House of Commons, said that the medical officer reported the condition of Miss Emerson's health quite satisfactory. It was true that she was an American citizen and had been forcibly fed.

Suffragettes this morning alarmed the inhabitants and shook the town of Dudley, in Worcestershire, by firing one of the cannon near the keep of the ruined castle overlooking the town.

LONDON, April 8.—Militant suffragettes in the course of last night attempted to blow up the ruins of the ancient and historic Dudley Castle, the keep of which dates back to the eighth century, when the original stronghold was built by a Saxon Prince.

All the inhabitants of the town were awakened by a loud explosion at midnight, coming from the direction of the castle. A large force of local police was dispatched there, and on searching the surrounding grounds found some chemicals and blasting powder, some of which had failed to explode.

Two old siege guns weighing a ton each were thrown out of their positions in the ebbrasures of the castle by the explosion. Many of the windows of a group of adjacent cottages were broken, but none of the inmates was injured.

"Votes for women and damn the consequences" was painted on one of the old cannon, and "In honor of Mrs. Pankhurst" on another, while a quantity of suffrage literature was scattered about. The police found no clue to the perpetrators.

One account of the explosion says that the suffragettes loaded and fired one of the big guns, which is a relic of the Crimean War, a Russian cannon captured at the siege of Sevastopol.

Another campaign of destruction was started by the militant suffragettes of London and its suburbs against the mail boxes to-day. In widely separated districts many of the pillar boxes were rendered useless, and much mail was destroyed by the insertion of corrosive fluids, ink, and burning rags saturated with oil.

NEXT SUNDAY'S TIMES.

MISS DODGE FOUND; WILL RETURN HOME

Granddaughter of John Bigelow Was Tired of Society and Wanted to Earn a Living.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 8.—Miss Lucy Dodge, granddaughter of the late John Bigelow, who disappeared from the home of her mother, the Hon. Mrs. Lionel Guest, six days ago, has been found and has promised to return home to-morrow. One report is that she is already back at the house of her stepfather and her mother in Seymour Street.

Scotland Yard was notified to-night that Miss Dodge had been found, and thereupon abandoned its attempt to trace her.

The Hon. Lionel Guest said to a NEW YORK TIMES correspondent to-night:

"Of course, we are delighted to know that Miss Dodge has been found. Now all our anxiety is at an end. We had not the remotest idea where she went until late this evening, when, in response to a message, I went to a house not far from the Marble Arch in which she had obtained lodgings. I saw Miss Dodge, and it appears that she had noticed a report of her disappearance in an evening paper and had at once communicated with us.

"Miss Dodge is perfectly well. She has not decided on any particular business or profession as yet. She has not had time to do so, as she has been from home only for six days. Miss Dodge gave me no specific reason why she went away and said nothing about staying away."

It is said that Miss Dodge frequently told friends that she felt she ought to earn her own living. Working girls did it, she said, and she was tired of living on her relatives and of the eternal succession of social engagements. When she went away she took her maid with her.

Mrs. Guest was in the country at the time of her daughter's departure and did not learn that she was not at a friend's house, as supposed, until yesterday.

"Lucy often threatened to leave home," said Mrs. Guest to a NEW YORK TIMES correspondent to-day, before the girl was found. "She said she wanted to earn her own living, and we had several spirited interviews on the subject, for I don't think the child quite knows what she really wants to do. I do not think she is a suffragette. She has lived in New York, and has American ideas about women working.

"I am not afraid of her coming to harm. She has money with her. I am going out to dinner to-night and am fulfilling my social obligations as usual. The reason why I invoked the assistance of the police in finding Lucy is that I have not confidence that she can make a career for herself in a hurry."

Miss Dodge is 22 years old. She was born in New York and made her London début at her mother's house in Seymour Street. She is very popular in society. She is a tall, handsome girl of slim build, with light brown hair and blue eyes. She left home last Thursday, supposedly to visit friends in the country, but did not arrive there. Letters from her, postmarked at points in London, have been received at he rhome daily. They gave no address.

SENATOR AGAIN ACCUSED.

Copies of Woman's Charges Sent to All His Colleagues.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Vice President Marshall, having declined to place before the Senate an affidavit made by J. R. Jacobs, former Democratic National Committeeman from Oklahoma, charging a United States Senator with having attacked a married woman, the husband of the woman who accused the Senator has sent to every member of the Senate a letter in which he says: "I shall never rest until the accused is brought to justice."

The letter is accompanied by an affidavit sworn to by the woman in the case, in which she declares:

"A crime was perpetrated on the 24th day of last March in this city by a member of the Senate. The crime was committed against the law, and I am the disconsolate and heartbroken victim. I have lived an honest and virtuous life, am a member of the Baptist Church in my home city, and have always been respected by my neighbors.

The affidavit goes on to say that the affiant had an interview with the accused Senator at his office on or about March 15, and later by appointment he called on her at her hotel.

The affiant says that the Senator and herself went to her room because the parlor was crowded, and when she entered the Senator took a chair. She continues:

"We first conversed for some time about patronage and the Senator began to make improper advances, and I reprimanded him and he apologized. * * * I was so greatly embarrassed I scarcely knew what to do, so I began talking, hoping to terminate the meeting."

TROOPS OUT TO END RIOTS IN BUFFALO

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, April 8.—After a day of almost continuous riots, the city and county authorities admitted to-night that the trolley strike situation was beyond their control. At 10:30 o'clock an order was issued calling out the entire Sixty-fifth and Seventy-fourth Regiments of the National Guard. It is thought that will be followed by an order for Troop I. of the First Cavalry. Major Gen. O'Ryan arrived from Albany to-night and is in charge of the situation. In an hour after the order was issued the troops were armed and ready for duty. They were dispatched to guard the threatened car barns and to do picket duty in sections of the city where the rioting had been the worst. The International Railway Company will make another effort to-morrow to run cars under protection of the State troops.

The day was one of wild disorder. The mobs, which had confined their outbreaks to the outskirts, invaded the centre of the city and attacked every car that was running. Dozens of men are in hospitals as the result of pitched battles. After three hours of rioting the length of Broadway, the trolley company withdrew all other cars and confined its efforts to keeping the Main Street line open. Even that failed, for as fast as a car was sent out the strikers and sympathizers wrecked it. President Connette asserted tonight that 400 cars had been damaged.

Two attacks were made on Police Chief Regan. Bullets were fired into his automobile, none of which took effect. A half dozen persons were shot in the riots. Francis Murphy, 13 years old, is dying with a bullet in his groin. John Terry of New York, a strikebreaker, is dying from a skull fracture inflicted in an attack on his car. Many others have been hurt. Every ambulance in the city has been on the jump. The police were to-night unable to give an adequate idea of the number of persons hurt.

There was vicious rioting in Forest Avenue to-night. The troops were sent there to quell the trouble. An attack was made on the Cold Springs barn. Many strikebreakers fled into the street, only to be beaten by a mob.

After dark not a carwheel turned in the city. The mobs concentrated their activities on the car barns where strikebreakers were quartered.

Trouble is expected early to-morrow, when a new effort is made to run cars. Every suburban line is tied up. There has been trouble at Tonawanda and Niagara Falls. Company K of the Seventy-fourth Regiment is on duty in Tonawanda to-night.

Two women were burned badly when a mob tore down a trolley wire downtown this afternoon. There were many cases of stone throwing. Cars were stalled in all parts of the city when mobs put the crews to flight.

Chief Regan's automobile was attacked by a mob with increasing boldness in Broadway to-night. Several shots were fired, two of which struck the tonneau in which the Chief was riding. Policemen with revolvers dispersed the mob.

All efforts to get the strike leaders and officials of the company together hto2 discuss arbitration failed. There was thought to be little hope of a speedy termination of the tie-up. The strike leaders expressed willingness to submit their grievances to arbitration. The company officials took the position that they had sufficient men to operate their cars and made repeated demands on the Sheriff and the Mayor that troops be called out. Police protection, they assert, was totally inadequate. The only concession the company was willing to make was contained in this statement given out by President E. G. Connette:

> President Connette desires to announce through the press to any and all of the former employes of the International Railway Company that he will be glad to confer with them at any time regarding wages and working conditions after they have returned to work and resumed the regular operation of the cars.

Mayor Louis P. Fuhrmann invited strike leaders, police officials, and representatives of the company to participate in a conference in his office to-night. At the appointed hour no representative of the company appeared. The meeting was adjourned.

Chief Regan swore in 200 additional policemen to-night.

Employes of the Buffalo & Lake Erie Traction Company, numberirng 110 men, went out in sympathy with the International strikers. The road operates through many manufacturing centres between Buffalo and Erie, Penn.

WOMAN BLOCKS DIGGERS.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, N. J., April 8.—Mrs. Rachel Neill is willing to spend time and money and put herself to much inconvenience to prevent her neighbor, Isaac H. Blanchard, from connecting the garage back of his house with the city sewers. She left her office at the Neill planing mill to-day and spent several hours standing in a trench that workmen had dug, defying them to go further. They went no further, but William A. Lord, counsel for Mr. Blanchard, applied for an injunction to restrain Mrs. Neill from interfering with the work.

Mrs. Neill was Treasurer of the Progressive party in Orange last fall, of which Mr. Lord was the head in this city.

The lane through which Mr. Blancnard wants to run the sewer pipe is back of both houses. Both parties have the use of the lane, but neither may obstruct it. Upon that provision of her deed Mrs. Neill has opposed the opening of the ditch.

HOUSE DEMOCRATS REJECT OPEN CAUCUS

Publicity in Party Conferences, Advocated by President, Is Tabled After Hot Debate.

LEADERS CHIEF OPPONENTS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The Democrats of the House, after a long contest behind closed doors, late this afternoon tabled a proposal for open party caucuses. This action was taken despite the fact that President Wilson was understood to be in favor of giving full publicity to all party caucus transactions.

Representative Palmer of Pennsylvania and Representative Carlin of Virginia led the fight for the adoption of a resolution offered by Mr. Carlin seeking to throw open the doors of all Democratic caucuses to the general public. Chairman Underwood and Representatives Fitzgerald of New York and Sherley of Kentucky, all leaders on the Democratic side, vigorously opposed the open caucus idea and voted to table the resolution.

The vote by which the proposal was tabled was 167 to 84. The action was regarded as an Administration defeat, but was not intended as such. Those who voted down the resolution said they were opposed to it because they did not believe such a revolutionary change should now be effected.

The Democrats got themselves into a general tangle over the open caucus project. Representative Shackleford of Missouri offered a resolution providing that the President of the United States and members of his Cabinet be invited to attend the caucus in which the tariff is to be discussed. Representative Carlin moved that the doors of the tariff caucus and of all subsequent caucuses be thrown wide open and the public admitted. Representative Hays of Virginia moved that both of these resolutions be referred to a caucus committee for consideration. Representative Hobson of Alabama moved, as a substitute, that the Carlin measure be referred to a special committee with instructions to report back a resolution providing that only the tariff caucus be made public.

The debate waged back and forth for nearly three hours, and then Representative Thomas of Kentucky moved that all pending resolutions be laid on the table. On a roll call the Thomas motion was carried by a vote of 167 to 84, and the caucus adjourned until to-morrow at noon with the understanding that the Underwood Tariff bill would then be considered.

The line of argument in favor of the open caucus was that the public demanded publicity in legislative affairs and should be taken into the confidence of the party. The opponents of the open caucus argued that it would not be wise to open the doors because it would advise the "enemy" of the line of battle.

By the "enemy" they meant the Republican and Progressive Parties. It was contended that caucuses were held for handling differences within political parties, and that they should be closed, so that every member might freely express his views. Some members insisted that it would hardly be fair to allow a man's expressions in caucus to be made public when his views might be overriden by caucus vote.

It was recalled that two years ago the Democrats changed the caucus rules by providing for publicity on all recorded votes and resolutions in caucuses. The leaders thought this was as far as the party should now go in disclosing caucus transactions.

The Democrats in the Senate practically completed to-day the radical reforms they planned at the March session for the rules governing the organization of the Senate. All the Senate resolutions were formally adopted by the Democratic conference to-day, with the exception of the resolution providing for the election of committee chairmen by the committees.

That resolution was laid aside owing to the absence of its author, Senator Luke Lea of Tennessee.

The changes adopted to-day practically abolish all the powers of Chairmen of committees and of the Chairman of the conference. The majority of every committee is authorized to select conferees to represent the Senate in regard to bills that have been considered by that committee, and to elect all sub-committees for detailed investigations within the jurisdiction of the full committee.

The party steering committee hereafter will be elected by the party conference, and vacancies in any committee will be filled by the steering committee with the approval of the full conference.

FIGHT AT NAVAL ACADEMY.

First-Year Man Punches His Hazer, Who May Be Dismissed.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 8.—A fight between a member of the third class and one of the fourth class at the Naval Academy is the subject of an investigation started to-day.

It is said that Midshipman Lawrence, a fourth class man, was compelled to do the severe physical exercise known as "the 16" by a third class man. His performance did not please the upper classman, who, it is said, laid hands on the young fellow to make his command plainer. This was resented with a blow that led to a fight.

Should the upper classman be found guilty of the offense, his infraction would be plainly within the definition of "brutal" hazing, which calls for dismissal from the service.

FAINTS ON THE PLATFORM.

Mrs. Medill McCormick Collapses While Speaking at a Labor Meeting.

CHICAGO, April 8.—Mrs. Medill McCormick, daughter of the late Mark A. Hanna, collapsed to-night while urging 300 girls employed in department stores to organize. The meeting was at the Musicians' Club, and Mrs. McCormick had been talking only about five minutes when she fell into the arms of the Chairman, Miss Mary McDowell.

She was carried to an adjoining room and a physician summoned, who worked over her for fifteen minutes before she revived. Later Mrs. McCormick recovered from her indisposition.

Andrew Carnegie was elected last evening to honorary membership in the Honor Legion of the Police Department. This was in recognition of his distributing among the legion members copies of the Richard Watson Gilder peace poem, which he read at the legion dinner in January.

RAILWAY WAGE CONFERENCE

Committee Representing Fifty-two Roads to Meet Men.

CLEVELAND, April 8.—A conference committee with authority to speak for the fifty-two railroads east of Chicago and north of the Ohio River will meet with the heads of the Order of Railroad Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen in New York on April 22 next to settle wage demands. These demands were presented last January. They are said to be for standard wage rates for men performing the same service on roads of similar grade, and to include a demand for a 15 per cent. increase.

WOMEN CONTROL TYRO.

COFFEYVILLE, Kan., April 8.—The election of a woman Mayor and a majority of women in the Council of Tyro, a small town west of here, was assured by complete election returns today of yesterday's polling.

Mrs. H. C. Defenbaugh was elected Mayor. Mrs. E. F. Herring, Mrs. Myra Newton, and Mrs. Maggie Park were elected to the Council. The women's ticket was designated Independent on the ballot, and competed with Progressive and Citizens' tickets.

The women's platform called for a "clean-up" of the town, better street lighting, and an annual audit of town books.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 8.—Having failed to pay tax on his dog in 1912 Mayor Shank was arrested to-day by Miss Clarine Emery, a deputy constable, and was ordered to appear for trial next Monday. The arrest surprised the Mayor, but he submitted gracefully and offered to give bond, but the fair deputy said that would not be necessary.

The young woman told the Mayor that nearly 1,000 warrants had been issued against persons who failed to pay their dog tax last year. She also dropped a sly little hint that she was entitled to a fee of $2 in each case where the defendant was required to pay a fine.

"I certainly have a lot of trouble with that pup," said the Mayor. "The other day he got out on the street without a collar or a license tag, and was taken to the pound. I intend to put a collar, license tag and muzzle on him, get a receipt for the tax and then chain the dog to a post."

GIRL STOWAWAY ARRIVES.

Came on a Coal Barge from Boston to See the Sights.

When the Lackawanna coal barge Canisteo tied up at the Port Johnson coal docks in Bayonne yesterday a little girl, a stowaway, who had secreted herself in the barge before it sailed from Boston, with the desire to see New York, was led off the barge by Capt. Carl Rauch.

The girl is Beatrice Rahl of 20 Peters Street, Cambridge, Mass., and a niece of the Captain's wife. Skipper Rauch said the girl boarded the barge while it was unloading in Boston. She expressed a desire to see New York, and asked the Captain to take her as a passenger. He refused, and turned away to give some orders.

That night Charles Jepson, a deckhand, heard cries coming from the direction of the coal bunkers. He discovered little Miss Rahl cuddled up in a corner crying. He got the child out of the bunkers and brought her before the Captain. She thought she was going to get a spanking, but Capt. Rauch instead gave her a big piece of apple pie.

The Captain said that he would see that the girl obtained her wish to explore New York.

SHERIFF AIDED HAGGIN.

How Lieut. Ben Ali Got Full Attendance at Military Inspection.

Lieut. Ben Ali Haggin of Company H, Twelfth Infantry, N. G. N. Y., adopted an unusual method for having a full company at the annual inspection of the Second Battalion last night. He appeared yesterday afternoon at the office of Sheriff Harburger in full uniform, accompanied by his Quartermaster Sergeant, also in uniform.

"I want James O'Reilly, my Quartermaster Sergeant here, made a special Deputy, so he can start out and round up six or seven members of my company, who I think are going to absent themselves from inspection to-night, and I want O'Reilly to go around with his deputy badge on and scare them into coming"

"But," objected the Sheriff, "you know he could not do anything if they wouldnt come."

"I know it, but I think the badge will work," said the Lieutenant, and as he was able to give $10,000 security that O'Reilly would do nothing in violation of the laws, Sheriff Harburger swore O'Reilly in, and the Quartermaster Sergeant started to get the delinquents. He got most of his men.

CONGRESS CHEERS GREET WILSON

EVENT FREE FROM POMP

ALSO ADMONISHES CAUTION

Explains He Wishes to be Known as Person Rather Than Mere Arm of the Government.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—For the first time within the life of any person now alive, unless it be true that there are people living who are more than 112 years old, a President of the United States to-day appeared before the two houses of Congress, assembled in joint session, and in person gave them "information of the state of the Union," and recommended to their consideration "such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient," as required by the Federal Constitution.

In other words, President Wilson delivered as an oral address the message he had prepared for the guidance of Congress in the extra session which convened yesterday. Thus he revived the practice born of the British "address from the throne," established in this country by the first President, continued by the second, and abandoned by the third, and, as he said in the opening sentence of his address, verifying for himself "the impression that the President of the United States is a person and not a mere department of the Government."

The announcement that the President of the United States would apear in the hall of the House of Representatives to communicate with Congress in spoken words instead of in writing, drew a big crowd to the Capitol building. The galleries for spectators were jammed and the corridors outside of them were filled with people who vainly sought to obtain admission. The floor of the House was crowded, too, for the entire membership of the Senate had seats there along with the Representatives. There ceremony itself was very brief and exceedingly simple. President Wilson was present in the House not quite ten minutes, and the preliminaries covered only a period measured in seconds.

Ceremony Free from Display.

To rob the affair of as much formality as possible and make it wholly free from ostentatious display, the President went to the Capitol unaccompanied by any one save James Sloan, his faithful Secret Service guard. His secretary, Joseph P. Tumulty, went from the White House to the big building on Capitol Hill in his own motor car. Such members of the Cabinet as attended the session made their way to the Capitol as they pleased. The scene on the floor of the House was in striking contrast to that in the Senate Chamber on March 4, when Woodrow Wilson witnessed the inauguration of Thomas R. Marshall as Vice President of the United States, preliminary to his own installation in the office of President on the open-air stand at the east front of the building. The inaugural ceremonials brought together in the Senate Chamber the members of the Diplomatic Corps, nearly all of whom were in gay uniforms; the Chief Justice and the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States, in their sombre robes of office; high ranking officers of the army and navy, in full-dress uniform, and a host of distinguished persons.

To-day in the house the ceremonial, if it may properly be called that, was of the plainest character. There were no uniforms worn by those who sat on the floor, and the whole proceedings had about them an air of democratic simplicity. There was plenty of color, however, in the galleries, where the dresses of the women spectators, mostly the wives and daughters of Senators and Representatives, made a riot of color, with blue in all its shades predominating.

Mrs. Wilson and Daughters There.

Mrs. Wilson and her three daughters were there, occupying seats in the executive gallery. The President's wife sat in what is known as "the President's pew" in the very first row of this reserved gallery space. With her was John E. Wilson, the President's cousin. In the row behind Mrs. Wilson sat ex-Gov. Joseph W. Folk of Missouri, who leaned over occasionally and talked to her. Mrs. Marshall, the wife of the Vice President, and also the wives of several of the Cabinet officers, were in the executive gallery. Mr. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury; Attorney General McReynolds, Mr. Burleson, the Postmaster General; Mr. Garrison, the Secretary of War, and Mr. Daniels, the Secretary of the Navy, sat with a throng of Senators and Representatives on the floor. Mr. Lane, the Secretary of the Interior, was in the executive gallery with Mrs. Lane.

The demand for seats in the House gallery was so great that the officers of the two chambers of Congress decided to exclude from the Capitol building all visitors who did not have special cards of admission.

These cards were blue, and the rule against those who did not have them was rigidly enforced. As a result there was a clamoring crowd of fashionably dressed women and frock-coated men at the main entrance to the House wing of the Capitol. Nearly all of these claimed admission by right of relationship or intimate friendship with some distinguished person, or insisted that the cards entitling them to admission to the galleries on ordinary days were perfectly good for to-day.

Smiles at Crowd's Applause.

When the White House automobile, bearing the President and his secret service guard, reached the entrance to the House several hundred persons there applauded and got a smile and a wave of the hand in response. The President immediately was escorted to the room of Speaker Clark, where he was greeted by a committee of the House, consisting of Representatives Underwood, Palmer and Mann. He remained there until the House was ready to receive him.

It was just 12:50 o'clock, twenty minutes after the time set for the joint assembling of the Senate and House, that Joseph Sinnott, the House doorkeeper, stepped into the main aisle of the chamber and announced: "The Vice President of the United States and members of the United States Senate."

Speaker Clark rapped with his gavel, and the members of the Senate filed in, headed by Vice President Marshall and Mr. Baker, the Senate Secretary. The members of the House had moved out of the first two rows of benches, leaving them for the Senators, and the latter filed in and took these vacant places. Vice President Marshall was accommodated in a big arm chair at the right of Speaker Clark.

When the Senators had been seated the Representatives sat down, and then Speaker Clark announced that at the request of Vice President Marshall he would appoint Senators Kern, Bacon and Gallinger a committee to join the House Committee and escort the President of the United States to the House. A few minutes later, or at exactly three minutes to 1 o'clock, President Wilson appeared, accompanied by the joint committee of the two Houses. He came through the entrance to the left and in the rear of the Speaker's rostrum, and made his way quickly toward Speaker Clark. Everybody on the floor and nearly everybody in the galleries stood as the President entered, and there was general hand clapping.

Shakes Hands With Clark.

Mr. Wilson shook hands with Speaker Clark and Vice President Marshall, and then took his stand at the Reading Clerk's desk just below the Speaker's chair.

Speaker Clark rapped with his gavel again. This was a signal for everybody to sit down. Without further ceremony the Speaker said:

"I have the distinguished honor of introducing the President of the United States."

Everybody applauded again, and President Wilson bowed.

The President wore a black frockcoat and light trousers. His cravat was a gray four-in-hand. There was nothing about him to denote that he was ill at ease, and, in fact, throughout the reading of his address there was no tremor in his voice or anything to show that he regarded the occasion as anything to be worried about.

The President preceded the reading of his formal message, which had been prepared a couple of weeks in advance, by a few remarks explanatory of his action of reading the message in person. His voice was low, but clear, and reached every part of the chamber. He said:

Mr. Speaker, Mr. President, gentlemen of the Congress:

I am very glad indeed to have this opportunity to address the two houses directly, and to verify for myself the impression that the President of the United States is a person, not a mere department of the Government hailing Congress from some isolated island of jealous power, sending messages, not speaking naturally and with his own voice, that he is a human being trying to co-operate with other human beings in a common service. After this pleasant experience I shall feel quite normal in all our dealings with one another.

I have called the Congress together in extraordinary session because a duty was laid upon the party now in power at the recent elections which it ought to perform promptly, in order that the burden carried by the people under existing law may be lightened as soon as possible and in order, also, that the business interests of the country may not be kept too long in suspense as to what the fiscal changes are to be to which they will be required to adjust themselves.

It is clear to the whole country that the tariff duties must be altered. They must be changed to meet the radical alteration in the conditions of our economic life which the country has witnessed within the last generation. While the whole face and method of our industrial and commercial life were being changed beyond recognition the tariff schedules have remained what they were before the change began, or have moved in the direction they were given when no large circumstance of our industrial development was what it is to-day. Our task is to square them with the actual facts. The sooner that is done the sooner we shall escape from suffering from the facts and the sooner our men of business will be free to thrive by the law of nature (the nature of free business) instead of by the law of legislation and artificial arrangement.

Built Up System of Privileges.

We have seen tariff legislation wander very far afield in our day—very far indeed from the field in which our prosperity might have had a normal growth and stimulation. No one who looks the facts squarely in the face or knows anything that lies beneath the surface of action can fail to perceive the principles upon which recent tariff legislation has been based. We long ago passed beyond the modest notion of "protecting" the industries of the country and moved boldly forward to the idea that they were entitled to the direct patronage of the Government.

For a long time—a time so long that the men now active in public policy hardly remember the conditions that preceded it—we have sought in our tariff schedules to give each group of manufacturers or producers what they themselves thought that they needed in order to maintain a practically exclusive market as against the rest of the world. Consciously or unconsciously, we have built up a set of privileges and exemptions from competition behind which it was easy by any, even the crudes forms of combination, to organize monopoly; until at last nothing is normal, nothing is obliged to stand the tests of efficiency and economy, in our world of big business, but everything thrives by concerted arrangement. Only new principles of action will save us from a final hard crystallization of monopoly and a complete loss of the influences that quicken enterprise and keep independent energy alive.

It is plain what those principles must be. We must abolish everything that bears even the semblance of privilege or of any kind of artificial advantage, and put our business men and producers under the stimulation of a constant necessity to be efficient, economical, and enterprising, masters of competitive supremacy, better workers and merchants than any in the world. Aside from the duties laid upon articles which we do not, and probably can not, produce, therefore, and the duties laid upon luxuries and merely for the sake of the revenues they yield, the object of the tariff duties henceforth laid must be effective competition the whetting of American wits by contest with the wits of the rest of the world.

It would be unwise to move toward this end headlong, with reckless haste, or with strokes that cut at the very roots of what has grown up among us by long process and at our own invitation. It does not alter a thing to upset it and break it and deprive it of a chance to change. It destroys it. We must make changes in our fiscal laws, in our fiscal system, whose object is development, a more free and wholesome development, not revolution or upset or confusion.

We must build up trade, especially foreign trade. We need the outlet and the enlarged field of energy more than we ever did before. We must build up industry as well, and must adopt freedom in the place of artificial stimulation only so far as it will build, not pull down. In dealing with the tariff the method by which this may be done will be a matter of judgment, exercised item by item. To some not accustomed to the excitements and responsibilities of greater freedom our methods may in some respects and at some points seem heroic, but remedies may be heroic and yet be remedies. It is our business to make sure that they are genuine remedies. Our object is clear. If our motive is above just challenge and only an occasional error of judgment is chargeable against us, we shall be fortunate.

We are called upon to render the country a great service in more matters than one. Our responsibilty should be met and our methods should be through, as through as moderate and well considered, based upon the facts as they are, and not worked out as if we were beginners. We are to deal with the facts of our own day, with the facts of no other, and to make laws which square with those facts. It is best, indeed it is necessary, to begin with the tariff.

I will urge nothing upon you now at the opening of your session which can obscure that first object or divert our engeries from that clearly defined duty. At a later time I may take the liberty of calling your attention to reforms which should press close upon the heels of the tariff changes, if not accompany them, of which the chief is the reform of our banking and currency laws; but just now I refrain. For the present I put these matters on one side and think only of this one thing—of the changes in our fiscal system which may best serve to open once more the free channels of prosperity to a great people whom we would serve to the utmost and throughout both rank and file.

There was a round of handclapping when the President finished this extemporaneous introduction. Apparently the audience liked its sentiment. For Mr. Wilson's convenience the address had been printed on small slips of paper with wide spaces between the lines. There were scarcely 100 words on each sheet. He read in a sort of conversational tone and made no attempt at oratorical effect.

When he had finished he thrust the copy of his message into the inside pocket of his coat, and, bowing to the audience, said:

"I sincerely thank you for your courtesy."

Scarcely half the audience realized that the affair was over, when President Wilson had turned from the stand and was bowing to Speaker Clark. Practically everybody on the floor and in the galleries applauded. Before the President had disappeared through the door to the left of the Speaker's rostrum, Mr. Sinnott, the doorkeeper, called out: "The Vice President and the Senate," and Senators were retiring, led by Vice President Marshall.

The galleries cleared, and President Wilson, after going to Speaker Clark's room again to get his hat, went back to the White House. The delivery of the speech had occupied only nine minutes, and within five minutes after the President's departure the House had adjourned and members had left the floor.

POPULAR ELECTION OF SENATORS SURE

WILSON AND BRYAN PLEASED

Maryland Will Probably Be the First State in Which Direct Choice Will Be Made.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The State Department received a telegram to-day telling of the action of the Connecticut Legislature in ratifying the Constitutional amendment providing for the election of United States Senators by the direct vote of the people in the States. Connecticut is the thirty-sixth of the forty-eight States of the Union to approve the amendment, thus assuring the three-fourths required under the language of the Constitution for the amendment of that instrument.

When the information was conveyed to President Wilson he expressed his pleasure and said: "I am sincerely glad that the amendment has been ratified so promptly and a reform so long fought for accomplished."

Secretary Bryan was manifestly delighted at the intelligence.

"If the report be true," said Mr. Bryan, "it makes the thirty-sixth State, according to the unofficial report. But we have received official notification from but twenty-two States. The State Department will take no action until it receives official notification from all the States which are reported to have ratified the amendment. I am very much pleased to learn that the amendment has been ratified. I had no doubt that it would be, but a fact is better than a prediction, even when the prediction rests upon as sure foundation as that one. I believe Massachusetts was the first State to vote for the amendment, and if it is true that Connecticut has been the last one whose vote was necessary to ratification, then New England can claim to have been the Alpha and Omega of the ratification, although it was not at the laboring oar during the twenty years of struggle for this great reform."

The thirty-six States that have ratified the popular elections amendment are: Arkansas, Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Missouri, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, and Wyoming.

The provisions of the latest addition to the Constitution will probably be tried out first in Maryland, where a fight is on to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Senator Isidor Rayner.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 8.—By a vote of 150 to 77, the House at 1 o'clock this afternoon passed the bill ratifying the Federal Constitutional amendment for the election of United States Senators by the people, and five minutes later the Democratic Senate enthusiastically concurred in ratifying the amendment, which was then hurried to the engrossing clerk. Connecticut's action was at once communicated to Washington.

PROVIDENCE, April 8.—Rhode Island will not ratify the amendment to the Federal Constitution providing for the direct election of United States Senators. This was decided at a meeting of the Republican Steering Committee of the Senate to-day. The resolution to ratify passed the House and was in the hands of the Senate Committee on Judiciary, which stood 5 to 2 against reporting it.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The new amendment to the Constitution is the seventeenth to be adopted. It reads:

> The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, elected by the people thereof, for six years, and each Senator shall have one vote. The Electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for Electors of the most numerous branch of the State Legislatures.
> When vacancies happen in the representation of any State in the Senate, the executive authority of such State shall issue writes of election to fill such vacancies, provided that the Legislature of any State may empower the Executive thereof to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election as the Legislature may direct.

For more than sixty years proposals have been made to change the Constitution so as to provide for the direct election of Senators. It was not, however, until June 24, 1911, that the Senate was induced for the first time in its history to give its consent to the change. On that day it voted to submit to the States the proposed amendment.

CONTROLLER OPPOSES TIPS.

Refuses to Approve Military Attache's Gratuities in Rome.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Lieut. Col. J. F. Reynolds Landis, United States military attaché at Rome, tipped the doorkeeper of the American Embassy in the Eternal City, only to find that his Government would not be responsible for the expenditure.

Each of the three quarterly accounts of the officer contained $1.93 for these tips. The Controller of the Treasury to-day held that gratuities to a doorkeeper were not authorized by law.

At a late hour to-night the Pope's condition was said to have materially improved, partly owing to the fact that he had remained confined to his bed, and, with the exception of Cardinal Merry del Val, his sisters, and a niece, had received no visitors during the day.

At 7 o'clock last evening the Pope retired to his study. He had complained of feeling over-tired. At just what hour he was overcome by a fainting spell has not been learned, but members of the household, rushing to his assistance, realized that his condition was serious and became greatly alarmed, as no physician was present. Father Presdocimo, the Vatican chemist, was called and administered stimulants, which revived the Pontiff.

Dr. Andrea Amici was hastily summoned and was followed by Prof. Marchiafava. They found that the Pope had already been put to bed, but was still suffering from a recurrence of the faintness. Finding that the action of the heart was weak, they injected strophanthus, which restored him.

Pope's Sisters Summoned.

The sisters and niece of the Pontiff were notified immediately and went at once to the Vatican. They remained at the bedside for only a few minutes.

By order of the physicians all audiences were suspended and the Pope remained in bed throughout the day, with the result that a steady improvement was noted. On his last visit to-night, Dr. Marchiafava found the conditions satisfactory, although the Pontiff was extremely weak.

Cardinal Merry del Val in reply to questions concerning the exact condition of the Pope asserted that the official statement was absolutely correct. He said that the Pope was suffering only from another slight attack of influenza, which had caused an insignificant rise in temperature. This condition, he added, needed greater care than the former attack, and a more prolonged rest. It indicated that the constitution of the Pontiff, which he considered strong, was easily affected by any excessive fatigue or atmospheric changes, which were especially noticeable in these days, when the vagaries of the weather brought Summer heat one day and cold and rain the next.

"I feel sure," said the Papal Secretary, "that with extreme care, helped by the prayers of the faithful, the Holy Father will be spared long for the glory of the Church."

Prof. Marchiafava, in an interview to-night, said that alarm was not justified. He expressed the hope that the attending physicians would be able to overcome the disease quickly, if the Pontiff had complete rest.

The sisters of the Pope, who had again visited the Vatican, departed shortly before 10 o'clock to-night, much relieved that the Pope was apparently making favorable progress. They sent a telegram, however, to their brother Angelo, advising him to come to Rome.

For years the Pope has suffered from gout, with uraemic symptoms and fainting spells, the latter gradually increasing in gravity and frequency. It must be remembered, however, that only a few days after his election to the pontificate Pope Pius fainted in the Pauline Chapel while hearing mass. If the Pope, as is hoped, succeeds in recovering from the present attack, it is stated that he must definitely abandon all fatiguing ceremonies, even audiences, which, the doctors declare, would result in grave consequences.

The Pope manifested deep grief when informed that he must suspend all audiences. Frequently to-day he repeated how sorry he was not to see old friends from Treviso, adding in the Venetian dialect: "I am no more use, either to myself or others."

The pilgrims were distressed not to be able to see the Pope and remained around the Vatican the whole day, notwithstanding a downpour of rain. They exchanged salutations with the sisters of the Pope in the Venetian dialect, and then entered St. Peter's to pray for the recovery of the Holy Father.

Yesterday the Pope, who had resumed his ordinary routine of life, received, among others, Cardinal Katschthaler, Archbishop of Salzberg, with whom he joked, remarking that the newspapers had attributed to him all kinds of illness and disabilities. He said:

"They have written that my legs are so affected that I cannot walk. Look at me." So saying, he walked about the room. He added:

"They have printed that my throat, bronchial tubes, and lungs are so bad that I cannot speak; while now you hear me. Besides, my whole trouble could hardly be called illness, as my temperature never rose about 99. The fact is, my real disease is old age."

To this Cardinal Katschthaler replied that he himself was suffering from the same disease in an aggravated form, as he was two years older than the Pontiff.

CANAL BILL IN AGAIN.

Senator Root to Renew Fight Against Toll Remission.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Senator Root has reintroduced his bill of last session for repeal of that provision of the new Panama Canal law which gives American coastwise ships freedom from toll charges.

Representative Sims to-day reintroduced his bill to abolish the Commerce Court, and another to repeal the clause of the Panama Canal Act, exempting American coastwise ships from tolls. He will endeavor to have both approved as caucus measures.

Senator Thomas to-day introduced a bill designed to provide that in all civil or criminal actions under the Sherman law, whether pending or yet to be begun, the United States courts shall interpret the Sherman law "according to its terms, language, and provisions as the same was originally enacted and not otherwise." The bill is aimed at the Supreme Court's "rule of reason," as introduced in the Standard Oil case.

Senator Works to-day reintroduced his bill for a Constitutional amendment to limit the President's tenure to one six-year term.

FOR BIG INHERITANCE TAX.

Proposal to Take 50 Per Cent. of Fortunes Above $15,000,000.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—An inheritance tax that would run as high as 50 per cent. on fortunes over $15,000,000 was proposed in a bill introduced in the Senate to-day by Senator Jones of Washington. The measure would impose inheritance tax on all estates except where the bequest is to members of the immediate family, in which case there would be an exemption of $25,000 and a reduced tax rate.

The general inheritance tax proposed is as follows: On estates of less than $5,000, 1 per cent.; from $5,000 to $50,000, 2 per cent.; from $50,000 to $250,000, 5 per cent.; from $250,000 to $750,000, 10 per cent.; from $750,000 to $1,500,000, 15 per cent.; from $1,500,000 to $3,000,000, 20 per cent.; from $3,000,000 to $7,000,000, 25 per cent.; from $7,000,000 to $15,000,000, 40 per cent.; above $15,000,000, 50 per cent.

THE LAW IN X-RAY SUITS.

Plaintiff Must Prove the Negligence of the Physician.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—In the firs decision ever made by the Supren Court in regard to the use of X-rays court to-day held that the burden on the plaintiff, in suits for damage sulting from the use of X-rays, to s that the physician, or defendant, negligent, and the physician in s suits need not show that he was negligent. The decision was mad the suit of Anne Sweeney of this who sued a local physician for dama for an X-ray burn. In the lower c she received no damages.

CITY RECORD ADVERTISING

Some One Trying to Sell Space in Official Paper to Merchants.

Mayor Gaynor instructed the Police Commissioner yesterday to begin an investigation of the charge that some one had been trying to sell advertising space in The City Record.

David Ferguson, Supervisor of The Record, told the Mayor that he had received several complaints from merchants that a man had been going around saying that the law had been changed to permit of advertising in the city's publication, and had tried to collect money from them, guaranteeing them preferred position, "next to reading matter."

MR. HULL TELLS HOW TO PAY INCOME TAX

Author of Measure Untangles Some Knots for the Public's Benefit.

MAIN DUTY ON EMPLOYERS

Government Will Require Corporations to Withhold Tax from Their Employes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The income tax section of the new Underwood Tariff bill attracted as much attention to-day as the section that dealt with tariff rates.

Every member of Congress has a direct interest in the income tax scheme because they will be taxable on their salaries of $7,500 after deducting the $4,000 which is exempt under the Hull scheme of income taxation. With pencil and pad members and others set to work trying to figure out how much they would be required to pay. Many of them sought out Representative Cordell Hull of Tennessee, author of the income tax section of the Underwood bill. The administrative features of the income tax, how they will work, what the taxed individual must do, what internal revenue collectors will do, were as puzzling almost to the average man as the method of computing the tax.

These complications are due mainly to the so-called grading of the tax and the plan of having it collected at the source of the income wherever possible. The object of collecting the tax at the source is to enable the Government to be sure that is going to get the tax from a certain class of incomes; also, to cut down the expense and difficulty of the Federal Government in collecting a vast portion of the tax.

Representative Hull explained to-day that much confusion about the income tax might be avoided if one bore in mind that the normal income tax of 1 per cent. was to be paid by all classes subject to the tax, individuals as well as corporations, but that only the incomes of individuals were to be subjected to the various surtaxes. The incomes of corporations are to bear only the "normal" income tax, and are not subject to the so-called "surtaxes." All individuals have an exemption of $4,000, but there is no exemption allowed to the corporations. In framing the law it was decided that it would be better to tax all corporations without fixing a limit below which small corporations would be exempt from the tax.

Pay to Revenue Collector.

The tax is to be collected through the internal revenue division of the Treasury Department, which now collects the taxes on tobacco, cigars, liquors, oleomargarine and similar objects of internal revenue. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue will have direction and supervision over the collection of the income tax. He likewise has been in charge of the collection of the corporation tax for the past four years. Mr. Cabell, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, has found that the corporation tax was the easiest of all taxes to collect.

The Commissioner will be required to issue forms and regulations for the collection of the income tax, and these regulations will indicate in everyday language, and very specifically, just how and where the tax must be paid and upon what it is to be paid. The regulations will indicate clearly who are to make returns and pay the tax direct to the Government and those whose incomes are not to be returned by themselves, but which are to be collected at the source.

The tax will be payable at the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue in the district where the individual paying the tax resides, providing the individual pays his tax direct.

That portion of the tax which is to be collected at the source must be paid in the district in which that source of payment resides. Corporations will pay to the Collector of Internal Revenue in the district where they are situated.

Payment at the source must be made in the case of all income which have a fixed annual basis. This is provided for in the paragraph of the bill which says that "all persons, firms, corporations, copartnerships, companies, joint stock companies or associations and insurance companies, in whatever capacity acting, including lessees or mortgagees of real and personal property and others having control of the payment of interest, rent, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensation, remuneration, emoluments, or other fixed or determinable annual gains, profits, and income, exceeding $4,000 for any taxable year, other than dividends on capital stock, who are required to make and render a return in behalf of another, as required by the income tax law, shall deduct and withhold from such annual income such sum as will be sufficient to pay the normal income tax proposed to be imposed."

The income must be fixed and determinable, and must extend over the period of an entire year, in order to be collectable at the source.

Collecting at the Source.

If an individual working for a corporation receives an annual salary of $10,000, which is a fixed and determinable gain, and the relation of that individual, subject to the income tax, is a continuous business relationship lasting for a year, then that tax must be paid at the source. The corporation which pays to this individual his $10,000 salary is required by the proposed law to make a return to the Collector of Internal Revenue, and also to pay the tax. In making such return the corporation which is paying the tax for the man must state under oath that it pays such salary to the individual. It also becomes the duty of the corporation to withhold from the $10,000 salary such sum as is necessary for the tax.

The income tax law, as drafted, would make it the duty of the salaried man to file with the corporation an affidavit claiming the benefit of the $4,000 exemption which the law allows to the individual. This affidavit must be filed with the corporation at least thirty days before the day on which the return on his income is due. In all cases where the income of a person is withheld, deducted, and paid at the source such person will not receive the benefit of the $4,000 exemption unless he makes affidavit claiming it. When the salaried employe files with the corporation his affidavit claming $4,000 exemption the affidavit will be transmitted by the corporation to the Collector of Internal Revenue along with the return which the corporation makes for the individual, and then the exemption of $4,000 will be allowed.

Should it happen that a man has a salary of $10,000 from one source, $5,000 from another, and $1,000 from a third, the tax on the first and second of these salaries will be paid at the source, if these salaries involve an annual business relationship with the firms or persons from which these two incomes were obtained, because in each case the salary is in excess of $4,000, while the tax on the third salary of $1,000 will be paid direct by the man receiving it because it is less than $4,000. In this case the individual will determine whether he wishes the firm paying him $10,000 or the one which pays him $5,000 to claim his exemption of $4,000. Having reached that decision, he indicates to that firm his desire to have it claim his $4,000 exemption, sends in his affidavit of exemption, and that firm pays for him the difference between the salary he receives from that firm and the $4,000 exemption. But the other firm, not having received from the employe an affidavit claiming the benefit of the $4,000 exemption, will pay for this individual 1 per cent. tax on the full amount of his salary.

Pay on Three Salaries.

For example, should the man with three salaries—one of $10,000, one of $5,000, and one of $1,000—send his affidavit claiming exemption to the employer from whom he receives the $10,000 salary his tax would be computed after this fashion: The employer paying him the $10,000 salary would make return for the man, attaching to it the affidavit claiming $4,000 exemption, and would pay for this employe a tax of 1 per cent. on $6,000 amounting to $60,—the second employer would pay for this man the full tax of 1 per cent. on the entire $5,000 salary, or $50 tax, while the employe would make his own return to the collector of internal revenue in the district in which he lives, stating his income of $1,000 upon which the tax of 1 per cent., or $10, is due. In this way the Government would collect from this individual $120 in taxes on his three salaries, two portions of this tax being collected at the two sources of the man's income, the third portion coming from the man himself. The aggregate of his salaries being $16,000, of which $12,000 would be taxable, after the $4,000 exemption is claimed, the Government would be entitled to $120 tax.

It will be seen that, in this instance, $110 of the tax would be paid to the Government without any annoyance to the individual other than sending to one of his income sources an affidavit claiming exemption.

While the tax on individuals is payable only on incomes over and above $4,000, the proposed law would make it the duty of every individual receiving an income of $3,000 to file a return with the Government.

If the tax is payable at the source, the "source" must also file a return showing what income in excess of $3,500 it pays, although it pays the tax only on that part of the income which is over and above $4,000. But if the individual has no income that can be taxed at the source, then it becomes his duty, punishable if he fails to do so, to make a return to the collector of the district in which he resides in all cases where the individual's income exceeds $3,500; though he is taxable only on that part of his income over $4,000.

The tax will be collected first on the incomes received during the calendar year ending Dec. 31, 1913. The individual must make his return before March 1 next. The Treasury must notify the income tax payer, in case of individual incomes, before June 1, 1914, stating the amount he must pay in income taxes, and the tax must be paid on or before June 30, 1914. Corporations are allowed to fix their own fiscal years for income tax purposes, but must make returns within sixty days after their fiscal year's close, and pay their taxes not later than ninety days after returns are filed.

APPROVAL AT COLUMBIA.

Profs. Seager and Lindsay Think $4,000 Exemption Limit too High.

Both the proposed income tax and the tariff measures were heartily approved at Columbia University yesterday. One of the professors, although he did not wish to be quoted, thought that both measures were designed to advance the best interests of the country and would go a long way toward solving many of the perplexing problems which had developed since the McKinley administration.

"The only feature of the income tax that might be improved," said Prof. Seager, Professor of Political Economy, "is the limit on the sums of incomes taxed. I think it would be far better to make the minimum limit at $2,000, having all incomes below that figure exempt. The great advantage of the income tax should be to give citizens a better interest in the affairs of government. In no way save by making a man dive down into his pocketbook and pay out some of his cash can one get people as much interested in National measures as they should be.

"This is not class legislation because the burden on the large income, which will be taxed so heavily, will be more than offset by the indirect tax on people of small incomes. One ground for uneasiness will be the difficulty of collecting the tax. I am struck with the fact that there has been no serious opposition to the plan proposed. It will be very difficult, however, to determine the size of a person's income, especially if that person is anxious to conceal it, and the larger the income the greater the difficulty will be in getting at its sources. I think the administrative features of the act have been well thought out with a view to meeting the difficulty of collecting the tax from people who think they are going to evade it.

"As to the tariff, I favor heartily the proposed changes. They are well considered and certain to go down to the best interests of the country. There is likely to be a reaction during the period of readjustment, but the reaction has largely been discounted, as far as security prices go, because we have had a long time to prepare for it. In fact, our merchants need not fear the reduced tariff very much, because of the great prosperity of European countries, whose producers at the moment have a small surplusage of goods to unload on our market."

"The new measures," said Prof. Samuel C. Lindsay, "will not affect business very markedly, because reduction has been discounted and we have been preparing for it for almost a year. There will be no danger of a panic or any other grave business reaction.

"The principle of taxing necessaries as a means of distributing evenly the cost of government is fallacious, because this kind of tax does not fall evenly, according to the relative ability of those who have to pay it. The income tax is to be welcomed as a fair and more equitable principle of taxation to distribute the burden of governmental expense, but I think the amount of the income to be exempted is too large. By exempting up to $4,000 the income legislation becomes tax legislation.

"In Cleveland's first Administration, when the income tax was first tried, starting at $4,000, the Ohio courts held it unconstitutional because it was class legislation. Of course, this question will not rest in the courts now because the amendment is a constitutional one, but it shows that starting at so high a salary as $4,000 and exempting the great class that comes between $1,000 and $4,000 gives ready material to those who are ready to prove that it is largely class legislation. I think that incomes as low as $1,000 should be taxed with a tax of one-fourth of 1 per cent., the tax grading up to 1 per cent. on $4,000 and then following the present bill."

"Sanatogen has Proven Notably Good for Elderly People"

—Dr. Ernest Ott

THIS well-known physician, medical adviser to the late King Edward and many other famous people, here expresses his experience with the remarkable revitalizing powers of Sanatogen when it was necessary to "build up the strength, stimulate the bodily functions and improve the circulation of the blood."

And in the evening of their lives, men and women who have passed the meridian and find their strength failing, their vitality lessened and their digestion uncertain, have turned to Sanatogen to help them regain strength. That lovable and distinguished grand old man, John Burroughs, famous naturalist and author, is a steadfast friend of Sanatogen. He tells how Sanatogen came as a welcome beacon when the stress of constant effort and mental concentration had undermined his strength and left him lax and tired out. Thanks to Sanatogen, his "sleep is fifty per cent. better and mind and strength much improved."

And we could write pages in quoting from the recorded experiences of other notable middle-aged and elderly people who found in Sanatogen's true combination of revitalizing, upbuilding elements just the needed impetus to gain better digestion, better sleep, stronger nerves and a quiet mental content and physical well-being.

Doesn't all this mean something to you? Do you not feel that Sanatogen will offer you the same grateful natural help—if you are tired, worn out—with nerves exhausted—from the harrowing drain of modern life?

And remember, of the multitude of physicians who are prescribing it, no less than 16,000 have recorded in their letters to us the beneficial effects of Sanatogen upon their patients.

Write for a Free copy of "Nerve Health Regained." If you wish to learn more about Sanatogen before you use it, write for a copy of this booklet, beautifully illustrated and comprising facts and information of the greatest interest.

Sanatogen is sold by druggists everywhere, in three sizes, from $1.00

TRADE JOURNALS SEEM RESIGNED

NO ALARM OVER FREE MEAT

American Silks Said to be Well Cared For, and Reduction in Carpets Taken in Good Part.

Opinions expressed yesterday on the new Tariff bill by trade journals covered all sides of the subject. Of those complaining of the provisions of the new bill, The Paper Trade Juornal spoke strongest.

"The paper industry has been hard hit by the Tariff bill presented to the House yesterday," it said. "There has been a general reduction in practically every grade, and in some instances these have been quite radical.

"Writing papers of various grades, which are now taxed at 3 cents per pound and 15 per cent. ad valorem, it is proposed should be admitted at a duty of 25 per cent., a reduction in round numbers of about 8 per cent.

"If the bill now before Congress becomes a law, the news print industry will suffer severely. It is questionable if several of the smaller concerns can stand the strain, and it is feared that there will be a general closing of mills through failures.

"The Underwood Tariff bill gives ample protection to the silk industry in its most vital features," The American Silk Journal says. "The proposed new rates may be considered more equitable than the specific rates imposed by the act of 1909. Although it is held by some in the trade, that the ad valorem basis opens the way to fraudulent undervaluation, it is contended that the existing evils will be minimized and guarded against in the principles of appraising under the proposed act.

"The proposed ten per cent. reduction in ribbons may affect the manufacturers of cheap merchandise but this will depend largely upon the amount of silk fashion calls for in ribbons. With the messaline ribbons and other light weaves of the present season, on which the labor cost is low and which require considerably less silk than grosgrains or satin grosgrains, the domestic mills might have to compete under the reduced rates with the cheap ribbons of Basel, Switzerland."

Meat Packers Indifferent.

Views in the meat trade on the effect of tariff legislation differ somewhat, according to The National Provisioner. The retailers have been told that free meats will mean cheap, meats, and with the entire trade, retail and wholesale, the wish is father to the thought. They all want cheaper meats because high prices restrict consumption, and in the meat business profits depend on volume of trade.

The packing and provision interests generally are not taking a very keen interest in the tariff revision proposals. They are inclined to be skeptical as to the result of putting meats on the free list. Those who have studied the world meat situation carefully say that the shortage of meat supplies is world wide, and they do not believe that the removal of the duty will result in meat imports to any extent.

Commenting on the effect of the bill on furnishings, The Decorative Furnisher says:

"The new Underwood tariff, if its provisions remain substantially as proposed, will have only a minimum effect on the market of decorative furnishings. What is lost in manufactured stuffs is more than made up in raw materials. To be sure, the proposed reductions in Schedule K and Schedule I, when compared side by side with the figures of the Payne-Aldrich tariff, appear almost radical, but when analyzed, and when it is remembered that the old rates were so absurd as to be indefensible, it will be discovered that the new figures favor the home industries in no slight manner. Very few foreign mills, we venture to predict, will be eager to flood the American market with Axminster, Wilton, Brussels, velvet, or tapestry carpets with an ad valorem duty of 35, 30, 25, 30, and 20 per cent., respectively.

"The free admission of raw wool materials will be a decided boon to the domestic factories."

Butter and Eggs Unaffected.

The Produce Exchange says: "It is conceded that the proposed reduction in tariff on agricultural products in Schedule G of the tariff, will have little effect on the wholesale market, and practically none on retail prices. If the tariff were cut 50 per cent. on butter, eggs, and poultry, shipments from outside countries would probably not increase. Eggs could come only from Canada, which at present is not producing enough for her own consumption. Each year Canadian operators store large quantities of American eggs for consumption in Western Canada, as well as for large cities in the Eastern part of the Dominion. Last year only three or four cars of live poultry, and two cars of dressed turkeys were imported from Canada.

"Mexico has been developing the poultry industry during the last few years, but it has not yet reached a stage where exports to the United States are possible. Canada is an important cheese country, but the local demand is sufficient to take care of practically all her own supplies. Canadian creameries have been unable to supply Canada with butter for her own needs, and New Zealand and other British possessions have been drawn upon.

"It is probable that New Zealand would ship more butter to the Pacific Coast if the tariff were reduced, but the Atlantic Seaboard would not be influenced materially. The reduction on lemons will have a greater effect than on any other food product."

The placing of coal on the free list would produce no effect in the New York market, according to The Coal Trade Journal. The eastern section of Canada produces no coal suitable for domestic use, according to the standards of this locality, and Nova Scotia coal could not compete here with that of Central Pennsylvania for steam purposes.

Nova Scotia producers are not especially anxious for outside trade, as they find that the demands of that Province, the steamships sailing from Canadian ports and the railroad and manufacturing demands of other Provinces of Canada are increasing to such an extent as to use practically the aggregate annual capacity of the Nova Scotia mines. And after all, compared with the resources of Pennsylvania, the coal business of Nova Scotia is a small factor.

SOUND NO ALARM OVER TARIFF BILL

BENEFITS TO CONSUMERS

Objections, Except from Paper Men, Are Not to Cuts, Exactly—Beet Sugar Hard Hit.

Heads of various business houses visited by Times reporters yesterday do not apprehend any serious consequences of the proposed tariff changes of the Underwood bill. Some protests were made, here and there, but on the whole the expressions were quite pacific.

The exceptions were in the chemical trade, furs, electric supplies, and paper. Officers of the General Electric Company would not comment, but their men have a feeling long rooted that disaster must overtake them if the cut in the electric supply rates stand.

Objections of the wood pulp paper men have been heard many times. They say free print paper can only have the effect of building up Canadian mills at the expense of American mills. These arguments had been made before a special committee of Congress five years ago, when a Republican section of it was, nevertheless, quite urgent in advocating the removal of the duty and a general cut in the schedule.

Fur men complain mostly of the way their schedule is adjusted, and not because of the reduction.

Some dealers believe the consumer will get an immediate benefit, but others say he won't. It seems to be the prevailing opinion that butter and eggs will not be cheaper because of the reduction, but that the lower tariff will stop the excessive prices which have been coming every Winter. Only Canada can be looked to for these dairy products, but the market here has to be very high to tempt her, as her own people take all she produces. This is also true of coal, which goes on the free list. Nova Scotia alone is a possible competitor, and it is said she has no desire for this market.

Sugar men are divided into two camps. The big refiners, such as the American Sugar Company and the Federal, controlled by Spreckels, agree that a tariff isn't necessary, and the immediate reduction, with free imports three years off, is desirable. They make sugar of cane, as nearly all the refineries do in this part of the country, but in the West they make some sugar of beets, and the beet sugar makers say they are going to be ruined.

Steel makers do not seem to be fearing any foreign competition just now, even if there were no tariff, as the steel mills abroad are said to be running at full blast to make delivery of their home orders, which are booked six months ahead. This is particularly true of Germany, the competitor that seems to be most feared.

Meat packers do not appear to show any concern.

Silk manufacturers and the silk trade generally are pleased with the care that is being taken of them.

TEMPTS GEM SMUGGLERS.

Diamond Dealer Believes Bill Will Cut Down the Revenues.

The increased duty on diamonds and other precious stones would, in the opinion of Ludwig Nissen, President of the American Jewelers' Protective Association and Chairman of its Committee on Tariff Schedules, mean a great increase in the smuggling of precious stones into the United States and the reduction by perhaps 50 per cent. of the Government's revenue from gems.

"We were and are still working," said Mr. Nissen yesterday, "for the maintenance of the present schedules, which let in rough stones free and levied a 10 per cent. duty on cut and finished stones.

"We contend that 10 per cent. is as much as can be collected on cut and finished diamonds, pearls, and other stones for the reason that anything more than that will create such an incentive to smuggling that the Government will lose its revenue and the honest importer will be practically driven out of business.

"Under the present schedules there is no incentive whatever for smuggling in the rough goods. Under the proposed law the incentive will be there, as the bill calls for 15 per cent. duty on the cut and finished product and 10 per cent. on the rough stones. Now, if you widen the margin of cost between Europe and here, the temptation to buy on the other side is so much greater.

EFFECT IN SUGAR AND STEEL.

Cane Sugar Men Pleased, Beet Sugar Men Doleful—No Harm to Steel.

Sugar men are divided into two distinct camps on the tariff, and steel makers, while opposed to placing any of their commodities on the free list, are not vigorous in their opposition to the Underwood measure as it is now. Refiners of cane sugar do not believe any harm is coming to their business, but the beet sugar makers predict their own ruin.

Steel manufacturers are not outspoken against the Underwood bill because conditions in the trade abroad are such that European competition is not likely to be felt in this country for some time, even though the reductions proposed are all incorporated in the law. An officer of one of the largest companies said yesterday that the steel makers of England and the Continent were booked ahead for at least six months with contracts placed by their own people. As they are receiving prices higher than the prevailing quotations here, and labor costs only half as much, there was scarcely the remotest chance of sales of foreign steel being made in this market as long as business held up across the sea.

One of the leading refiners of cane sugar who was particularly emphatic in saying that no harm would come to the sugar business in general was Claus Spreckles, President of the Federal Sugar Refining Company.

"I consider the Underwood bill a good bill," said Mr. Spreckles. "I have always been in favor of free sugar, and I don't believe there will be any foreign sugar shipped here under its provisions. On the contrary, I am of the opinion that we will export to Europe. The record of sugar raised without protection has failed to show any great harm done. Take Porto Rico, for instance, and Hawaii and the Philippines. They have been successful without a tariff to hedge them in from competition. I, myself, have made money in Hawaii and can speak from experience.

Nothing to Do with Labor.

"The producers of cane sugar in Louisiana and the beet sugar people of the West appear to be the ones who are complaining loudest against the proposed tariff. There are several things the matter with the business in Louisiana. The climate is not a natural one for sugar, and there have never been the most efficient methods employed in raising and grinding the cane. The leeway of three years provided by the bill before the tariff is taken away entirely, however, should cause a radical sort of preparation to be made in the South for producing sugar according to up to date methods, and I am confident the Louisiana cane men could then raise sugar at a profit without my help.

"The beet sugar people say they will be driven out of business, but I don't believe it. They need fear no competition from abroad for European farmers are receiving more for their feets at home than they could get here. In point of labor costs I fail to see how a reduction or removal of the tariff could affect adversely the beet sugar industry, for 80 per cent. of the help employed in raising the beets on the fields of California, Colorado, and other States are Japanese and Hindoos on a low wage basis. The American farmer is not getting any assistance from the tariff along the line of field labor as far as I can see."

H. Rieman Duval, President of the American Beet Sugar Company, said that the reduction of the tariff would be a great blow to the beet sugar industry. He told of a prediction made by Henry O. Havemeyer a number of years ago.

Doesn't Agree with Spreckles.

"I told Havemeyer one day," said he, "that the Spreckles were planning to erect a new refinery for imported sugar in Philadelphia. 'I don't care how many refineries for can sugar they build," replied the head of the trust, 'for the day is passing rapidly for them. If the raising of sugar beets progresses in the next ten years at the rate it has in the past decade, many of these cane refineries I see across the river in Brooklyn will be junk.'"

Carnegie Glad of It.

Judge Gary, Chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, declined to comment on the tariff bill. Heads of other great producing companies referred inquiries to their views as expressed before the Ways and Means Committee of the House in January. John A. Topping, Chairman of the Republic Iron & Steel Co., said to the committee:

"No practical man believes that labor conditions and rates which now maintain in this country could be continued, in the event of placing any products under Schedule C on the free list, without reducing profits to such an extent that would bring about enforced shutdowns of works, pending wage adjustments.

Andrew Carnegie gave his heartiest approval and indorsement to the new Tariff bill as a whole yesterday afternoon.

"There is absolutely nothing to be dreaded from this tariff legislation," said he. "The American manufacturers have enjoyed protection for so long a time that, generally speaking, they are now able to stand on their own feet. They have outgrown the infant stage. There is absolutely nothing to worry about.

"This Tariff bill is in general a very good one. I am very glad indeed that foodstuffs are put on the free list. That is very important. It is a cardinal doctrine with me that the food of the people should never be taxed."

COTTON SPINNERS PROTEST.

New Bedford Man Says the Bill Is in the Interest of the South.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The first formal protest against the Tariff bill introduced in the House yesterday was entered this morning, when the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, in annual session at the New Willard Hotel, adopted resolutions protesting against the reductions proposed by the bill in the cotton schedule. In a letter afterward addressed by W. A. Erwin, President of the association, to the members of the Ways and Means Committee, it is stated that "unparalleled injury" will result to the cotton business of the United States if the Underwood rates are enacted into law, and that much of the manufacturing business will be driven abroad.

Special to The New York Times.

FALL RIVER, April 8.—Walter H. Langshaw of New Bedford, one of the foremost manufacturers of fine cotton goods in the country, says of the proposed tariff changes:

"The manufacturer of fine goods does not get anywhere near the protection required. It's a Southern bill. You will note that in yarns from Nos. 10 to 59, which is about as high as the Southern mills go, the increase in duties is 10 per cent.—that is, 7½ to 17½ per cent. But from 60 to 99, which covers thirty-nine numbers, the product of Northern mills, there is an advance of duties of only 2½ per cent., or from 17½ to 20 per cent.

"Under this bill the cotton cloth manufacturer who has paid a revenue into the United States Treasury in order to equip his plant receives 17½ per cent. ad valorem protective duty. The shirt and collar manufacturer, who does not have to lay out so much money on his plant for expensive machinery in proportion to the volume of business done, and who has paid nothing into the United States Treasury in the form of revenue, receives a protection on the same cloth of 30 per cent., when it is made into a shirt or a collar."

Groceries.

JOHN C. JUHRING, President Francis H. Leggett & Co., wholesale grocers—The grocery trade will not be materially affected by the new tariff rates, and except in a very few cases the consumer is hardly likely to notice any reduction in food prices. In fish products, such as herrings, mackerel and sardines, there may be some slight lowering in cost. The duty on sardines now is $1.50 for the average shipment of 100 cans. The new tariff reduces this to 20 per cent., which may tend to lower the retail price on the cheaper grades, but the reduction is not enough to affect the price of the more expensive brands.

Mr. Juhring was unable to hazard a guess as to the average reduction in all grocery supplies from the new tariff, but he thought that it would hardly be more than half a cent a pound on all commodities taken as a whole.

THMOAS M. McCARTHY, Treasurer Austin, Nichols & Co., Wholesale Grocers.—The grocery trade is so little affected by the proposed change in tariff rates that any alteration in prices will be hardly noticeable. Of course, if sugar is reduced materially, or the duty taken off altogether, there will naturally be radical price changes in all sugar products, but the change will affect the producer and not the grocery trade, for the margin of profit will not be enhanced. It will simply be a case of buying at so much less and selling at so much less. The consumer, of course, will be the one directly benefited.

Produce, Eggs, and Butter.

CHARLES F. DROSTE of Droste & Snyder, butter and eggs, 177 Duane Street—In my opinion the reduction of 3 cents a pound on butter and 3 cents a dozen on eggs will operate favorably for the consumer and will not seriously affect the producer. The new rates will not show any material difference from those of the old tariff except at periods of high prices in these two commodities. At such time the new tariff will perform the function that a "governor" has in machinery—it will stop "racing" and thus benefit both the consumer and the merchant. It will make business safer and speculation more hazardous.

HENRY DOSCHER of John Doscher & Co., produce commission merchants, 133 Reade Street—I have no complaint to find with the new tariff figures, notwithstanding the fact that a number of the produce commodities will be more or less affected by the proposed rates.

Protest to Underwood.

This protest was sent to Chairman Underwood by the manufacturers of vegetable ivory buttons:

> Having in mind the testimony and proofs submitted to your honorable committee by the vegetable ivory button manufacturers, and in view of the fact that the proposed new tariff reduces the duty on vegetable ivory buttons to a point where the industry here will have untold struggles to live, we earnestly protest against the additional burden of a 20 per cent. duty on vegetable ivory nuts. We assure you it is our sincere opinion that said duty on the raw product will ruin the vegetable ivory button business in the United States.

Furs.

ALEXANDER HEILBRONER of Kaye & Einstein, 38 West Thirty-second Street. A reduction of the tariff on undressed furs from 20 per cent. to 10 per cent., on dressed furs from 35 to 30 per cent., and on manufacturers of furs from 50 to 40 per cent. is wrong. The new tariff bill puts a duty of 10 per cent. on raw skins, which were heretofore admitted free, raises the present duty of 20 per cent. on dressed and dyed skins to 30 per cent., and the present duty of 35 per cent. on partially prepared material to 40 per cent., and leaves manufacturers of furs on the existing 50 per cent. ad valorem basis.

We had asked that the tariff on furs be left as it is and with the pledges of the Democratic Party for downward revision of the tariff we didn't expect that our schedule would be advanced.

There is danger also of provoking reciprocal action from Germany, Russia, and other European countries by the advance in the fur schedule. Those countries may now put an import duty on American raw furs, whereas heretofore American shippers have been able to ship raw furs abroad for sale purposes, with the privilege of bringing them back to the United States if they coould not realize a satisfactory price. With an import duty clapped on to raw furs abroad, that will end. The United States Government now controls the sale of seals from the seal fisheries and compels us to go to London and buy them there. It is unjust, under the new Tariff bill, to epect us to pay a 10 per cent. duty on them when we bring our own goods back from London to this country.

ALBERT HERSKOVITZ of Albert Herskovitz & Son, fur importers, 44 West Tweenty-eight Streets—While I see no harm in putting a 10 per cent. duty on raw furs and a 10 per cent. increase of duty on dyed and dressed skins, the bill ought in that case also to increase the duty on manufactures of furs instead of lowering it from 50 to 40 per cent. The tariff on manufactures of urs ought under the circumstances be raised at least 10 per cent.

Millinery.

R. F. ROBIN of Hewlett, Robin & Co., 417 Fifth Avenue.—Generally speaking, I think the measure as so far framed has followed a very common-sense course. The new tariff schedules on artificial or ornamented feathers and flowers being unchanged—60 per cent.—there will be no appreciable effect on our business, inasmuch as the feathers and flowers are the chief factors in our importations. Fully 90 per cent. of the feathers and flowers used in millinery in this country are imported. The domestic manufacture of these articles, while it has in recent years shown considerable improvement to quality, figures but slightly in the trade.

ZUCKER & JOSEPHY, importers of flowers and feathers, 719 Broadway.—The new tariff will have little or no appreciable effect on the hat-trimming trade, and the trade is well satisfied that the existing tariff schedules have not been disturbed.

R. S. STERN & CO., hat frame jobbers of No. 632 Broadway—The effect of the new tariff on the hat frame trade cannot be computed at present. No indication has yet been given as to what changes, if any, are to be made in the raw material—braids and the like—of which the frames are made. All this material is imported from Japan, Italy, Switzerland, and other countries. As for finished hats, only models or pattern hats have, as a rule, been imported, the frames being made here according to the patterns. In the case of trimmed hats or bonnets, the duty has been cut from 50 per cent. to 40 per cent.

Crockery, China, Glassware.

Mr. WITTE, General Manager of Bawo & Dotler, 18 West 33d Street—In earthenware there is a real cut from 55 per cent. to 35 per cent. American potters have built up a big earthenware industry, and their price has always ranged 25 per cent. or more under the English price, so that the American-made goods have dominated the market and not the foreign goods. The British goods should now experience a reduction of 10 to 15 per cent. in the retail price, but even then there is no danger that the American price will be attacked or will need readjustment. American potters undersell in the American market any likely competitor.

Chemicals.

The question of tariff revision as it might affect the trade in chemicals was taken up at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the General Chemical Company, at 25 Broad Street, yesterday afternoon. It was agreed by the Directors that since the country at large twice voted for tariff reduction, and had become angered at the failure to obtain it after voting for it in 1908, it would not be seemly to become hysterical now that the day of revision was at hand.

"I think the merchants of this town have worked themselves up unduly over the tariff," said an officer of the General Chemical Company. "They have an ingrained dread of tariff revision for no sane reason. For that reason persons in our own trade—perhaps men of our own company, went down to Washington and heaped up reason upon reason why the tariff wall should be boosted up sky-high.

"We now see that policy was a mistake and we recognize that ours has been an overprotected industry and that we could well afford to have the tariff wall considerably lower. The cuts made in chemicals were anticipated cuts. We have prepared for all necessary trade readjustments. I may say that we are not apprehensive, and that our conclusion is that all the changes necessary will be minor changes."

At the offices of another chemical company some "jokers" in the Underwood schedules were pointed out. It was said that sulphuric acid, for instance, always carried a heavy tariff, but that it might as well have been 10,000 per cent. as the 15 per cent. at which it was fixed.

At the offices of Lehn & Fink, 120 William Street, and of Schieffelin & Co., 170 William Street, wholesale dealers in oils and drugs, it was stated that the changes in the oils and drugs schedules were of a minor nature, and that the trade would not be disturbed in the slightest degree by them. No rearrangement of prices was contemplated, it was said.

Boots and Shoes.

D. P. MORSE of Morse & Rogers, Hudson and Duane Streets.—Unlike many of my brothers in trade, I do not anticipate serious results to the American industry from putting boots and shoes on the free list. In my opinion, however, there are three strong reasons why they should not be put there. No revenue will be derived by the Government from their importation, the general public will derive no benefit from the act by way of lower prices for its footwear, and there is a possibility of the labor interests of the domestic industry getting a setback.

England is our chief competitor, and in comparison with labor cost in that country the American manufacturer has all the worst of it. But while the labor cost is lower there, production is also lower because of the slower speed at which the operatives work. If these two points offset each other sufficiently there is little to be feared from the competition of English footwear.

In raw materials the two countries are practically even. In styles we have it all over the English manufacturer, and it is the English aversion to rapid changes of style that is likely to keep her business with this country low.

Paper and Pulp.

ARTHUR C. HASTINGS, President of the American Paper and Pulp Association—Manufacturers of newspaper printing papers, which are made entirely from wood pulp, feel that a great injustice has been done them. In the first place, printing paper is placed absolutely on the free list, and, in the second place, there is no retaliatory provision, in that Canada, our most powerful competitor, is given our market entirely free of any duty, and at the same time retains the duty on print paper shipped into her territory, which is 15 per cent., or $6 on each ton sent into Canada. Then there is no provision in the Underwood bill allowing us access to Canada's Crown land woods.

It is not possible to consider the question of American mills being driven or moved to Canada. We must face, however, the fact that the increase or growth of business will be in Canada, and that before many years have passed the principal supply of news print paper will come from Canada, and the mills in the United States now making paper will, a sfast as the change can be made, reorganize to manufacture other grades of paper, or else use their water power sites for other purposes.

The paper industry was never more than a moderate beneficiary of our protective system. As a matter of fact, the duties on most of the products of this industry have always been kept at a revenue basis.

Typewriters.

CHARLES STRAUSS, General Counsel for the Underwood Typewriter Company.—It is the conviction of the typewriter manufacturers of this country that a fair import duty upon typewriters, such as now exists under the present Tariff act (30 per cent. ad valorem,) is absolutely imperative to the future welfare of the typewriter industry, and that it would be most unfair to permit the free importation of foreign made machines.

The considerations which lead to this conviction are threefold, to wit:

1. Because under the existing Tariff act and under all previously proposed revisions thereof, and under any conceivable revision thereof which does not approximate absolute free trade, the various materials out of which the typewriter is constructed are and always will be dutiable.
2. Because the difference between the cost of manufacture here and abroad more than offsets the cost of transportation of foreign built machines, and hence, if such machines are admitted free, the foreign manufacturer will be able to sell for less than the American manufacturer can profitably produce and market his product.
3. Because the American manufacturer exporting his machine has to pay duties in practically all of the European countries, including Germany, France and Italy, wherein the foreign competitors are found.

The placing of typewriters on the free list must have been done inadvertently, and doubtless will be corrected. They have apparently been classified with sewing machines and cash registers. But the same reasons do not exist, because both of the last-named industries have foreign factories already, which means the competition they will face will be their own.

Hides and Leather.

L. F. ROBERTSON of L. F. Robertson & Sons, 41 Spruce Street—It is difficult in the face of the generalities in the bill to express a definite opinion regarding the effect the proposed changes will have on this market. What is now needed is a definite statement from the lawmakers as to what leathers are to be admitted free. At any rate I see nothing to be feared in the changes proposed.

The impression prevails in this market that only shoe leathers will be admitted free. If this is true I believe there will be no visible effect on the leather business. If all grades are exempted from tax some adverse action may be shown, but I see at the moment no reason for alarm. As for hides, they are already on the free list.

SCHELLING AT SETTLEMENT.

The Pianist Plays a Concerto with Music School Orchestra.

Ernest Schelling, the American pianist, played Beethoven's E flat major concerto to the accompaniment of the Tuesday Night Symphony Orchestra at the Music School Settlement in East Third Street last night. This band of musicians consists of some sixty wage earners, men, women, boys, and girls, from all parts of the city.

Because of the rather limited capacity of the hall, and fear that it would be literally mobbed, Director David Mannes of the Music School Settlement made no announcement that Mr. Schelling was to play last night. But as it was a host of east side music lovers had to be barred from admission to the building. After the concert Mr. Schelling played the F sharp nocturne by Chopin, Opus 15, No. 2; Schubert's "Hark, Hark, the Lark," and Chopin's A flat polonaise.

City Wants to Build in Its Own Way

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 8.—Dr. Potter of the Charities Department of New York City told Gov. Sulzer at a public hearing today that New York ought to be allowed to build its almshouses in its own way. He urged the signing of the bill which exempts New York City from the provisions of the law which require that plans for charitable buildings in all cities shall be approved by the State Board of Charities. The trouble was caused by the failure of the State Board to approve the city's plans for an almshouse on Staten Island. The State Board thought that old people should not be required to ascend stairs to the dining room three times a day for meals.

TARIFF A STIMULUS TO BRITISH TRADE

Proposed Reductions Greater Than Manufacturers Had Hoped For.

COTTON SPINNERS REJOICE

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, April 9.—The American tariff bill has received little attention in the City. It is unlikely to be much discussed until the text of the measure has been received. The London Times says that such opinion as is obtainable in commercial circles in London is naturally well disposed toward the bill, although there is a noticeable tendency to regard many items as too good to be true. British firms not now engaged in American trade have been making inquiries for the past few weeks regarding possibilities on the other side of the Atlantic. In view of the anticipated reductions in the tariff the actual proposals constitute a greater downward revision than most people expected or are prepared to regard as assured.

Although the proposed schedule is looked upon as favorable to the extension of British trade with the United States, it is obvious that business men cherish no illusions. Some of those interviewed were hardly prepared to discuss the matter on the ground that the bill was sure to undergo important and possibly vital modifications before it became law. The tendency shown, however, toward a general considerable reduction of the tariff is welcomed for its promise that at some time in the future there will be developments of Anglo-American trade.

The proposed new rates on woollen goods and clothing are generally regarded as the most noteworthy concessions. It is pointed out that Great Britain already does business to the extent of $15,000,000 in piece goods and near $5,000,000 in leather and manufactures more than $1,250,000 in linoleum and oilcloths. Very substantial reductions are proposed on these articles, which are taken as typical of the spirit of the schedules as a whole. There is a widespread opinion if important items such as these stand in the end much as they stand now there should be a stimulus to almost every branch of British trade.

LONDON, April 8.—The wollen and cotton trades in Great Britain are looking forward to greatly enhanced business with the United States as a result of the proposed revision of the American tariff. In manufacturing circles in Yorkshire, while it is anticipated that the United States will henceforth be a keener competitor for raw wool supplies, it is considered that this competition will be more than offset by the greater quantities of goods which the English manufacturers will send to the United States.

Sir Charles Macara, President of the Master Cotton Spinners' Association, is of the opinion that the effect of the new tariff on conditions in the United States, both from the producer's and consumer's viewpoint, will be tremendous.

"A reduction of the tariffs," Sir Charles believes, "undoubtedly would enable England to do a much larger trade with America. The bill would reduce tremendously the profits not only of the big trusts, but of manufacturers generally, and it would be bound to reduce considerably the cost of living."

Just think of buying $2.50 to $4.50
Men's Custom Grade Shirts
at $1.85!

¶ Take half a dozen custom shops—pull out their stock—range through the designs—turn your microscopic eye on the workmanship—be an "old woman" on details—examine the quality of the fabrics—scrutinize the weaves and the colors—note the prices of $2.50, $3, $3.50, $4 and $4.50—and then you will have done nothing more nor less than duplicate this sale with the single exception of the price!

The fact is, you cannot duplicate that price and these shirts at one and the same time

¶ The fabrics for these shirts were bought from several prominent importers a mile below cost, and tailored by one of the best shirtmakers that ever pleated a bosom. The variety is an education in patterns and colorings. There is every worth-while design that has solicited man's choice this Spring. The workmanship is a very scholarly example of shirtmaking, perfect from collar to hem. And the whole proposition, in variety, quality, distinctiveness and price, is the fairest, squarest, rarest shirt opportunity the town affords

¶ Pure silk shirtings, silk-and-linens, finely mercerized cloths, Russian cords and Anderson Madras — in fact, domestic and imported shirtings of the finest sort, in a range of patterns and colorings such as we have never seen in our experience outside of this particular sale—and at a price which you cannot duplicate without going into the shirt business, nor maintain without going into bankruptcy!

¶ Plain and pleated bosoms, soft and starched cuffs, sizes 14 to 20, sleeve lengths 33 to 36. We started Monday with 9,000 Shirts. There are 4,400 left. There are four days to go. You can draw your own conclusions and be governed accordingly.

This Man Had Never Been to Saks'

¶ In discussing clothes round a club table the other night a man said, "Well, I've tried half a dozen shops and I tell you it is absolutely impossible to get any character or style in my clothes."

¶ Think of it, Gentlemen, impossible to get a simple little thing like Style in an age which has produced the electric light, the phonograph, and the telephone.

¶ One might as well read the six "best sellers" and say that there is no such thing as literature in the world.

¶ Or listen to ragtime in a cabaret and conclude that there is no such thing as music in the world.

¶ Or read of public pilfering and fraud and deny that there is any such thing as honesty in the world.

¶ Yet one has only to know where to look for these things to realize that there is no dearth of all three.

¶ We believe, and thousands of men support our opinion, that there is more actual character and style in Saks clothes than in any other ready-for-service garments in the world.

WOULD BUY OFF MONTENEGRIN KING

IS SAID TO BE RAPACIOUS

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, April 9.—That King Nicholas of Montenegro be bought off is the latest suggestion toward a settlement of what is described as an awkward and delicate situation. It is understood that the idea has been broached from a quarter where King Nicholas's patriotic posing is taken with several grains of salt.

The Montenegrin monarch, it is declared, is a keenly acquisitive gentleman, and during his whole career, having no money of his own, he has been forced to employ methods of obtaining it that are inconsistent with strict canons. It is asserted as absolute fact by a London diplomat with personal experience of Montenegro that inhabitants of that country with relatives in other countries have discouraged the latter from sending remittances in a form which would permit their interception en route by the "father of his people."

As many Montenegrins are still in the United States, it will doubtless be easy to show that this statement is a slander. In any case, it is now suggested that King Nicholas receive an offer of pecuniary compensation in return for the surrender of his claims to Scutari. By that means he would be able to return to his capital with peace and honor, and the great powers would be relieved of the task of coercing a small State which has made heavy sacrifices in the war. Where the money would come from would be a point for future settlement.

It is evident that some way out of the difficulty must be found if the danger of a European conflict, which Sir Edward Grey on Monday said had been avoided just in time, is not to be revived.

The naval blockade of Antivari having provoked nothing but derision, its extension to an Albanian port, probably San Giovanni di Medua, is expected. Here lies the danger of provoking an outburst of Russian sympathy for the Servians, who have used that port to land troops to assist the Montenegrins in the investment of Scutari. The proposed extension of the blockade would seriously interfere with the commissariat arrangements of the Servian forces outside Scutari.

The seriousness of the situation is apparent on the consideration of two facts—first, that the blockade of Montenegro was unwillingly resorted to by the powers of the Triple Entente, and only as a means of averting independent action by Austria against Montenegro; second, that there is growing agitation against even such a mild measure of coercion in Russia, where it is declared that more forcible measures would be a crime, and that if Montenegro is to be made a scapegoat by Austria war is inevitable.

BERLIN, April 8.—King Nicholas of Montenegro, answering a telegram addressed to him by the National Zeitung, to-day telegraphed as follows:

"We hold the profound conviction that our cause is just before God and man. Scutari was the ancient seat of our Kings, and it is indispensable to our national and economic development. Only brute force of numbers can compel us to give up this territory."

GERMAN ARCTIC DISASTER.

Some of the Schroeder-Stranz Party Safe—Commander Missing.

CHRISTIANIA, April 8.—Details of the disaster that overtook the members of the German Arctic expedition under Lieut. Schroeder-Stranz, several of whose members died on the ice from exposure and scurvy, have been received.

Four of the men have succeeded in returning to Advent Bay, Spitzbergen, and two others are reported safe at Treurenburg Bay.

The aviator and the cook who accompanied the expedition died from exposure and starvation, while nothing has been heard from the commander, Lieut. Schroeder-Stranz, since he started on a sledge expedition alone last August.

Capt. Ritschel brought the first news of the fate of the expedition in January, when he returned to Advent Bay in a deplorable condition and was thought to be the only survivor. To-day's dispatch from Spitzbergen has revived hopes that others may be alive.

Among the party, besides the officers and crew, were several German scientists, including a geologist, a botanist, and an oceanographer. Experience of Polar work was almost entirely lacking, and the equipment is said to have been very poor.

The intention of the party was to pave the way for a more important expedition under Lieut. Schroeder-Stranz, which was to endeavor to make the Northeast Passage later this year.

MORE BORWICK LITIGATION.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 8.—Mrs. Mary Mason Borwick's action against her husband, George Borwick, for the recovery of property of which the right, she alleges, was vested solely in her, came up before Mr. Justice Darling in private to-day. The property concerned consists of valuable art objects. When Mr. Borwick declined to live with his wife and the latter instituted proceedings for the restitution of conjugal rights the husband refused to hand over the property.

Counsel on behalf of the wife to-day asked the Judge to postpone the hearing of the action over this term, as Mrs. Borwick was, he said, in New York living with her mother, and certain circumstances made it inconvenient for her to come here. As the husband agreed to this course the Judge ordered that the action be heard next term.

LORD ALFRED SUSPICIOUS.

Objects to Judge Who Lives in Same County as Father-in-Law.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 8.—Lord Alfred Douglas made another appearance in a law court to-day in connection with the suit of his father-in-law against him for libel.

Lord Alfred has been writing letters to the Judge who is to try the case, which the Judge describes as abusive. Apparently Lord Alfred declared that this particular Judge should not try the case because he lived in Norfolk, the county inhabited by Douglas's father-in-law. "I have not the honor of his father-in-law's acquaintance," said the Judge. "There is no more connection between us than between a mountain in Monmouth and a mountain in Macedonia."

One of Lord Alfred's complaints against his father-in-law is that the latter forced his wife to leave him. An affidavit by Lady Alfred was read in court to the effect that her husband's statements were untrue. She left him of her own free will.

"AMERICAN SEASON" BEGUN.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 8.—London's' American season is proclaimed by some English papers as having begun with the arrival of the passengers from the Mauretania to-day, and there is undoubtedly an increased air of bustle at the West End hotels. Few of the Mauretania's passengers, however, will remain long in London.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt went to their flat in Gloucester House to see their baby and thence are going to the country.

Londoners regard the Mauretania's goodly list as an auspicious opening of the American season.

65 KILLED IN NACO BATTLE.

Five Men of United States Army Wounded on This Side of the Line.

NACO, Arizona, April 8.—Meeting the advancing State troops nearly a mile below Naco, Sonora, Gen. Ojeda's Federals fought for three hours to-day. Bullets entered the Arizona town of Naco, wounding four negro troopers of the Ninth Cavalry border patrol and an army teamster. One of the wounded United States soldiers may die. Shortly after 8 o'clock the Federals retired to the town. They were not pursued by the Constitutionalistas.

The fight was opened at 5:20 o'clock by Ojeda, whose 300 Federals met the advance of almost 2,000 State troops with volleys from eight machine guns and two field pieces. Operating two of the Federal pieces were two American negroes, deserters from the Ninth Cavalry.

The army medical corps, assisted by local physicians, has established a temporary hospital here. Fourteen wounded stragglers from both sides have crossed the line to be treated. Estimates of those killed in the battle place the total at sixty-five for the first three hours of fighting.

TO APPEAR AGAINST WILSON.

Mexican Says He Will Prove Ambassador Opposed to Madero.

EL PASO, Texas, April 8.—"I am going to Washington to give Secretary Bryan proofs of the part taken by Ambassador Wilson in the Mexico City revolt," asserted to-day Roque Gonzales Garza, formerly member of the Medero Chamber of Deputies, now agent in the United States of the Constitutionalist revolution. Señor Garza arrived here from San Antonio, where he has headquarters.

"Charges against Mr. Wilson made by my colleague, Deputy Luis Manuel Rojas, in a document sent to Secretary Bryan will be substantiated with actual proofs," Señor Garza continued. "There are twelve distinct charges which will show, when proved, that Mr. Wilson acted against the Madero Government."

RETALIATION ON US IS URGED IN JAPAN

Withdrawal from Panama-Pacific Fair Proposed Owing to California Land Bill.

EXPECT IT WILL BE PASSED

Official Advices Say Governor Will Sign It—Retroactive Clause Particularly Deplored.

TOKIO, April 8.—The hollowness of American advocacy of equality is the subject of an ironical editorial article in the Asahi, a leading independent newspaper of Japan, which says that Californians propose to treat their neighbors across the Pacific worse than negroes. The article continues:

"This anti-Japanese agitation will impress us with a keen sense of humiliation, which will require many years to efface. Americans must be prepared for a cool reception when they visit or settle in Japan."

The Asahi says that in the event of the passage and signing of the bill Japan must immediately withdraw her support from the Panama-Pacific Exposition and deny to Americans the rights of ownership in Japan.

The recognition of the Chinese Republic by the United States and the progress of the bill pending in the California Legislature to prevent aliens from owning land in that State are the absorbing topics in the Japanese press. It is generally believed that Japan will join Great Britain and the Continental Powers in declining to recognize the new China until a stable government is proven and its capacity to govern is shown.

Official advices are to the effect that the Land bill will pass the California Legislature and that the Governor will sign it.

Objection is raised particularly to the retroactive clause of the Land bill. The Japanese point out that the gravest injuries will be done to their countrymen, who are unable to become naturalized citizens.

Among well-informed Japanese the opinion is expressed that the passage of the Land bill in California will materially offset among the Chinese the good effect of the recognition of the new Republic. Prominent men who have supported this country's participation in the Panama-Pacific Exposition now advocate Japan's withdrawal.

Sir William Treloar Coming Here.

CHINA'S PARLIAMENT OPENS.

Rejoicing Throughout Country—Proceedings Brief but Impressive.

PEKING, April 8.—The first Parliament of the world's youngest republic was inaugurated to-day, amid general rejoicing, not only in the Chinese capital but throughout the country.

The scene at the joint inaugural session of the members of the Senate and the House of Representatives was a remarkable one. Five hundred Representatives out of 596 and 177 Senators out of 274, all of them earnest-looking men of mature years and nearly all dressed in European fashion, silently awaited the appointed hour of opening.

As the clock struck 11 several bands played the national anthem, while the assemblage rose to its feet.

The senior member of the House of Representatives then made a few congratulatory remarks to the notable gathering and formally declared both Houses open.

Scenes of enthusiastic jubilation followed before an adjournment was taken till April 12.

The proceedings were very brief and simple, but earnest and impressive, and were watched with interest by a large number of foreigners, who packed the galleries. Outside vast crowds thronged the precincts of the Parliament buildings and cheered as a salute of 101 guns, signaling the inauguration, boomed from the adjacent city wall.

All the streets of the city were decorated with flags, and triumphal arches had been erected in many places. The occasion was observed as a general holiday throughout China, and great rejoicings are reported from many cities.

Yuan Shi-Kai's message to Parliament, which was not read publicly, as his Presidency is still provisional, consisted of hearty congratulations and the expression of the hope that the republic would last 10,000 years.

The American Chargé d'Affaires has intimated to the Chinese Government that recognition of the republic by the United States will be made when the Parliamentary officers have been appointed and quorums declared. Brazil and Mexico will act at the same time as the United States.

The other powers will probably defer action until after the election of the President, which will be several months hence.

The American group of financiers will soon close their offices in Peking, their representative returning to New York.

It's strange, when one knows the facts, that so many young men, who want snap and style in their clothes, and who appreciate the economy of quality, cling to the grandfatherly idea of made-to-measure clothes.

Clothes-making has advanced far beyond that stage; ready clothes, as we make them, are better than the average made-to-measure; at $25, for example, you'll find our suits, with fabrics, tailoring, style, and fit such as your made-to-measure at fifty per cent higher price doesn't equal. As for the very cheap "made-to-measure," it's not to be compared.

STILWELL DISOWNS BRIBE TELEGRAM

Message from Kendall to the Senator Offered "Five for Thing as Law."

LETTER ALSO IN DISPUTE

In It Kendall Speaks of "Your Alibi," and Says Stilwell's Explanation Is Not Conclusive.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 8.—George H. Kendall, who accuses Senator Stephen J. Stilwell of attempting to extort $3,500 from him, was on the stand practically all day to-day as the chief witness before the Senate Judiciary Committee. Mr. Kendall alleges that the money was demanded in return for a favorable report by the Codes Committees of the Senate and Assembly on a bill of vital interest to the New York Bank Note Company, of which Kendall is President. Mr. Kendall was called as the first witness when the taking of testimony was begun this morning. Guided by Attorney General Carmody, who acted as counsel for the committee, he first retold under oath his story of the alleged attempt to extort the bribe from him.

Senator Stilwell sat with his lawyers in the Assembly parlor, which was crowded to suffocation with spectators. Business in the Senate practically was suspended for the day. Senator Stilwell's colleagues in the end will be called upon to play the part of a jury and return a verdict which will mean either his vindication or his expulsion from the Senate. Many of them occupiel seats within the inclosed space near the rostrum where the committee sat.

It was contended to-day by Senator Stilwell's counsel that he had never received a letter and a telegram alleged to have been sent by Mr. Kendall during the alleged bribe negotiations. Both the telegram and the letter were introduced in evidence and read into the record after vigorous objections had been made by Edgar N. Wilson, chief counsel for Senator Stilwell. The telegram Mr. Kendall said was sent to Senator Stilwell by him on March 25, the day following the receipt by him of Senator Stilwell's telegram, reading "Fifteen is the correct number."

Different interpretations are given to this message by Mr. Kendall and Senator Stilwell. Mr. Kendall testified to-day that the telegram had been sent by Senator Stilwell in accordance with a code agreed upon between them after a talk they had in Senator Stilwell's private office, at 261 Broadway, in New York City. Mr. Kendall testified that to him the message meant that $1,500 would be required to have his bill favorably reported by the Assembly Codes Committee, in addition to the $2,000 which Senator Stilwell, according to Mr. Kendall's story, had said was needed to bribe four members of the Senate Codes Committee in order to obtain a favorable report from that body.

Senator Stilwell, on the other hand, says that the message had reference to the number of members of the Assembly Codes Committee, and, in support of this contention, points to a letter which he sent to Kendall on March 26, in which he wrote that he had been in error when he gave fifteen as the number, as there were only thirteen. This letter is in evidence.

A Disputed Telegram.

The telegram which counsel for Senator Stilwell fought to keep out of the record on the ground that it never reached him, was traced to the Capitol building through the testimony of a messenger boy and the manager of the Postal Telegraph Company's Capitol office. The messenger said that he had delivered it to one of the Doorkeepers in the Senate chamber. It read as follows:

> New York, March 25, 1913.
> Stephen J. Stilwell, Senate Chamber, Albany, N. Y.
> Five for thing as law better than present uncertainties.

The telegram was not signed, but Mr. Kendall admitted that he was its author, and testified that what he meant to convey was that he would rather pay $5,000 to make the passage of his bill sure than $3,500 merely for a favorable report from the committee.

The letter which Seantor Stilwell said had not reached him was sent by Mr. Kendall. It was dated March 29, and was written after a telephone talk between Mr. Kendall and Senator Stilwell, in which Kendall, it is alleged, told Stilwell that he had determined not to be balked in his efforts to have the bill reported, which prohibited discrimination against his company by the New York Stock Exchange in the matter of printing certificates of stocks listed on the Exchange. He had threatened to expose the alleged bribery attempt unless the bill was favorably reported in both houses.

After a stenographer from Mr. Kendall's office had testified that she had written the letter at the dictation of George A. Field, Vice President of the New York Bank Note Company, and that Mr. Kendall had signed it, Chairman Murtaugh ruled that it was admissible.

The letter as read into the record by Attorney General Carmody follows:

> Hon. Stephen J. Stilwell,
> Senate Codes Committee,
> Albany, N. Y.
> Dear Sir: Your alibi of the 27th received, but I don't think your explanation of telegram is conclusive. For one reason, it is not given until after I had notified you of my intention to send the following telegram to the Governor and every member of the Legislature:
> "Stilwell declines to report Stock Exchange bill No. 1,188 out of committee unless I pay him $2,000 for his committee and $1,500 for Assembly Committee on Codes. Have already paid him $250 for drawing bill. Have documents sustaining these statements. What shall I do to get justice?
> Your explanation above referred to having been written on the 27th, which was two days after the sending of the telegram which it explained.
>
> Yours very truly,
> GEORGE H. KENDALL.

zSenator Stilwell's counsel said late to-day that the defense would be a complete denial of the truth of Mr. Kendall's story and a claim that the correspondence which has been introduced in evidence was susceptible of an entirely different interpretation from that placed upon it by the witness.

The interesting information became public to-day that a man who sat among the spectators and closely scanned Mr. Kendall while he was testifying was an alienist who has been retained by Senator Stilwell's attorneys and attended the hearing in his professional capacity.

Mr. Kendall's Testimony.

Mr. Kendall, when he took the stand this morning, testified that he had been engaged in his present business in New York City for thirty-four years. He said his first meeting with Senator Stilwell occurred on Feb. 13 this year. Gov. Sulzer had sent him to see the Senator about having his bill framed and introduced.

"I went to the Senate Codes Committee room and I met Senator Stilwell in the doorway as he was coming out," said the witness. "He had his hat and coat on and seemed to be in a hurry, but he went back into the room again, and I told him that the Governor had sent me and what I wanted."

"Oh, this is about that engraving business," Senator Stilwell replied, according to the witness. "It must be a small matter. I haven't the time to attend to it now."

"'What is the size of your concern?' the Senator then asked me. 'Oh,' I said. 'We own our own real estate in the heart of the city, and we have a handsome surplus in cash and we have a very large plant.' At that the Senator seemed more interested."

Senator Stilwell said that there would be a hearing before the Codes Committee on some pending bills on Feb. 19, and asked him to tell his story before the committee then. Mr. Kendall said he went to Albany on that day, accompanied by George A. Field, who besides being Vice President of the New York Bank Note Company is his second cousin.

"There was a hearing on, on some legislation I think, called the Moving Picture bill," Mr. Kendall testified. "It took many hours and toward the end Stilwell got up from his seat and beckoned me to follow him. I went out into the hall. He produced from his pocket two sheets of paper, smallish sheets of paper little larger than note size, and showed me where he had drafted a bill for my relief and read it to me. I said that did not seem to me to fit our case or to give us relief, and he said that it would take some research; that he was a lawyer, practicing in New York, and was a member of a law firm there, and that he ought to be paid for drawing the bill.

"I said, 'You surprise me a little, because the Governor told me that there was a bill drafting department, and sent me to you to have you hear my case and to have the bill drawn.' I said to him, 'How much will it cost, anyway,' and he said, 'It ought to be worth $500.' I said, 'It would not take more than a couple of days research to find out what you want to know, and I should think $100 a day would pay you amply.' He said: 'Make it $250.' I agreed.

"I asked him if he wanted the money then, and he said no. I said, 'I will send you a check for it.' He said, 'No, don't do that. I will introduce you to a man named Lewis, and you can make the check out to him and send it to him.'"

The Lewis mentioned is Samuel Lewis, Jr., who was removed as Revision Clerk of the Senate after the first publication of the Kendall charge that he had paid $250 to him as a fee for drafting the bill. Mr. Lewis was a witness at the hearing to-day and identified a check he had received in payment for his bill-drafting job.

Talk in Stilwell's Office.

Mr. Kendall told of a meeting he had with Senator Stilwell at the latter's New York office on Monday afternoon, March 24. He said he called at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, in response to a letter. Here is part of the testimony on that point:

"Senator Stilwell said: 'We may as well get down to business.' He said: 'Four of my committeemen want $500 apiece to report that bill out of committee.' I was much non-plussed by it. I said to him: 'That is only to report it out of committee!' He said: 'Yes.' I said: 'Report it out of committee to the Senate?' He said: 'Yes.' I said: 'If I should pay that $2,000 would that insure its passing?' He said: 'No, that is reporting it out.' I said to him: 'Is there not another Committee on Codes on the other side, in the Assembly?' He said: 'Yes, there is another committee there.' I said: 'Would that include the House side of reporting it out?' He said: 'No, and it might cost you something.'

"I asked him how much, and he said he did not know, but that he was going to Albany that night, and I forget whether he said he would be here at 8 o'clock or he was going at 8 o'clock, and that he would canvass the Assembly committee and find out what, if anything, it would cost me. The next morning he would send me a telegram, in which there was a number, and if it was to cost me anything that was to be the number of hundred dollars.

"I told him that I was surprised at the situation. He said that I need not protest because the Exchange had fixed things so up there that the Incorporation bill would be reported out of the committee, or had been reported out of committee on the House side, had passed the House or would pass it and that it had or would come out of the Committee on Judiciary on the Senate side, but that the bill would be killed on the floor. It would never be heard of again after it got on the floor."

"That was the Stock Exchange Incorporation bill?" asked Attorney General Carmody.

"Yes, sir," the witness replied.

"I said that if money was the thing that was used to get these things through, that I might as well keep mine and stay out of the competition, as the Exchange could put up one hundred or a thousand dollars to my one. He said, 'The Exchange has not put up anything on your bill.' I said, 'Do you mean on the other?' He said, 'Yes, and there is no kick coming on the size of your amount.' 'On what?' 'No kick coming on the size, the amount—the barrel.'"

"Did he say in that conversation, 'I don't want anything for myself, but four of my committeemen want $500 apiece to report the bill out of committee.'?"

"Yes, Sir. He said, 'My committee consists of nine members, and I don't want anything for myself; four of the committeemen want $500 apiece to report the bill out of committee.'"

Stillwell Makes Denial.

Mr. Kendall then told of receiving the "fifteen is the correct number" telegram on the following day and of sending the reply by wire. Mr. Stilwell at once said in a loud voice that he had never received that telegram. W. M. Pruyn, manager of the Postal Telegraph Company, was called as a witness, and identified the telegram as one which had been received at Albany.

At the afternoon session, after the disputed letters and telegrams had been admitted in evidence, Mr. Kendall was turned over to Mr. Wilson for cross-examination.

Before the hearing adjourned for the day Mr. Kendall testified that he had no reason to believe that any member of the Senate or Assembly except Mr. Stilwell was concerned in the alleged attempt to extort a bribe from him. This was to meet the alleged statements by Senator Stilwell that four members of the Senate Codes Committee had demanded $500 each to report the bill and that $1,500 was demanded by the Assembly committee. When the hearing continues to-morrow Mr. Kendall will again be a witness. He will be followed on the stand by Mr. Field.

BANK STOCKHOLDERS LIABILITY IS UPHELD

Van Tuyl Wins Victory in Court of Appeals in Lafayette Trust Co. Case.

100 P. C. ON STOCK AT PAR

Decision Expected to Have Far-Reaching Influence in Strengthening Banking Standards.

By a decision of the Court of Appeals just handed down the question of the liability of stockholders of a defunct banking institution, which has been argued in the courts for the last thirty years, has been finally settled. In accordance with this decision, all stockholders of institutions which are liquidated through the State Banking Department are liable to depositors for a full 100 per cent. of the amount of stock at par held. This ruling, it is expected, will have far-reaching influence in strengthening the banking standard of New York State.

The Court of Appeals decision, which was written by Justice Hogan, grew out of the suit of George C. Van Tuyl, Jr., State Superintendent of Banks, against the stockholders of the Lafayette Trust Company of Brooklyn. August C. Scharmann, the brewer, was one of the defendants in the case. The decision was concurred in by all the other Judges of the Court of Appeals except Justice Collins. He did not, however, write a dissenting opinion. Ex-Judge D Cady Herrick and Frank M. Patterson appeared in Albany for Mr. Van Tuyl, and Almet R. Latson appeared for the stockholders.

The original action was begun in the Supreme Court of Kings County before Justice Crane, following the Banking Department's taking possession of the Lafayette Trust Company on Nov. 30, 1908. It was found that, apart from $48,335.77 in cash, the bank had unconverted and uncollected assets amounting to about $400,000, while the money owing to depositors amounted to $831,908.77.

Because of this condition Supt. Van Tuyl on March 21, 1910, made an assessment and requisition upon the stockholders for $500,000, that being the capital stock of the bank. Each stockholder was required to pay the 100 per cent. assessment within thirty days.

Stockholders File Demurrer.

A demurrer filed by counsel for the stockholders, who had not only lost their original payment for their stock, but an additional amount equal to the par value of the stock, was overruled by Justice Crane, who held that the action of the Supermtendent of Banks could be successfully maintained. This decision was unanimously affirmed by the Appellate Division in a per curiam opinion, and from the Appellate Division the case was taken to the Court of Appeals.

The technical question involved was whether the liability of the stockholders should be enforced by the Superintendent of Banks under the provision of the Banking law of 1908, the passage of which was obtained by Gov. Hughes after the evils of the old law had become manifest, or whether such liability was enforceable only after a compliance with the provisions of the old Stock Corporation law, which provided, among other things, that no action should be brought against a stockholder for any debt of the corporation until judgment therefor had been recovered against the corporation. It is interesting to note that the Court of Appeals, in rendering its decision, followed the Hughes reform measure.

This measure provides for liability to the extent of the par value of the shares held by any stockholder. This law runs counter to a banking law which was passed as early as 1887, and out of this difference the long drawn out controversy in the courts grew.

Referring to the Hughes banking reform measures, Justice Hogan, in his decision, said:

> The statute of 1908 expressly repealed all acts and parts of acts inconsistent therewith, and in unmistakable language conferred authority upon the Superintendent of Banks, if necessary, to pay the debts and liabilities of a trust company, to institute action in this official capacity to enforce the liability imposed upon the stockholders thereof by Section 196 of the Banking law, unhampered by any limitations contained in the Stock Corporation law or the fact that the charter of the company had not been dissolved by judgment of the court. The scheme of the statute was to provide a procedure for the liquidation of delinquent corporations through a department of the State for the benefit of creditors which would be economic and speedy.
> National Bank Liquidation.
> The same general plan prevails in the liquidation of National banks by the Controller of the Currency, and the relief sought by the complaint in this action is similar to the relief which was theretofore obtained in proceedings authorized to be taken against stockholders of bank corporations to enforce the liability imposed upon them by Article 8, Section 7, Constitution of 1846, (Laws of 1849, Chapter 226; Banking Law of 1882, Chapter 409, Article VI.,) and which was sustained by this court in the matter of Empire City Bank, (18 N. Y., 199.)
> In the examination of the questions involved in this appeal we have not deemed it necessary to refer to the liability imposed upon stockholders by the Constitution of 1894, (Article VIII., Section 7,) neither have we overlooked the decisions of this court, called to our attention by the learned counsel for appellants. The cases upon which stress was laid by him were decided before the passage of the act of 1908.

Frank M. Patterson of 27 William Street, attorney for the State Banking Department, said that the decision was one which all good banks would receive with satisfaction.

The Lafayette Trust Company was the successor of the defunct Jenkins Trust Company. The latter company closed its doors in October, 1907, following the panic.

FARM PROFITS TOO SMALL.

Big Conference Inquires into Disproportionate Gains of Dealers.

CHICAGO, April 8.—Chicago housewives to-day paid 2 cents a pound, or from 8 to 12 cents a head for fresh cabbage. In South Water Street commisson merchants paid $1.50 to $2 a crate; down in the Rio Grande County, on the Gulf Coast of Texas, cabbage was rotting on the farms.

The hunt for an answer to that problem prompted farmers, truck growers, and agricultural experts from thirty States and Canada to start a three days' inquiry here to-day.

Officially the assembly is known as the National Conference on Marketing and Farm Credits. It is the first of its kind. It is independent of organizations, and came into being because heads of granges, farm experts, and growers who had invested millions in land in the aggregate saw their products going to waste while the cost of living went up and the consumers paid the bill.

Warren Dunham Foster, member of the Massachusetts Homstead Commission, told why New England was supporting the conference.

"Potatoes that we raise on truck farms in Cummington, Mass., are rotting in the fields," said Mr. Foster. "In Worthington, a town practically contiguous to Cummington, they sell for $1.50 a bushel. There seems to be need for co-operation between East and West."

Many Causes for Revoking Licenses Contained in Seeley's Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 8.—When the Senate takes up its normal business after the close of the Stilwell investigation it will give consideration to a bill introduced by Senator Seeley, a physician, which throws greater restrictions about the practice of medicine. The bill is favored by the New York State Medical Society and Dr. Seeley says that the opposition comes from members of the profession who are not in sympathy with the State Association.

In its amended form the bill limits the discretionary power given to the Regents in the original bill.

The bill in its present form authorizes the State Board of Regents to revoke the license of a physician who is guilty of unprofessional conduct. The measure defines unprofessional conduct as advertising to cure certain diseases including chronic and incurable diseases, the employing of solicitors to obtain patients by holding out hope in incurable cases.

Offering professional services without compensation unless an incurable disease is permanently cured; wilfully betraying a professional secret; habitual drunkenness or addiction to drugs; dividing or promising to divide a fee without the knowledge of the patient or the person paying the fee, and any other action not consonant with good morals or anything said or done detrimental to the health or morals of others.

It was reported that under the bill the license of a physician could be revoked if he gave information to newspapers or wrote for magazines. Dr. Seeley denies that the bill would give such power. The bill has been amended twice and in its final form has eliminated the following in the acts condemned as unprofessional: "Any other act which, in the judgment of the Board of Regents is inimical to the good name and character of the medical profession or which in the judgment of said board tends to impair public confidence in the members of profession."

Dr. Seeley says that under the bill it is impossible to bring about the revocation of a license of a reputable physician.

Take That Fur Coat—Off Your Tongue!

IT feels like a fur coat, it is a fur coat and you won't be well till you take it off. As sure as fate your tongue can tell you every morning whether your system needs attention. Follow this advice immediately and your bowel troubles will be few. A whitish-yellow coat indicates a stomach and intestinal disorder. That coat consists of Bacteria, destroyed cells and vegetable organisms (fungi), and runs all the way from your intestinal tract.

TO TAKE IT OFF YOU MUST CLEAN OUT YOUR BOWELS. Don't wait till to-night. Do it now. Take a laxative that acts QUICKLY, within an hour or so. HUNYADI JANOS WATER, the natural laxative, does it and does it well. No griping, no reminder. ½ glass when you get up in the morning, or at any time on an empty stomach. At all Druggists.

THE JUDGMENT HOUSE

Now and then a book, a novel, sweeps us off our feet—lifts us out of the work-a-day world and sets us down in the delectable country of romance—breathless but happy. So with "The Judgment House." It is, above all, a wholly satisfying story—a story of wide spaces and of a Cleopatra-like heroine swaying men and almost the destinies of nations by the inescapable charm of personality and beauty.

Betraying New England!

Conclusion of the remarkable true story by Mr. John F. Moors—a story of such absorbing interest that two big editions of the March New England Magazine have been sold out.

Part II. with synopsis of Part I. appears in the April New England Magazine.

Who instigated the bitter attacks on the New Haven Road, and why?

Are these attacks justifiable or not?

What is the truth about them?

Does New England want persecution or fair play?

Mr. Moors has had the courage to take the hitherto unpopular side of this fight and he hits right from the shoulder with facts and figures—

Everybody interested in business stability should read this story, "Betraying New England." Many thousands have read the first part—the second part with synopsis of the first is to be found in

$671,319 NOW GIVEN FOR FLOOD VICTIMS

MOTION PICTURE BENEFIT

Saturday Evening Proceeds of 689 Exhibitors to be Donated—The New Subscriptions.

The total funds received in this city for the relief of the flood sufferers of Ohio and Indiana reached the sum of $671,319 yesterday, an additional $8,854 being received for the day by the various agencies collecting the fund. Of the total $531,042 was received by the Red Cross. An additional $80,000 was telegraphed to the National headquarters of the society at Washington from the office of Jacob H. Schiff, Treasurer of its New York State board, yesterday, bringing the total sent by the Red Cross from this city up to $515,000.

W. S. Hawk, President of the Ohio Society, called at the Mayor's office yesterday and presented to the Mayor his check for $3,079.50, the second contribution of the Ohio Society for the relief of the flood sufferers in Ohio. Immediately following the floods the society sent its check for $1,000 to Gov. Cox for the immediate relief of the flood sufferers. Subsequently the Treasurer of the society asked for contributions and received $3,079.50.

At the office of Jacob H. Schiff and at its uptown office, 105 East Twenty-second Street, the Red Cross yesterday collected $3,675. The Merchants' Association at its offices, 54 Lafayette Street, collected $915, bringing up the total contributed through its members to $70,128. Of this $15,000 has been turned over by the association to the Red Cross.

Mrs. W. K. Draper, Secretary of the New York State Board of the Red Cross, received yesterday a telegram from Ernest P. Bicknell, National Director of the Red Cross, at Columbus, Ohio, descriptive of the relief measures now being carried out in the flood-stricken districts. The message said:

> Trained social workers from the cities east and west of the flooded territory in the Middle West are still being drafted into the relief work here and assigned as special representatives of the Red Cross to take charge of relief and rehabilitation in stricken cities. J. W. Magruder of Baltimore was sent to Hamilton to-day, Walter T. Cosper of Washington to Ironton and Portsmouth, Ralph J. Reed of Chicago to Peru, Ind.; Albert E. Webster of Chicago to Logansport, Ind.; Louis H. Levin of Baltimore to Marietta and Muskingum Valley, H. Wirt Steele of Baltimore to be assistant to Director Bicknell, with headquarters at the State House, Columbus. He will also investigate conditions in Delaware, Ohio, in Columbus, where an area embracing seven public school districts was flooded, 87 persons drowned, 345 houses totally destroyed, and 4,474 families driven out of homes.
> Upward of 10,000 persons still receiving daily rations from emergency supplies. This number will probably be rapidly reduced as city advertising for laborers, and many industries resuming operations. Work of family rehabilitation has begun.

Announcement was made yesterday by the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association of New York that a benefit for the purpose of raising funds for the relief of the flood sufferers in Ohio would be held on Saturday evening, when 689 individual members of the association will devote the entire proceeds of their houses between the hours of 7 and 11 o'clock to the fund.

In addition to the individual exhibitions, there will be also a general exhibition at the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, Twenty-sixth Street and Lexington Avenue. At this exhibition moving-picture stars will perform in person, duplicating the scenes shown on the films. The exhibition will open at 7:30 o'clock. The use of the armory was given for the purpose by Gov. Sulzer in a communication to Col. Conley of the Sixty-ninth Infantry.

FLOWERS FOR MORGAN.

Roses to Surround Bier in Red Room of Financier's Home.

At a family council yesterday afternoon it was decided that the body of J. P. Morgan should lie in state from the time of its arrival on the liner France on Friday until Monday morning in the red room of his home, where the financier met his Directors and transacted the greater part of his business in recent years.

The room, which is on the Thirty-sixth Street side, opposite the library, is 35 by 40 feet, and is built of white stone with red Turkish carpets and hangings. The casket will be placed on a funeral bier under the portraits of the dead banker's father, Junius Spencer Morgan, and that of his son, John Pierpont, who succeeds him.

Mr. Morgan's favorite flowers, deep red roses and American beauties, will be used exclusively to adorn the room while the body is lying in state. No set floral pieces will be placed in the red room, it was said yesterday. They will all be sent to the church on Monday morning in time for the service. Hundreds of roses will be scattered over the room in vases and jars in the homelike, simple fashion that Mr. Morgan liked best. Flowers sent by W. K. Vanderbilt, Thomas F. Ryan, Charles Lanier, D. G. Reid and other business friends of the late banker had no cards attached to them.

THEATRICAL DIVORCE HEARD

Player Accuses Her Husband and an Actress Referred to as "Peggy."

Mrs. Octavia Burke, who is now playing in "Oh! Oh! Delphine!" appeared as plaintiff in an action for divorce against her husband, George C. Burke, a former member of the Naughty Marietta Company, before Justice Van Siclen in the Queens County Supreme Court yesterday. An actress referred to as "Peggy," a former member of the Naughty Marietta Company, was named as corespondent. Mrs. Burke is living with her mother, Mrs. Augusta Burden, a wealthy resident of Whitestone, L. I.

Aubrey Mittenthal, who controlled the Naughty Marietta Company, told of scenes between Burke and "Peggy," while George C. Smith, also a theatrical manager, told of surprising Burke and "Peggy" in a hotel in West Thirty-eighth Street last August. Burke made no defence. Justice Van Siclen directed Mrs. Burke's attorneys to prepare an order for an interlocutory divorce, and reserved decision.

SAY 'DUMMY' WON'T SURRENDER $100,000

COURT INJUNCTION ASKED

A. M. Young's Assignees Unable to Find Any Paper to Prove Holding Contract.

Supreme Court Justice Lehman reserved decision yesterday on the application for an injunction made by Anthony N. Brady and Thomas F. Wood, Jr., assignees of the late Alden M. Young, to restrain Joseph F. Kelly, formerly a stenographer in the office of Young & Warner, 30 Church Street, from disposing of securities valued at more than $100,000, which the plaintiffs allege he holds merely as a "dummy." An affidavit attached to the complaint says: "It would be idle to endeavor to collect $100,000 from a man who has never been in receipt of a salary exceeding $2,900 a year."

According to the complaint, Anthony N. Brady and Alden M. Young arranged in 1911 to take over the Dayton Power and Lighting Company of Dayton, Ohio, by the purchase of 8,000 shares of its preferred stock of a par value of $800,000; 7,000 shares of the common stock of a par value of $700,000, and $600,000 in first mortgage bonds, the total being $2,100,000. For the purchase of this controlling interest in the company the contractors for the stock agreed to pay the company's floating indebtedness of $229,000, and to develop the resources of the enterprise by equipping a new street car line and adding to the power plant and distributing system. A letter written by Young to Brady and dated June 26, 1911, gives this explanation of the transaction:

> "I worked night and day on the new mortgage and only got it off at 1 o'clock Sunday. You see, the time was limited before the new State Commission comes into Ohio, and I have had to live with the work every moment in order to obtain the securities without reference to the commission. I thought it best to get the securities under a different name than ours. We can have them turned over to use and write a letter to the contractor relieving him of all responsibility on the contract by his turning over the securities. We can take the securities from time to time as we need the money to put through the contract."

A contract, the complaint alleges, was then drawn up between the Dayton Power and Lighting Company and Joseph F. Kelly, representing the New York contractors for the stock, whereby it was agreed that the securities should be held by the latter and turned over to the purchasers as they developed the company according to the purchasing agreement. For every advance of $8,800 in this work Kelly was to give over to Young and Brady 100 shares of the preferred stock and ten $1,000 bonds to cover the investment and fifty shares of the common stock as a bonus. By this method the promoters figured they would obtain approximately $1,000,000 in profits on an expenditure of $1,200,000.

Young died on Dec. 3, 1911, but the contract was carried on by Milton J. Warner, Young's brother-in-law and partner. Kelly, whose name was down on the papers as the contractor, continued to carry out his duties of delivering stock and bonds, and while handling these large sums was still employed as a stenographer at a salary of $25 a week. Becoming dissatisfied with this salary, Kelly asked his employer for larger remuneration on Oct. 28, and upon his request being refused he removed all his personal effects from the office to his home, 2,493 Valentine Avenue, the Bronx.

Even after his salary as stenographer had ceased Kely continued to deliver the required amount of stock upon the payment of the $8,800, and this money he turned over to the Ohio company. Finally Brady and Warner, the complaint says, discovered that the amount of work they had contracted to do in developing the Dayton Company did not require any further outlay, and that they were entitled to all the securities remaining in Kelly's possession. Accordingly, a demand was made upon Kelly, but he replied by saying that he was not a "dummy" but the contractor, and entitled to whatever profit he might make from the transaction.

Search was then made of Kelly's desk in his former office, but there were no papers discovered disproving his contention. If Mr. Young made any written contract with Kelly such a document could not be found among his effects. The most that those who asserted that they were the real contractors could do was to apply for an injunction restraining Kelly from disposing of these securities. They also asked for an accounting of Kelly's affairs. Decision on this motion was also reserved by Justice Lehman. The complaint alleges that Kelly has hypothecated sixty-one bonds of the Dayton Power and Lighting Company for a loan of $25,000 from the Second National Bank of Hoboken, and that he is endeavoring to dispose of 125 other bonds of the company.

"——— Hath Murdered Sleep"

No, no, not Macduff this time, but an ordinary, bumpy, flat, uncomfortable, "up-hill-and-down-dale" sort of mattress. The hair congests in hard knots, leaving flabby spaces between, because the mattress is carelessly made of inferior hair, by machinery. Of course you didn't sleep.

Now, had you had a "Macy" mattress a long, peaceful rest would have been yours. Macy mattresses are made differently from the very beginning. Only the finest, carefully selected, thoroughly cleansed hair is used, and this is previously passed through a force-blower to perfectly remove every tiny particle of dust or foreign matter, leaving the hair fluffy, soft, and absolutely sanitary. No bumps or "ups-and-downs" in these mattresses because they are substantially and carefully built by hand, insuring evenness. A downy, even, thoroughly sanitary mattress is the result of such extreme care in making. As always, Macy's "Lowest-in-the-City" prices prevail.

METHODIST PASTORS GET ASSIGNMENTS

Annual Conference Adjourns After the Announcement of Presiding Bishop Is Made.

WHERE THE PREACHERS GO

Shepherds and Their Flocks in the New York, Kingston, Newburgh, and Poughkeepsie Districts.

The last day of the New York Methodist Conference, which has been in session for a week at the Metropolitan Temple, Seventh Avenue and Fourteenth Street, was opened yesterday with a devotional service conducted by Bishop Luther B. Wilson. The wives and families of the members of the Conference, who, with the ministers, heard last night the assignments for the new Conference year, occupied the gallery.

After a short address by Bishop Wilson, in which he urged the members of the Conference to stand and work together for a better Methodism, a resolution was passed welcoming Dr. W. H. Morgan, formerly of the Newark Conference, to the New York Conference.

The minutes of the day were then read by Secretary George W. Grinton. The reading of the assignments followed:

LOCKED IN 4 HOURS AND SHE IN WAITING

Keyes, with a Matinee Appointment, Held Prisoner in a Telephone Booth.

PASSERS-BY GRINNED AT HIM

Shouting, Gesticulating, Pounding, He Collapsed When Rescued—Girl There When He Revives.

Having all the fine Spring afternoon before him yesterday, young George P. Keyes of Stapleton, S. I., bethought him of a matinée and dinner afterward and his fancy lightly turned to Elsie Howard, his Richmond neighbor at Dongan Hills. That is how it happened that at 11 o'clock in the morning, he stepped into an isolated booth on the second floor of the Staten Island Ferry House at the Battery, closed the door behind him, dropped a coin in the slot, and, after a brief chat over the wire, arranged to meet Miss Howard in the ferry house at noon. Then he gaily hung up the receiver and reached for the knob of the booth door. It turned, but the door did not give. Without the faintest suspicion of what the fates had in store for him, he threw his substantial weight against the door. It did not budge.

Fifteen minutes elapsed.

Keyes took off his hat and dropped it in the corner of the booth. It was growing very hot and stuffy in there, and he ground his heel on the lighted end of his cigar. Then, taking a deep breath, he threw himself against the door. This did not move the door.

Another fifteen minutes elapsed.

Keyes began to lose his temper and say things to the telephone and the door. He rattled the doorknob angrily. A passing man and woman saw him beckon frantically. They shook their heads and smiled sadly. He shrieked at them, but he could see that they did not hear. He peeled off his coat and, as he twisted and turned to draw his arms from the sleeves, his eyes lighted on the telephone that had been the cause of all his trouble. But, instead of breaking it to pieces, he smiled a beautiful smile. He would call Central and appeal to her. He reached eagerly for a coin in his pocket. There were no coins there. He had used the last one in calling Miss Howard and agreeing to meet her at 12 o'clock.

It was now 12 o'clock, and Keyes broke into a perspiration. He wondered if she would ever believe his story. He removed his collar and necktie.

Another half hour passed.

By this time the air in the booth was stifling. The stale cigar smoke made it foul. Keyes was choking. He beat furiously upon the thick glass of the booth door. More persons passed by, and those who noticed him at all watched curiously and then went their way, amused or pitying. He yelled till he was hoarse, but he might have whispered softly for all they heard or paid any attention. He felt like a being from some other world trying vainly to communicate with the men of this. He felt like Peter Grimm trying to talk across the space between the living and the dead. He drove both his fists against the panels. It split his knuckles, but did not split the panels. The door was of glass, doubled and wired.

It was half-past 1 o'clock. He had been in the booth for two hours and a half.

Keyes tried gesticulation that would have won his way to stardom in pantomime. The passing people stopped only for a moment and gazed at him with a detached amazement. The peculiar expression of his distorted features was heightened by his collarless condition and the disarray of his hair through which his excited fingers had been run again and again. The passersby shrugged their shoulders—and passed by.

It was 2 o'clock.

Keyes fumbled in his pockets and came upon a buttonhook. For a long time he picked and pried at the snaplock with this tool but he could not open the door. He began to get very tired and dizzy, and for quite a long while he slunk huddled in the corner—discouraged.

His face was flushed. He found it hard to breathe. He was choking. Now he realized his situation and with the realization came an access of energy. He threw himself at the door and beat upon it till he was exhausted.

It was then that a small boy passing the booth paused to look at him. He saw what looked like a wild man, with wide eyes, red face, tousled hair, and frenzied bearing. This man was beating on the door of the booth and gesticulating grotesquely. The boy was wiser than all his elders, who had passed through the ferry house. He went out in front and spoke to the policeman on duty there.

"Say," he said, "get a padded wagon. There's a nut upstairs that ought to be tied up somewhere."

He led the patrolman to the telephone booth and the ear of law and order was placed at the crack of the door. Ever so faintly the words came through. There were two of them. They were: "Locked in."

A workman was called and with all speed the glass panels were removed with a diamond-pointed cutter. They found Keyes collapsed in a heap on the floor of the booth and he had to be carried into the waiting room and stretched on the floor. When he came to, he looked into the faces of the crowd that pressed around him. The first and only face he saw was that of Miss Howard.

It was 3 o'clock.

N. F. BRADY HEADS EDISON CO.

Elected to Succeed His Father at the Age of 34.

Nicholas F. Brady was elected President of the New York Edison Company at a meeting of the Board of Directors yesterday afternoon to succeed his father, Anthony N. Brady, who has held that position since 1901. The new President was graduated from college a little less than fourteen years ago and is only 34 years old.

When the New York Edison Company was formed through the amalgamation of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of New York and the New York, Gas, Electric Light, Heat and Power Company about twelve years ago Anthony N. Brady, who was head of the former company, was elected President. Yesterday, on relinquishing his place to his son, he was made Chairman of the Board of Directors.

For several years Nicholas F. Brady has been First Vice President of the New York Edison Company, and has had an important part in deciding the policies of the corporation. His assumption of the duties of President of the company will be marked by no special change of plans because he has helped largely to determine the activities of the corporation in the past.

TELEPHONE STRIKE SUBSTITUTES READY

TRUCE FOR ANOTHER DAY

State Board and Chamber of Commerce Strive for Settlement of Wage Demand.

BOSTON, April 8.—The reply of President Spalding of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company to the 2,200 operators who demand increased wages is promised for 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. Meantime, the negotiations between the company and its employes will be continued at conferences in which the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration will participate.

That much was determined at the close of a day in which there were many developments in the telephone dispute. After the agreement of yesterday that there should be no strike until President Spalding's decision had been received, the union officials regarded the situation as at a standstill until they learned to-day that girls were being brought from other cities to take the places of the union workers should the latter operators quit work.

The action of the company in bringing from New York and other places 600 women in the employ of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, coupled with the announcement that the whole Bell organization was behind the subsidiary company in the fight here, was a disappointment to the Boston girls. They had thought the company would make an effort to fill their places with new employes.

The Boston girls, however, have the promise of the various unions of telephone employes to begin sympathetic strikes if the operators here go out. They also have assurance of support from the Boston Central Labor Union.

The indications were to-night that a compromise would be reached through the influence of the State Board and the Chamber of Commerce.

400 Girls Start from New York.

Four hundred girl operators of the New York Telephone Company left the Grand Central Station by special train yesterday for Boston, there to be held ready in case the operators of that city should carry out their threat to strike. Other substitutes were to be recruited from Chicago, Baltimore, Washington and Pittsburgh. Every young woman who started from this city, it was asserted, had volunteered for the service. It was said in the office of the company that when a call for volunteers went out on Monday there were enough responses to have supplied a larger company for the Boston service. Trained employes were chosen.

The telephone special of seven passenger cars left the Grand Central at 7:55 A. M. Long before the hour of departure, the girls began to arrive. Most of them were accompanied to the station by relatives or friends. Two or three who prolonged their farewells almost were left behind. The train was in motion when the last of the party was helped on board.

There was a story of an operator who withdrew at the last minute with the explanation that she would not be a strike-breaker. That was denied by an official. Twelve monitors were in charge of divisions. The girls had been drawn from the East New Jersey district, Yonkers, Westchester, Manhattan, Brooklyn and Queens. In a separate car went fifty linemen and a score of trouble-finders. R

Each young woman will receive full salary for every day out of town. All expenses will be paid by the company. Every girl will receive a bonus of $25.

PROTECTION BY EFFICIENCY.

American manufacturers, producers, and wage earners must be slow of apprehension if they have not already got into their heads the real intent and effect of the Democratic tariff policy. Chairman Underwood gave the hint, but President Wilson makes full avowal and disclosure. The new tariff bill, in which the intention of Congress and of the Executive is embodied, will make American industries self-dependent, self-sustaining. The Government will no longer assure profits by excluding competition. If the new rates are enacted, the manufacturers of the country must have resort, not to the artificial protection of the tariff, but to the natural protection of their own abilities as managers, and of the skill and industry of their workmen, both alike contributing to a higher efficiency and lower cost of production. This means that factory methods must be re-examined to the end that waste of effort and material may be cut off, that the best modern methods may be applied. It means that labor, especially organized labor, must change its methods. Labor, too, must adopt the rule of higher efficiency, for the payroll is in most cases the largest factor of cost. Where a manufacturer finds it difficult or impossible to meet the new competition, he will be forced to demand of his workmen either a higher rate of production, or, inevitably, longer hours or a lower wage.

There can be no mistake about it. President Wilson in his message points out as one effect of the Democratic tariff policy that "our men of business will be left free to thrive by the law of nature (the nature of free business) instead of by the law of legislation and artificial arrangement." "Consciously or unconsciously," he says, "we have built up a set of privileges and exemptions from competition behind which it was easy by any, even the crudest, forms of combinations to organize monopoly." Then follows this significant passage:

> We must abolish everything that bears even the semblance of privilege or of any kind of artificial advantage, and put our business men and producers under the stimulation of a constant necessity to be efficient, economical, and enterprising, masters of competitive supremacy, better workers and merchants than any in the world. * * * The object of the tariff duties henceforth laid must be effective competition, the whetting of American wits by contest with the wits of the rest of the world.

This has very much the look of a triple deliverance—a deliverance from the burden of high duties, a deliverance of American industrial genius and capacity from an enfeebling servitude to Government help and slothful ways, and the deliverance of the country's industries from the growing exactions of organized labor, which are rapidly approaching the point where they can no longer be borne. It is not primarily or necessarily a question of lower wages; beyond all doubt it is a question of more productive labor. What we call the tyranny of labor organizations has had two objects, high and always higher wages, and diminishing production by the individual laborer, either through shorter hours, or through union rules and regulations that reduce output. Wages may remain at their present standard, but under the rule of competition they must be earned. In the vast majority of American industries the margin of profit is too narrow, if foreign competition is to be successfully met, to permit either of bad management by the owner or of shirking, slothfulness, or easy-going ways on the part of the operative.

There is a strange omission in the statement of Chairman Underwood and in the message of President Wilson. Not one word is said about the protection of the American workingman against the competition of European cheap labor. The omission is strange because no other tariff bill within memory has been put before the country without the accompaniment of appeasing professions of that nature. The Wilson doctrine, the Underwood doctrine, is that the American workingman, no more than the American manufacturer, stands in need of protection. He is intelligent, he is stout, he is capable; he can, if he will, protect himself, as the manufacturer must protect himself, by his own efficiency and his own wits.

No longer will Mr. Gompers and Mr. Mitchell preach the doctrine that every occasion must be seized for demanding an increase of wages; no longer will the universal eight-hour day be set up as the goal to be attained; no longer will the Iron Workers' Union or other unions pursue the policy of enforcing extortionate demands by dynamite and by violence. They will not preach these doctrines, they will not pursue these policies, because if the new tariff duties shall actually open the way to competition, labor must moderate its demands, it must adopt the principle of efficiency, for the alternative in plain view is the closed shop, not in the union sense, but in the physical sense of a shop closed and out of business. Let it once be demonstrated that under these duties and under the conditions of management and of labor that have prevailed with protective tariffs in force, foreign competition cannot be successfully met, then we must meet it in the way President Wilson indicates, by becoming better workers and better merchants than any in the world.

In the earlier days, before the labor organizations had become so dominant and controlling, a reduction of wages was practically the first resource of an employer who found himself confronted with a diminishing return, or the total disappearance of profits. That resource has been put out of reach. A President of the United States once practically forebade the railroads to reduce wages, at a time when they were in sore straits. But labor must now make its choice between wage reduction and increased efficiency and productiveness. There is no large-scale employer of union labor in the country who does not know that union rules and practices have reduced the efficiency of his working force below old standards, while wages are at top notch. There must be an amendment under the stress of competition from countries where labor is cheaper. If that competition shall really become threatening, employers will as of old look to their labor costs for a saving. It can be effected in either way: either by the lower wage or by the response in good faith of the wage earner to the demand that he put more of his heart, his intelligence, and his muscle into his work; that he take larger account of the interests of his employer, and pay less heed to the exhortation of labor leaders and agitators that he must diminish his daily output to the end that more workmen may be employed.

If President Wilson's intentions do not miscarry, the time is coming when capital will have to "hustle" in this country, and the new effort will do it no harm. But labor will have to "hustle," too. It must do its part or bear its part of the penalty. It is in effect an appeal to patriotism that the President makes, to the patriotism of employers and workers alike, that by a union of effort, by co-operation in efficiency and productiveness they maintain the high place of the United States among the industrial nations of the earth. We must confess that we are but a feeble folk if we cannot meet that test.

THE PRESIDENT'S INNOVATION.

President Wilson's overturning of a century-old precedent in appearing personally at the joint session of both houses of Congress to deliver his first message has been variously judged. Naturally the older Senators and Representatives regard it as a revolutionary proceeding, but these are not the days in which the views of the maturer minds prevail. Undoubtedly the custom was abandoned 112 years ago for good reasons. We have no idea that Mr. Wilson intends to be revolutionary in reviving it. He must have reasons, though they may not be satisfying to Congress. There may often be some advantage alike to the Executive and the legislators in having a message of counsel and appeal spoken effectively, with the emphasis properly placed, and not droned in a perfunctory manner by the clerk at the desk. The message was listened to yesterday. President Wilson probably has no equal in this country as an effective speaker.

The greatest advantage to Congress and the Nation in this manner of presenting the Chief Magistrate's view of public policy is that the spoken message must always be reasonably short. No President would attempt to speak a 20,000-word message to Congress. If the day of long messages has passed the country is to be congratulated. Mr. Wilson spoke just ten minutes yesterday, he was well received, and there seems no room for doubt that a majority of his hearers found the innovation agreeable. But it was an innovation, it might lead to unfortunate results, and any reasonable objections to it, clearly uttered, are worth heeding. Mr. Wilson's declaration that the President of the United States "is a person, not a mere department of the Government hailing Congress from some isolated island of jealous power" probably sounded better than it reads. The strong personal force of Presidents like Jackson, Lincoln, and Cleveland was never questioned. The Chief Magistrate's office has never been regarded as an "isolated island," and why should his "power" be "jealous"? The danger, therefore, is obvious that the messages, under the new order, may contain too many oratorical phrases of that sort which will not well bear inspection in print.

There is another point of view from which the direct delivery of the message deserves consideration. The President's address was applauded yesterday. Perhaps the audible expression of approval was grateful to him. But if approval in Congress of a President's message, delivered orally by him, is to be expressed in applause, may disapproval also be expressed? Surely a President courting and receiving applause may also run the risk of being hissed. It might be said that no Senator or Representative would so lower himself as to hiss the President, but one can easily imagine a condition of public feeling which might cause a rude manifestation of opposition to the President's remarks. That would certainly be deplorable.

Mr. Wilson acquitted himself admirably in his first attempt, but we do not believe that, however favorably his personality impressed Congress, his message will impress the Nation more deeply than it would if it had been sent by messenger and read by a clerk. Meanwhile he has laid himself open to the charge of airing his vanity, which is the worst that can be made in the circumstances. He has usurped no new power, and has not in the least magnified the authority of the office he fills. If he prefers to speak to Congress hereafter, instead of writing to it, Congress will probably submit with good grace. The wonder is that in seven years Theodore Roosevelt never thought of this way of stamping his personality upon his age.

THE FIRST CROP REPORT.

The first crop report is as cheerful this year as it was dismal last year. The acreage of Winter wheat is about the same as last year, which is a pleasant surprise in itself. The farmers were getting eight cents a bushel less last December, and they had been compelled to abandon 6,469,000 acres of Winter killed area. It was reasonable to imagine that they might have been disposed to less enthusiasm for Winter wheat culture, but they have sown about the same breadth, and the condition is eleven points higher. In comparison with the decade's average the condition is five points higher. The promise accordingly is for 535,000,000 bushels, compared with last year's crop of 399,919,000 and last year's promise at this time of 492,850,000. The difference in the millions of bushels of wheat is not very far from the same difference in dollars.

The encouragement is greater than this. The promise of Winter wheat is the promise for all crops, even for those not yet planted. Nothing but a season improving beyond all expectation saved the crops last year. This year only a disappointment beyond all expectation will blight the crops. Some abatement from the high present promise is to be expected, but it should be only a seasonable deterioration, and on a moderate scale. Nobody can doubt that there is moisture enough, and the Summer's sun does its work whenever the soil is saturated with the Winter's snows or the rains of the Spring. The farmer is playing in his old run of luck still, and the farmer's luck lately has been the luck of all consumers of the farmer's products. The farmer's prices have not fallen enough to discourage him, but they have fallen enough to be making an impression on the cost of living. A cheerful Summer seems to lie ahead, whatever sort of a tariff may be preparing for us.

PASSING AND ADMINISTERING TARIFFS.

A tariff, like a patent, has to be passed twice—once through Congress and again through the courts. Language cannot be written which will not be disputed by those interested to dispute it, and the meaning cannot be known with legal certainty until it has been litigated. This is particularly true regarding those features of the Underwood-Wilson tariff which are more novel than the new rates. The rates have been discussed for a long time, and yet there are those not reconciled to the reduction which the people have ordered. But nothing had been heard of innovations which are more irritating and disputable than percentages. The framers of this tariff have assumed to make it effective in foreign jurisdictions, and have taken the right to peer into commercial accounts heretofore guarded as rightful trade privacies. It is sought to do this by refusing admission to goods brought into this country unless the manufacturer and shipper shall submit his books of account to the inspection of the Treasury agents abroad. Section III, Paragraph U, reads:

> That if any person, persons, corporations or other bodies, selling, shipping, consigning or manufacturing merchandise exported to the United States, shall fail or refuse to submit to the inspection of a duly accredited investigating officer of the United States, when so requested to do, any or all of his books, records or accounts pertaining to the value or classification of such merchandise, then the Secretary of the Treasury, in his discretion, is authorized while such failure or refusal continues, to exclude from entry any and all merchandise sold, shipped, consigned, or manufactured by such person, persons, corporations, or other bodies, and imported into the United States.

Similar powers are conferred in the case of private records within the United States, and it may be expected that they will be resented and resisted. But this will be less serious than the resistance of foreign traders, who may be trusted to make themselves heard through their Governments. The intrusions of the income tax will not be resisted so stoutly as these invasions of commercial rather than personal privacies. The welfare of the individual must yield to the demands of the State, and only personal reasons can be given to the contrary. But the welfare of the State is involved in the freedom of commerce, and the freedom of commerce and manufacture is assailed when no secrets are sacred.

The reason of the new departure is to be found in the difficulty of fixing prices for the levying of duties. High as the old tariffs were the administration of them raised the rates so unjustly that all sorts of evasions were aroused. In both the old and the new tariffs it is provided that when the foreign market price can not be ascertained otherwise it shall be taken to be the American selling price for articles of a like sort. Importers have resented this, and their dislike is not likely to be lessened by the new provision authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to decide whether or not there is a foreign market price. One method of evading the market price was not to make a market by not selling the goods abroad. They were made abroad, but consigned to selling agents in this country. There now appears a provision requiring purchasing agents to be registered, and forbidding all other persons to act as such except upon disclosure of the terms of appointment, including the terms of payment, which must be operative only in the open market. The reason is plain. Hereafter it is intended that there shall be no juggling of the price by confusing it with the payments of commissions to agents.

Assuming these clauses—and others of like character—to be effective as designed, it may be asked whether it is worth while to substitute one sort of trouble for another. For it hardly is likely that access to the private books of many merchants will disclose uniform prices. Rates of profit vary for many reasons, and prices vary accordingly. Prices must be uniform in the open market, but private prices may vary for a thousand reasons, and in many conditions beside mere prices. Variations in credit, in terms of delivery, in quantities sold, and countless other details will appear on the books. But what becomes of the uniformity of the tariff if the disclosure of these private details fixes duty payments, altering accordingly? If the strict right of access to private accounts in foreign countries is doubtful, the expediency of demanding it, or of acting upon it, is not doubtful.

GERMAN TAXES AND GERMAN FINANCE.

It is worth remarking that the extraordinary German levy for military purposes is less alarming to Germany than to other nations. The reason is that German wealth is not altogether appreciated, and the terms of the tax have not been correctly understood. A billion marks, a quarter of a billion dollars, at one stroke is a large sum, but after all it is only two-fifths or three-fifths of 1 per cent. And it is to be taken in three installments, not all at once, as has been indicated in the dispatches describing the tax as a one-time tax; that is, one which will not recur.

The tax may well be worth what it costs if it shall serve its purpose of convincing all concerned that in the present mixed state of European politics one nation at least knows its mind, and gives a hostage against paltering with the great issues now up for determination. The grasp on the German pocketbook is no firmer than the grasp on the political situation. A policy of drift is more dangerous than a policy of decision. So far as Germany is concerned other nations know what they have to reckon with.

> The free list is greatly extended, as compared with the Payne-Aldrich law, and includes practically all foodstuffs, such as breakfast foods, common table fish, prepared meats, bread, flour, boots and shoes, lumber, steel rails, bituminous coal, agricultural machinery and implements. —The Evening Post.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Unreconciled Still to Automobiles.

That fierce animosity against the automobile which prevailed everywhere when the new vehicles first proved their ability to be something more than objects for roadside tinkering by amateur mechanics, has few manifestations nowadays. Evidently it still survives, however—in South Bethlehem, Penn., if nowhere else—for a letter just received from one Percy Hughes, a resident of that town, finds fault, not less severely because sarcastically, because we mentioned recently, as "automobile benefactions," the freeing of a lot of land for the raising of man food instead of horse food and a proportionate cutting down of the fly supply.

"How about an incidental impoverishment of that same land through the keeping of less live stock?" asks Mr. Hughes, and then he proceeds to mention in derisive quotation marks some other "benefactions" with which the automobile should be credited. It has turned, he says, at least 200,000 men from productive industries to manufacturing, advertising, selling, running, and repairing motor cars. Automobile traffic promotes good roads by inducing legislative bodies to construct them at enormous expense where they are of little or no use to the general population. It reduces the number of typhoid carriers at a million times the cost of equally effective disinfectants. It sweetens human intercourse by substituting for good fellowship and mutual comprehension class hatred and the lackey spirit. It cultivates appreciation of nature's beauties by carrying people through the country at vertiginous speed. It sends to long and well earned rest, without charge or embarrassing notification, thousands who otherwise would have to toil on for weary years.

A terrible indictment, this, of the automobile, and with an element of plausibility in each count. To most of them, however, obvious answers are ready, and by any court that fairly weighed the evidence on both sides the defendant would be acquitted—not, of course, as without sin, but as being, on the whole, a pretty good fellow, making the world a better place to live in by adding appreciably to its happiness and its utilities.

Universal Registry Suggested.

One of our most valued correspondents made yesterday the difficulty he had experienced in finding the new address of an acquaintance, with whom it was important for him to communicate on a matter of business, his justification of a demand for the establishment here of a system of complete and constant personal registry such as exists in most parts of Europe.

That system undoubtedly has its uses, and no very definite objection could be made to it by good citizens, all of whom are theoretically willing that the police and everybody else should either know or be able promptly to find out where they live and about what they are doing. To be sure, it would involve a vast amount of bookkeeping, expensive, and of a kind for which our police have almost no training. It also would make a considerable part of the population devote a considerable part of their energies to what to most or many of us would seem to be a sort of espionage, and be resented as such. On the other hand, we are, beyond question, woefully negligent and as woefully incompetent in the matter of keeping the vital statistics upon which so largely depend both the understanding and the improvement of social conditions.

To that fact, quite as much as to any peculiar or well-founded repugnance for governmental oversight, minute and personal, may be due the indifference or the hostility with which the suggestion to copy here the foreign registry system will undoubtedly be received. We are accustomed to admit only the necessity for our governing authorities to keep track more or less carefully of convicted criminals, and as a result we shrink from subjecting others, presumably good citizens, to any supervision of the same kind. For this we pay many and heavy penalties, in comparison with some of which the inconvenience which our correspondent described—an inconvenience which most of us have suffered occasionally and all are likely to suffer at any time—is hardly worth mentioning.

Even here, however, the permitted activities of our Government in its several grades are slowly increasing in number and extent, and we now submit with more or less docility to official questionings that not long ago would have been indignantly condemned as "inquisitorial" or "monarchical" or "paternal." Perhaps universal registration on the police books will come in time. People as free as we have accustomed themselves to it and have learned to value its advantages.

Their Story Remains to be Told.

A young woman, who had been shot and severely wounded by a man inflamed to murderous rage by jealousy and alcohol acting in congenial combination, astonished Judge O'Sullivan in the Court of General Sessions this week by asking mercy for her convicted assailant. The fellow was sorry for what he had done, she said, and they would be married at once if the Judge would let him go.

To the warning that she was risking another and fatal attack the first time her husband got drunk, the young woman replied that she was sure he would never do anything of the kind again, as he had promised complete reform. The cheapness of that promise as the price of escaping a long prison sentence was pointed out to her, but without weakening her confidence or her courage, and the Judge declared that in the circumstances his only course was to suspend sentence. Just why it was the only, or even the best, course is not clear, but that may be because all the facts of the case are not presented in the brief reports.

However that may be, the sentence was suspended, and after the man, at the Judge's exhortation, had "kissed the Book" and sworn never to drink again, the two departed from the courtroom amicably together. A few hours later they went to church and were duly and firmly married.

Probably, unless this experiment results desperately ill, nothing more will be heard of it. That will be a pity, for it would be not less useful than surprising to learn that its end was permanent reformation and the starting of a new line of good and useful citizens. The chances seem to be against that desirable outcome, but, to balance that, one can be close to certain that had the man been sent to prison he would have remained for the rest of his life a habitual criminal, that being the usual result of our penal system as now applied.

"Lonely Mother" Advised.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In answer to the article in your paper by W. L. Mason, concerning the old-fashioned mother, I wish to say that she has done her duty in the home in having raised her children. Now let her daughters do some of their own sewing and mending, and let the mother take up some outside work, what she likes best. There is so much to do, and her past experience will give her wisdom.

Rise up, mother! Don't sit in the corner and be lonely. The world needs you. You can do as much to make the world happy as you have done for your own family.

"Pelorus Jack's" Piloting Stretch.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wish to call your attention to an error in the Sunday pictorial section, wherein you show the pilot fish "Pelorus Jack," and state that his piloting stretch is between Tasmania and New Zealand.

This does not accord with the fact that it is in Cook's Straits, between the North and South Islands of New Zealand, that "Jack" performs his self-appointed task.

CRY OF "FREE SPEECH"

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The "freedom of speech and the right of public assembly" clause of the Constitution has within a twelvemonth been alleged to have been frequently violated. In several instances riots have resulted. Quite a riot was developed at Little Falls, N. Y., last September, which occupied lots of space in the daily papers. The most conspicuous case, however, was at San Diego, Cal., where members of the Industrial Workers of the World, a semi-anarchist organization, denied the right of the city officials to prohibit them from speaking on certain street corners, other parts of the city being free to them. This rioting resulted in arrest after arrest, until the jails were full and overflowing.

In nearly every case where the issue has been raised it has been part of the regular propaganda work of the Socialists or Anarchists, and they have openly boasted in their journals of the great advertising value of such contests. But so flagrant have become these efforts to befuddle the people and to make capital for the Industrial Workers of the World that some of the leaders in the Socialist Party are now exposing the dishonesty of the whole thing. It is not, however, because of the befuddling or vicious misrepresentation that the Socialist Party takes issue with them, but because the Industrial Workers of the World are using this scheme to draw "shekels" to themselves from the exchequer of the Socialists. Naturally, the Socialists, who do not object to fooling everybody else, do not like to be fooled themselves.

In a recent editorial article in his paper, The Social-Democratic Herald, Victor Berger expresses this feeling in the following frank and graphic style, quoting also from the official organ of the Western Federation of Miners:

> This paper, The Social-Democratic Herald, at a time when it was unpopular to take such a stand, and apt to be looked at as treason to the cause of the working class, made it pretty plain that it considered the San Diego free speech fight a shameful frame-up for panhandling purposes, and it received a lot of indignant letters as a result of its stand. Its position has since been abundantly justified. That the "free speech" fight was a scheme of I. W. W. loafers to graft on the dollars of well-meaning radicals must now be pretty well known. But if any reader of this paper is still skeptical, I would urge him to read the following paragraph from the official organ of the Western Federation of Miners:
> "Many members of organized labor, Socialists and other sympathizers, swallowed the bait and parted with their money believing that they were aiding in protecting legal rights and Constitutional liberties. The scrap was started in San Diego in order that funds might be secured under the pretext that free speech was in jeopardy, and the sweatless mendicants who hatched the scheme to repeat the Spokane fiasco in San Diego reaped a rich harvest from the gullible. When the fake in San Diego became so transparent that even the blind could see its perfidy, the long green ceased to come to San Diego, and then the I. W. W. Arabs folded their tents and 'pulled their freight' for 'pastures new' in the hope that another 'free speech' scrap could be launched to secure the 'mazuma.'"
> This is testimony practically from the scene of the fight itself, as the great miners' union covers the entire West. Every one instinctively hates a fake, and the time has come for Socialists, for the sake of the reputation of the movement, to give no more money to the fakers or any of their future "free speech" frame-ups, whether in the East or in the West.

While this free-speech campaign fraud has become so notoriously a money-making scheme that some of the Socialists themselves feel called upon to repudiate it in their own interests, it is still a reservoir from which other Socialists and I. W. W. writers on magazines and daily papers continue to draw material to exploit the "revolution" about which they so glibly talk.

Widowed Mother's Need.

The recent death of her husband after two days' illness brought an overwhelming responsibility to a woman who had never had to concern herself with the weekly pay envelope, except to spend its contents economically; but she has set to with a will to find ways to reduce her weekly budget and still give the children good care. There are five of them to be looked after—the eldest, a lad of 13, and the youngest, a baby born since her father's death. A brother-in-law will come to board with the family and one room has been rented. The woman can, in this way, pay the rent of the home; but now that the insurance is exhausted she must have help to buy food and fuel. The man had lately earned $25 a week, and mother and children are well equipped with clothing. The Charity Organization Society asks for $208 to help this mother keep her home for six months.

Gifts may be sent to the office of the society, 105 East Twenty-second Street, and will be acknowledged.

The society acknowledges, with thanks, the following contributions received in response to a previous appeal in The Times: "J. H. M.," $10; "J. J. S.," $5; "A. M.," $1; L. A. Cerf, $5; "E. E. H.," $1; "J. L. M.," $5; "F. H. L.," $2; "A Friend," $2; "E. A. R.," $1; R. G. Wilson, $10; "Cash," $1; "A. S.," $1; Mrs. Ida L. Feehan, $3; Mrs. Richard M. Hoe, $25; "In Memory of Alleyne," $5; "J. McE. A.," $1; "M. B. L.," $1; Mrs. Geannette Kaplan, $2, and Mrs. Marie M. Diedrich, $1.

THE FIGHTING SHIPS.

They come, they come, the fighting ships, gray tons of floating steel,
With glist'ning guns between their lips and spurs upon their heel.
No shrouds their spectre masts adorn, no spars or bulging sail,
For wind and tide they laugh to scorn, nor tack for any gale.
Grim Erynees of modern Fate, they move relentless on,

Their engines throb, but not with joy; impregnate still with zeal
Dark cormorants that track the sky with black polluted breath,
Demanding whither not nor why, but when they speak 'tis—death.

Where duty rules love may not stay, and what would woman here?
Her smile doth sap man's strength away, her tears awaken fear.
But these, the fighting ships, are sent to bear a nation's threat,
And war permits no sentiment, lest gunners' eyes be wet.

Dauntless they move—but, see! like smoke, yon shadow in the sky!
An aeroplane, with throbbing stroke, that swiftly passes by.
Like hares when birds of prey appear, they seem to crouch and wait,
Informed instinctively by fear that they have looked on Fate.
For all some pow'r exists whose hand the heart with terror grips—

ELIZABETHAN ROOM SHOWN.

Dining Room from Rothewas House at Charles Galleries.

A private view was given yesterday in the Charles Galleries of the magnificent banqueting hall from Rothewas House near Hereford, England, which was brought to New York to the extrems dismay of English lovers of ancient art and history. Probably no American will ever behold a finer room than this noble old hall with its beautifully proportioned paneling carried out entirely in walnut instead of the customary oak, and its richly carved and painted chimney-piece with its coat of arms in twenty-five quarterings. This chimney-piece is in oak and its pilasters, arches, and moldings show the variety of design, the natural artistic avoidance of repetition which emphasizes the value of the old craftsmanship. The carvings, probably by Italian workmen employed in London, are extremely delicate and definite in outline, of the finest Elizabethan character, and time has added depth and a marvelous bloom to the color and surface.

Rotherwas, or Retrowas, is one of the oldest mansions in the United Kingdom, and belongs to Gilbert, the son of Tyrold. For centuries it was the home of the Bodenhams who acquired it through the marriage of Roger Bodenham with Isabella, daughter and heiress of Walter de la Barre. The right wing of the house was built by Roger Bodenham in the sixteenth century, and when the main portion was built two centuries later and the old Elizabethan part converted into a private chapel the Tudor panelings were removed and set up in this new part.

The historian Blount described the place in the latter part of the seventeenth century as "a delicious seat situated near the River Wye and within two miles of Hereford, abounding with a store of excellent fruit and fertyle arable land, and having a park within less than one-half a myle of the house. IIn the Julius Ceasar room there is a fair parlour full of Coats of Arms according to the fashion of the age, and over that a whole Dyning room wainscoted with walnut tree."

Reconstructed in the upper part of a Fifth Avenue building, dimly lighted with chandeliers and small side lights, and with great logs burning bravely in the big fireplace, the room won the sympathy of those who visited it for the English press, which expostulated with virulence when it was taken from England.

CHURCHES MAY UNITE.

Calvary and Fifth Avenue Baptist Plans Still Undecided.

Reports that a definite decision had been reached to consolidate the Calvary Baptist Church in West Fifty-seventh Street, near Sixth Avenue, and the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church at 6-8 West Forty-sixth Street were current yesterday. The first rumors to that effect were heard more than a year ago. Dr. Cornelius Woelfkin, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Church, and Edgar L. Marston, President of the Board of Trustees, said yesterday that no final decision had been reached.

Mr. Marston was asked if the consolidation of the churches was again being considered, and made no direct reply. But he said that consolidation at some future date was not unlikely.

"At present, however," he added, "we are no nearer a final plan than we were a month ago."

The plan as outlined yesterday was to sell the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church and parsonage at 2-8 West Forty-sixth Street and use the Calvary Baptist Church for both congregations. Dr. Woelfkin, it was said, would be the pastor of the congregations. The Fifth Avenue church is the one with which John D. Rockefeller has so long been associated. Dr. Charles F. Aked was pastor for a time and resigned after a controversy with members of the church. Dr. Robert S. McArthur, pastor of Calvary Church, resigned not long ago, and the pulpit has not been filled. It has often been suggested that the Fifth Avenue Church was too small to accommodate the congregation that was sure to be attracted to a church in that neighborhood. The property has been valued at more than $500,000 by real estate men.

NO LIQUOR INTERESTS

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An article printed in your issue of Sunday, special from Detroit, makes such extraordinary and false statements in connection with the Michigan Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, composed of women, that I beg that you will allow me to correct them.

This article states that "the liquor interests engaged a special train and sent speakers to Lansing to organize against the resubmission of the Suffrage Amendment." The truth is that a special car was taken by thirty of the most prominent women in Detroit, already members of the Michigan Association. The speakers were Miss Bronson, sent out by the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, and one or two Detroit women. Their arguments were more against woman suffrage than against having the question sent to the State again. The article says also: "The brewery interests opened expensive campaign headquarters and put the women from the East in charge." This is absolutely false. The Michigan Association opened two offices, took charge of them and raised their own funds from their association, which had over one thousand members. Not one contribution was made from the liquor or brewery interests. I state this absolutely, as I have seen the accounts. It is not true that the liquor interests brought speakers to Michigan. The two speakers, Miss Bronson and Miss Price, were sent out and expenses paid by the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

As for the accusation that the liquor interests "induced prominent society women to permit the use of their names as opposed to suffrage," it is absurd on the face of it. The officers and the executive committee of the Michigan Association were women prominent not only in social but in all kinds of philanthropic work. Their names in themselves prove the falsity of this ridiculous charge. A liquor dealers' association used last Friday, for the purpose of advertising, a leaflet printed by the women's association. The officers of the Women's Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage denied in the papers that they had or ever would have authorized such a use and also that they had ever received any assistance or contribution from any of the so-called liquor or saloon interests.

Will you allow me to take this opportunity of stating emphatically that neither the National Association nor any of the State organizations of which it consists has ever had any alliance or connection with any of the liquor or saloon interests, nor have we ever received any contribution from them.

The source of every donation which is made to us is known.

President National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

ALTER SUBWAY PLAN AT GRAND CENTRAL

New Express Station Will Be in Lexington Avenue, from 42d to 43d Street.

CONNECTION MOVED SOUTH

Diagonal Link Above 42d Street Dropped Because of Large Demands of New York Central.

The connection between the new Lexington Avenue Subway of the Interborough and the present line will be between Thirty-ninth and Forty-first Streets, and the Grand Central express station will be in Lexington Avenue, from a little below Forty-second Street to a little above Forty-third Street. To carry the shuttle service from Times Square up to the Lexington Avenue line it will be necessary to extend the present Interborough Subway under Forty-second Street for about a block from where it turns south at Park Avenue across to Lexington Avenue.

This arrangement was agreed to yesterday by the Public Service Commission. Just before Chairman Willcox retired, it had adopted another layout. By this the Lexington Avenue line was to be connected with the present Subway between Forty-third and Forty-first Streets. The connecting link was to be built diagonally across under the site of the old Children's Hospital, at Lexington Avenue and Forty-second Street, and the Grand Union Hotel, at Forty-second Street and Park Avenue, and the new Grand Central express station was to have been constructed on this diagonal.

However, when the recommendation of the Commission was sent to the Board of Estimate it was discovered that the New York Central Railroad Company, which designs to erect a commercial hotel on the site of the old hospital, was asking for the basement under this property more than the city was willing to pay. Consequently the Board sent the recommendation back to the Commission for further consideration.

It has now been decided to return to the plan for this portion of the new subway routes originally considered by the Commission. The Lexington Avenue line will be continued almost as far south as Fortieth Street. It will curve to the west under the corner house at Fortieth Street, and will then run through that thoroughfare till just before it meets Park Avenue. It will then curve to the south under the corner house, and will thus make its junction with the present Interborough line just south of Fortieth Street.

The Grand Central express station of the Subway will then be entirely on Lexington Avenue and will, like the present station, connect directly with the main concourse, from which all express trains depart, the level of this concourse having been designed to be precisely the same as the level of the Subway mezzzanine. To reach the lower level of the New York Central, from which suburban trains depart, it will be necessary only to walk down a ramp. The Commission reckons that it will be practically the same distance to the outgoing New York Central trains from the station in Lexington Avenue, as it would have been from the station on the diagonal as formerly proposed.

It would have been possible to make a direct connection between this station on the diagonal and the present Subway Grand Central Station, but with the Lexington Avenue Station, such a connection will be impracticable. It is intended to use two at least of the four cross-town tracks of the present Subway for a shuttle service between Times Square and the Grand Central. It will now be necessary to carry these further to the east under the street so as to meet the Lexington Avenue line at right angles.

As things are, the Grand Central Subway station ends at about Vanderbilt Place, nearly opposite the Hotel Belmont. The existing line on the curve into Park Avenue as far south as Fortieth Street is now likely to be disused, unless a few trains continue to be operated over the present Subway route. A new crosstown Grand Central Station will have to be constructed under Forty-second Street with its eastern end at Lexington Avenue and stretching as far west as it seems necessary to build it for the purposes of shuttle service. From it there will be the same kind of entrances into the New York Central Station as from the Lexington Avenue line.

It seems probable that the present Grand Central Subway Station, now the third busiest on the line, will be almost deserted and will become mearly a way station on the Forty-second Street crosstown line. A similar station may be built about Sixth Avenue, if the suggestion that the Steinway Tunnel be brought up near this point from the third level to the present tracks on the second level be carried out.

It was explained yesterday at the Public Service Commission meeting that the reason why this plan for the elevation of the Steinway Tunnel tracks was being seriously considered was that counsel had advised that unless there was some physical connection between the present Interborough tracks and the Steinway Tunnel line it would be impossible for the company to contribute to the cost of the Queens lines. Under the Interborough-Metropolitan mortgage the lawyers hold the Interborough can spend money only on extensions. But an extension must have a physical connection with an existing line, and consequently there must be an actual coupling up of the Steinway line and the Interborough system.

When the commission considered yesterday the Grand Central question, Commissioner Cram refused to vote for the resolution on the ground that he wished the Lexington Avenue line to be carried south to hitch up with the Brooklyn Rapid Transit line at Fourteenth Street. When he was asked how it could be operated, he suggested municipal operation. It was pointed out that this meant unnecessary duplication of lines, and Mr. Cram's proposal found no seconder though Commissioner Williams said that he was not altogether opposed to it.

BAR ASSOCIATION PLANS.

Secretary and Treasurer Arrange for Montreal Meeting.

George Whitelock of Baltimore and Frederick E. Wadhams of Albany, respectively Secretary and Treasurer of the American Bar Association, have been in Montreal arranging the details for the annual meeting of the association to be held in September. They have learned that the Government of Canada will extend its hospitality to Viscount Haldane, Lord High Chancellor of England, and his party while they are in Canada, and the Minister of Justice, on behalf of the Canadian Government will give an official reception in Montreal to Lord Haldane and the President and Members of the American Bar Association on Monday morning, Sept. 1.

The Lord Chancellor will deliver an address to the association on the same afternoon in the Princess Theatre. The business meetings will be held in Royal Victoria College, which has been proffered by the authorities of McGill University. It is hoped that the Premier or some other high official of the Government will consent to open the business of the meetings with an address of welcome on behalf of the Canadian Government.

SHAKESPEARE BALL AT RITZ-CARLTON

QUEEN ELIZABETH RECEIVES

While Characters from Shakespeare's Plays Pass Before Her in Pageant.

The Shakespearean Ball given last night at the Ritz-Carlton under the auspices of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the British Empire in the United States for the benefit of the home for aged British men and women was a social spectacle of brilliance and color, and the programme, which included speaking pictures of Shakespeare, was rendered with distinction. About 500 guests were in attendance.

The pageant began about 10 o'clock when Mrs. J. Elliot Langstaff, who is President of the order, and who was robed as Queen Elizabeth, passed up the staircase and through the crowded ballroom to her throne on the stage, attended by the ladies of her Court. The foresters from the forest of Arden and the yeomen of the guard grouped themselves on either side of the stage, and then the twelve chapters of the order from New York and near-by towns passed in pageant array before Good Queen Bess, each order representing in costume a Shakespearean play.

First came the characters of "Cymbeline," represented by the Queen Anne Chapter of Jamaica, L. I., followed by the Victoria Chapter of Flatbush, Brooklyn, in "Love Labor's Lost." The Princess Louise Chapter of New York presented "The Merchant of Venice," and the Southern Cross Chapter appeared in "Hamlet."

"Much Ado About Nothing" was presented by the Princess Patricia Chapter, while the King Edward VII. State Chapter appeared in "Henry VIII." The Niagara Chapter of Yonkers presented "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and the Lady Jersey Chapter appeared in "A Winter's Tale." "Twelfth Night," "Henry V.," "Romeo and Juliet," and "As You Like It" were presented in succession by the Sir George Augustus Elliot Chapter of Brooklyn, the Nelson Chapter of Staten Island, the King George V. Chapter of New York, and the Lady Wolverton Chapter of Brooklyn.

It was very much like a presentation at a real Court in the days of Elizabeth, and although the ladies' trains would catch on odd corners now and then, everything passed off most gracefully. Sir Walter Raleigh, the Earl of Leicester, the Earl of Essex, Lucy Harington, the Countess of Essex, the Countess of Westmoreland, Dorothy Vernon, Lady Paget, and Lady Walsingham, were all there in their regal robes. Cobweb and Puck, impersonated by the little Miss Marguerite Gate and Miss Annette Morand, took the assembly by storm as they pranced before the Queen.

Mrs. Langstaff's costume was copied after the portrait of the Queen of Zuchero, being of cream colred silk with a cloak of royal purple, and wings and costly embroideries, for the costume of Queen Bess was all eyes and ears, which signified her knowing all that was going on in her Court. Mrs. Frederick S. Goodwin as the Countess of Northumberland wore the veil which belonged to the wife of Admiral Nelson, and there were some present who traced their ancestry as far back as Anne Boleyn and Dorothy Vernon.

The British Consul General, W. Courtenay Bennett, and Mrs. Bennett, were present, and messages of congratulation for the work of the order were received from Ambassador Bryce, President and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Rudyard Kipling Arthur Conan Doyle, Alfred Austin, ex-Ambassador Joseph H. Choate, and others.

A programme was rendered before the Queen. Ben Greet appeared as Jacques in "As You Like It," reciting the Seven Ages of Man, with tableaux, after which there were speaking pictures of Shakespeare, consisting of scenes taken from "Romeo and Juliet," "Twelfth Night," "The Tempest," and "The Merchant of Venice." The sleep-walking scene from "Macbeth" was also presented. Then the ballroom floor was cleared, and the "Henry VIII." quadrille was danced.

"You are welcome, gentlemen. Come, musicians, play. A hall! a hall! Give room and foot it, girls."

The figures were danced with grace and ease, and afterward came the general dancing, with Portia sitting out a dance on the staircase with Hamlet, and King Henry VIII. dancing merrily away in the modern dances with Lady Macbeth.

The Reception Committee was made up of Mrs. Langstaff, Mrs. Gustav Stromberg, Mrs. W. Courtenay Bennett, Mrs. Frederick S. Woodcock, Mrs. George Quirk, Mrs. Charles B. P. Gordon, who is the National standard bearer, and the honorary life members, including Mrs. Frederick C. De Sumichrast of Boston, Mrs. Clark Murray of Montreal, Mrs. Albert E. Gooderham of Toronto, and the Regents of the chapters.

William J. McLaughlin was Chief Forester, head of the band of foresters from the Forest of Arden, and the leaders of the forest bands were W. H. MacIntyre, William D. Mitchell, T. Kennard Thomson, and B. Meredith Langstaff. The foresters included Hugh H. Campbell, Robert B. Hincks, Frank W. McLaughlin, J. Joyce Broderick, M. R. Hely-Hutchinson, R. L. Nosworthy, G. H. Gowland, E. G. Smith, Henry S. Woodwock, J. C. Muir, Stanley Thorpe, Norman Mitchell, Oswald Phillips, Charles McKay, J. S. Thompson, Dr. Lewis G. Langstaff, Raymond Rogers, John S. D. McMurray, H. H. Pike, Jr., Balfour McGowan, A. W. Jones, George Mansfield, and William Fitzhugh.

The programme matrons and maids were Mrs. George E. Austin, Miss Amy Rayson, Mrs. Frederick Alsbury-Pirie, Miss Newall, Mrs. Eden, Mrs. Beverley Betts, Mrs. George Massay, Mrs. Fred W. Shibley, Mrs. John H. Thompson, Miss Julia MacIntyre, and the Misses Dorothy Parker, Marguerite Elkins, Alice Rowley, Helen C. Clark, Marion K. Thompson, Eloise I. Buchaca, Isabelle Elliott, Hazel Austin, Gwendolyn Austin, and Margery Aackerman.

The ladies of the court included Mrs. William D. Mitchell, Miss Edna Hancock, Mrs. Herbert L. Picks, Mrs. von Miltenberg, Miss Margery Wyatt, Mrs. R. D. Freeman, Miss Florence Langstaff, Mrs. C. B. P. Gordon, Mrs. George Ramsey, Miss Newall, Mrs. Lionel Van Deerlin, Mrs. Orchard, Mrs. Reginald Rawls, Mrs. C. E. Thurston, and Mrs. J. C. Gill.

SOCIAL NOTES.

The Earl of Morley will arrive to-day from Jamaica and will be at the Ritz-Carlton with his brother, the Hon. Montague Parker, prior to his sailing for England.

Owing to illness the invitations were recalled for the first of two receptions yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schwartzenbach of 471 Park Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Allien of 268 Madison Avenue will leave town this week for their country place at Riverdale-on-Hudson.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Minton have left New York and have opened their country place, Brightways, at Bayport, L. I.

Robert L. Bacon, son of ex-Ambassador Robert Bacon, and Miss Virginia Murray, who are to be married on April 14 in St. George's Chapel, took out their marriage license yesterday at the City Hall.

Howard Price Renshaw and Miss Lilla B. Gilbert, daughter of Mrs. H. Bramhall Gilbert, whose wedding is set for April 15, also paid a visit to the City Hall yesterday and obtained their marriage license. The ceremony is to be celebrated at the home of the bride's mother, 40 West Fifty-seventh Street.

A masque chantant, in aid of the Maronite Mission will be given this afternoon at the Plaza. Cardinal Farley heads the list of patrons.

Miss Helen Bruff and Fritz George Achelis are to be married this afternoon at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Achelis, 9 East Fifty-seventh Street. Miss Bruff is the daughter of William J. Bruff of Brooklyn.

"In the Sweet Bye-and-Bye" is the name of the good-natured satire of the suffragette question which will be presented this evening at the Plaza by the girls of Mrs. Semple's School, the proceeds to be devoted to the maintenance of free beds in the Polyclinic Hospital in West Fiftieth Street.

SPRING REVELS AT ASTOR.

Young People Dance to Aid St. Mark's Hospital.

One of the gayest of Spring revels, announced as La Rigolade du Printemps, was given last night at the Hotel Astor in aid of St. Mark's Hospital, and the committee in charge reported that the proceeds were considerably over $3,000.

The large ballroom was arranged with tables, patterned after Maxim's in Paris, and the entertainment, consisting mostly of dances in which well-known society amateurs appeared, took place in the centre of the ballroom. There were candy, lemonade and confetti booths scattered through the corridors, and society girls were having their "pictures tuk" for ten cents, while French officers, Pierrots, Pierrettes and Columbines moved among gayly costumed visitors, selling flowers and cigarettes.

First on the programme was the Danse Amourette, in which Effingham Pinto appeared, assisted by the Misses Eleanor Hartshorne, Elise H. Francke, Susanne Warren, Caroline Wyeth, Priscilla Bull, Louise Trevor, and others. Miss Lucy C. Brown appeared next in a Cuban dance, after which several groups of folk dances, arranged by Miss Elizabeth Burchenal, were given. In these appeared the Misses Edith Morgan, Ina Kissel, Mildred Townsend, Noemi Townsend, Ruth Burchenal, Julianna Cutting, Mrs. Harry W. McVickar, and Mrs. Archibald M. Brown, also Knud Bay, A. M. Brown, and Lindon W. Bates, Jr.

The tango and one-step closed the programme, and the revelry of the fête, with confetti flying in myriads of colors, began. In the tango and one-step appeared Mr. and Mrs. Irving Brokaw, Mrs. F. Y. Dalziel, Mrs. J. V. Onativia, Jr., Mrs. Donn Barber, Mrs. W. W. Stokes, the Misses Mary Watson, Margaret Bowers, Isabel Hoyt, Ursula Brown, Constance Williams, Audrey Osborn, Frances Barr, Sybil Young, and a number of young dancing men.

The flower and cigarette girls were the Misses Mercedes de Acosta, Vouletti Proctor, Ruth Moller, Helen Hiss, Cornelia Cammann, Margaret Andrews, Katherine Sands, Margaret Trevor, Louise Chappell, Edith Logan, Esther Cleveland, Nathalie Slocum, Julia Edey, Frances Wyeth, Alice Abbott, Dorothy Manice, Elizabeth Kendall, Genevieve Sanford, Ethel Parks, and Mrs. Newell W. Tilton.

The Misses Dorothy S. Rennard and Grovene Converse sold candy, and the Misses Eleanor Bergstrom, Helen Smith, Gladys Smallwood, Rosamond Tonkin, Caroline Draper, Dorothy Everett, Clay Hardin, Ashby Coyce, and Ellen Laflin, were the confetti girls. No person was allowed on the dancing floor without a dancing favor, and the Favor Committee was made up of Mrs. Robert B. Bowler, Miss Clara Fargo, and Miss Frances Breese. Mrs. E. H. H. Simon and Miss Annabella Olyphant sold lemonade, and Mrs. Lindsley Tappin looked after the cigar and cigarette booth.

The Entertainment Committee consisted of Miss Constable, Chairman; Mrs. J. Francis A. Clark, Miss Juliana Cutting, Mrs. George E. Dadmun, Mrs. William H. Erhart, Miss Elizabeth Perkins, Mrs. Oren Root, Mrs. Newell W. Tilton, W. H. Hart, Joseph H. Hunt, Alfred W. Martin, E. S. Martin, Thomas W. Slocum, Franklin L. Warrin, and John S. Wilkie.

Among the members of the various committees were Mrs. Eugene D. Alexander, Mrs. William B. Anderson, Mrs. Anson McC. Beard, Miss Mary Tremain Bradley, Mrs. Frederick F. Culver, Mrs. Lawrence B. Elliman, Mrs. A. Henry Mosle, Mrs. Rufus S. Patterson, Mrs. Charles W. Pierson, Mrs. Lindsley Tappin, Mrs. Landon K. Thorne, Mrs. Benjamin T. Tilton, Miss Emily N. Tremain, Mrs. Wilfred J. Worcester; Eugene A. Alexander, Robert W. Carle, Frederick F. Culver, Michael Gavin, Arthur F. Goothold, H. Wise Miller, Dr. Horace S. Stokes, N. W. Tilton, and Julius F. Workum.

Miss Jean Stewart Engaged.

Dr. and Mrs. George D. Stewart of 61 West Fiftieth Street, have announced the engagement of their eldest daughter, Miss Jean Robb Stewart, to Guernsey Price. Mr. Price is a graduate of Cornell University, and a member of the Delta Phi Fraternity. He is practising law in this city.

ARRIVING FROM EUROPE.

Minnehaha and Kroonland Bring Passengers Home.

Among the passengers who arrived from Europe yesterday were:

MINNEHAHA (London)—Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Burns, E. W. Chater, James Cochrane, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Colclough, Mrs. G. K. Cole, Mrs. Gray Copping, Mr. and Mrs. Horace E. Craig, Mrs. V. England Fuller, Dr. and Mrs. Watson W. Gailey, William Geddes, A. Howard Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. David Carl Larsen, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. May, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Raymond, Mrs. J. D. ARBITRATION FAILS AT AUTHORS' LEAGUE

WOMAN PREFERS COURTS

More than 100 professional authors who get real money for their output gathered at the Hotel Astor yesterday afternoon on the occasion of the first annual meeting of the recently organized Authors' League of America, and, in addition to those present, 125 other authors were represented by proxies, including David Belasco and James Whitcomb Riley. The league to date has a membership of 372.

Arthur Train presided at the meeting, assisted by a committee composed of Rex Beach, Gelett Burgess, and Ellis Parker Butler, the latter introducing Mr. Train, who gave a brief résumé of the history of the league's formation and of its purpose. Last May a committee composed of Owen Johnson, Prof. William Sloane, Arthur Train, Augustus Thomas, and Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin organized the league for the purpose of protecting the American author against the rapacity of some dishonest publishers.

Its scope broadened, until now it aims not only to protect authors from dishonest publishers, but also to protect the honest publisher from the dishonest one, and authors from one another, and from the inevitable lawyers' fees and mounting costs that follow in the wake of a law suit. The league is designed to be, among other things, a central court of arbitration, where charges of plagiarism between members and disputes of members with publishers, may be settled out of court.

The first case might have been submitted to the new Authors' "Hague Tribunal" yesterday, if the woman in the case had been willing, for William C. De Mille, the dramatist, rose to his feet and announced that he was being sued by another member of the league for plagiarism, and that he was willing and eager to submit the matter to a committee of the league and would bind himself to abide by the decision.

Mr. De Mille's name had been mentioned in some discussion about the law of copyright, when Marian E. Moore got up and remarked frigidly that Mr. De Mille never copyrighted his plays, so he could say his work antedated that of others when accused of plagiarism. Miss Moore happens to be suing the dramatist for alleged plagiarism in his one-act sketch "In 1999."

Mr. De Mille at once replied by offering in all seriousness to take the case out of the clogged courts and submit it to a committee of the league. He said that he would pledge himself absmolutely to abide by its decision, and that if it found that he had done anything unethical he would not only apologize to the complainant authoress, but would pay any damages which the committee might award. He sat down amid loud applause, but his offer of arbitration fell by the wayside.

"I should prefer to keep the matter in the courts," said Miss Moore icily.

One of the biggest questions with which the League is grappling is the problem of moving picture rights. Authors are beginning to realize that these rights are frequently of great cash value, and many a writer has been disagreeably surprised to find that some popular film is based on a short story of his, with a little disguising. Under the present law dramatic rights and moving picture rights are one and the same thing.

Rex Beach, Chairman of the League's Committee on Moving Pictures, was among those who spoke yesterday afternoon, and reported that his committee was just beginning a thorough investigation into the relation of the authors to the "movies."

Will Irwin, Chairman of the Committee on Relations to Publishers, the league's most important committee, read a long report, which, he said, was just the beginning of their work, and merely scratched the surface. Mr. Irwin said that all they had done so far was to approach the heads of large publishing houses to sound them as to their attitude toward the objects of the league. The most extreme attitude, he remarked, was that of the head of one large publishing house, who said that his concern was not going to make any concessions to authors; that he believed the publisher was entitled to the dramatic and moving-picture rights and to second serial rights, when they had paid the writer for his manuscript. But many of the best publishers, Mr. Irwin explained, were willing to meet the authors half way; in fact, several large publishing houses were actively interested in the work of the league, he said.

The ideal contract is one of the goals toward which the authors are striving. At present no uniformity exists. In a disputed case the league would ask for the publisher's side of the case, and if none were forthcoming, or if the answer were unsatisfactory, the information would be placed on file for the inspection of members, and the dishonest publisher would thus virtually be blacklisted.

THE KNEISEL QUARTET.

Beethoven, Dvorak, and Schubert at the Last Concert of the Season.

The Kneisel Quartet ended its twenty-first season in New York last evening with a concert that fittingly crowned its activities and that gave great and evident pleasure to its auditors. The programme included two of the greater works of Beethoven and Schubert, between which came as a delightful intermezzo the little terzetto by Dvorak, Op. 74, that he wrote originally for his own children, fortunate offspring of a great musician; a piece that retains the freshness and spontaneous quality of one who seems now to have been the last of the naïve composers, untroubled by the problems of the modern world.

Mr. Kneisel lets no season pass now without putting before his public one, at least, of the last great quartets of Beethoven; and last evening he played that in A minor, Op. 132. It is difficult to play; but it no longer seems difficult or austere to listen to. Its beauties are profound, and they appeal to a highly cultivated taste; but when they are presented with so much insight and so much artistic skill, so deep a penetration into the spirit of Beethoven as are commanded by Mr. Kneisel and his associates, as the ripe fruit of long study and intimate communing with that spirit, they touch a responsive chord. They did so last evening. The performance stirred the listeners perhaps more than any other performance of these quartets that Mr. Kneisel has given. There was much applause.

Of Schubert the great quintet with two 'cellos, Op. 163, was given. It does not often appear upon the programmes of chamber concerts. It, too, has its difficulties in the way of a performance that shall show forth all the "astonishing force, beauty, romance, and personality" that have been found inherent in the music, in such a manner as to make the listener forget the length and diffuseness of some of the movements.

There is a strangely moving power in the mere tonal quality of this quintet, and Schubert has wrought wonderful things with the added dark color of the second 'cello. It affords a wonderful enhancement of the inexhaustible beauties of the melodic contents and the subtle harmonic traits of the music.

The poetical spirit and the suffusion of tonal beauty, the exquisite feeling for contrast and proportion that characterized this performance, gave the magic of Schubert's music its fullest play upon the sensibilities of the audience. It was in truth a performance of entrancing loveliness.

The second 'cello was played by Mr. Leo Schulz, who came before the audience, evidently as an old and admired friend, and who, upon his appearance with the quartet, was greeted with a special warmth of applause.

WEDDINGS TO COME.

Plans of the Misses Newbold, McAlpin, and Ritch.

The marriage of Miss Julia Newbold, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Newbold, and W. Redmond Cross, a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. James Cross, wil take place on Saturday, April 19, at the residence of the Newbold family, 289 Madison Avenue. Owing to Mrs. Newbold being in mourning none but the two families have been asked to the wedding. Miss Newbold will have no attendants and there will be no ushers. John W. Cross, who married Miss Lily Lee Page, will be the best man. The Rev. Endicott Peabody of the Groton School will officiate.

MISS McALPIN'S WEDDING PLANS.

The wedding of Miss Gladys McAlpin, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wiliam Willet McAlpin, and William Fletcher Irwin, son of Mrs. William Irwin, will takep lace on Wednesday, April 30, in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, Fifty-fifth Street and Fifth Avenue. The reception wil be held at the McAlpin residence, 11 East Ninetieth Street. Mr. Irwin's brother, John E. Irwin, who married Miss Cornelia H. Merrill, will be his best man, and the ushers are to be Frederic C. Inman of New York, James Sheldon Potter of Port Chester, Allen Heyward McAlpin of Morristown, a brother of the bride-to-be, James Graham Damon of Providence, Alexander Henry Carver of Philadelphia, and George T. Ide, Jr., of Troy.

Miss McAlpin will have her sister, Miss Harriette Louise McAlpin, for her maid of honor, and her little cousin, Miss Eleanor Hubbard, daughter of Dr. Wililam Lawrence Hubard, will be the flower girl. There will be four bridesmaids, the Misses Louise Vanderbilt of Orange, Frieda Bauman and Gladys Robbins of New York, and Miss Mildred Eddy of Morristown. The entire wedding party will be entertained at dinner by Mr. and Mrs. McAlpin, followed by music and informal dancing. The date of the dinner has not been decided upon. Mr. Irwin and Miss McAlpin got their marriage license yesterday.

MISS RITCH'S WEDDING.

Invitations have been sent out for the wedding of Miss Reva Marie Ritch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas Ritch, and John Luneau Tonnele on Saturday, April 26, in Calvary Baptist Church, West Fifty-seventh Street, at 4 o'clock. There will be a special musical programme, with Edwin Cary at the organ, and Perry Averill will sing. The Rev. Robert Stuart MacArthur, pastor emeritus of that church, who also officiated at the wedding of Miss Ritch's father and mother, will perform the ceremony, which will be followed by a reception from 4:30 to 7 at the Plaza.

Miss Ritch will have Miss Marguerite Du Mary as maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be the Misses Phebe Judkins and Fay Waterbury of New York, Janet Beckwith of Pasadena, Cal.; Gertrude Lewis of Toledo, Ohio, and Ada Ries of Greenwich, Conn. Edward Hurd Updike will be Mr. Tonnele's best man, and the ushers are to be his cousin, Theodore Tonnele, Frank Wilcox, Stanley Ritch Smith, Thomas R. Waterbury, Eugene Pitou and Varick Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Ritch will close their town house, 1 West Sixty-fourth Street, on May 3, and go to Belle Orchard, their country place at Greenwich

'ROSEDALE' REVIVED TO MANY CHEERS

Has Much Unconscious Humor, but Conveys a Sense of Theatric Values.

IT IS VERY WELL ACTED

ROSEDALE, comedy in five acts, by Lester Wallack. Lyric Theatre.

Elliott Grey	Charles Cherry
Matthew Leigh	Frank Gillmore
Col. Cavendish May	John Glendinning
Miles McKenna	Robert Warwick
Arthur May	Stephen Davis
Bunberry Kobb	Leslie Kenyon
Farmer Green	George Williams
Corporal Daw	Harry Hadfield
Docksey	J. W. Hartman
Robert	George Wolfe
Romany Rob	Earle Mitchell
Rosa Leigh	Elsie Ferguson
Lady Florence May	Jobyna Howland
Tabitha Stork	Alice Fischer
Sarah Sykes	Della Fox
Mother Mix	Edith Warren
Miss Primrose	Paula Ludlum

Fifty years after it was first produced Lester Wallack's "Rosedale" provides exceptional entertainment.

Not always, to be sure, in the same way in which an earlier theatre-going generation found it entertaining. For in many places the modern audience at this play will substitute laughs for thrills, refusing to be deeply stirred by the heavy villain's outspoken black thoughts, or even the soldier hero's extravagant display of bravery. And as often as not the audience at the Lyric last night was laughing at the actors rather than with them, finding more mirth in the antiquity of the appeals to their risibilities than in the lines and incidents themselves. And frequently, too, there was laughter in places which, when the play was written, were serious by intent.

Nevertheless, easy as it will be to poke fun at this old-fashioned play, its revival reveals the fact that Lester Wallack knew the theatre and had the sense of drama. Applied somewhat differently in a later day, his talent and experience would have resulted probably in something distinctly interesting. One recognizes this in the effects of some of the scenes and situations which even to-day have real power and charm. Elemental theatrical material, there is still a sense of suspense in Elliott Grey's discovery of the stolen child in the gypsy camp, and a thrill in the appearance of the rescuing band of scarlet-coated lancers. And there is genuine fun and not a little human nature in the love scenes between Elliott Grey and Rose Leigh.

It is probable that even in Lester Wallack's day such a scene as that in which Bunbury Cobb is caught in the rat traps was introduced to please the groundlings. And the Widow Stork's mistaken idea of his attentions represents a vein of comic fooling that had lightened many a play before Wallack's time, and has done valiant service since.

There is a frankness, to say the least, about these old plays which invites admiration. And to hear the good Dr. Leigh rise in defense of his profession, telling in fine round phrases how the physician in Winter and in Summer, at home and on the battlefield, is waging his warfare for humanity, is almost like some modern dramatic preachment. Of course, it is easy enough to understand Lester Wallack's hyperbolic tributes to the soldier, but does any one recall what particular slight to his profession moved him to write Elliott Grey's defense of the play-actors?

With these things the casual theatregoer will have little concern. What he will find to his liking in "Rosedale" will be its queer blend of romance and comedy, with the latter heightened in these days by the unconscious humor of the characters. In the latter respect Col. Cavendish May, with more soliloquies than Hamlet, is the bright particular example. He is sheer joy from first to last with his "Courage, en garde, now the game begins" to "Out-manoeuvred for the present, but Aha" and so on and so on. And scarcely less amusing is the bloodthirsty Miles McKenna with his entrances through secret passages, his diabolical plots, and his raucous villain's laughter.

"Oh, yes, "Rosedale," however one regards it, is most entertaining, and this big, overgrown town ought to rush to see it—probably will, too, and find it to its liking. But for its better appreciation some eliminations of matter in "front scenes" might be made with advantage. There is too much of it as it stands.

Fortunately the play will not call for much comparison on the score of original and present cast, most of the reviewers at present being able to hark back no further than the late Joseph Haworth's revival of it some fifteen or more years ago. And one should not trust theatrical impressions for too long a time.

Certainly in the essentially light and human touches Charles Cherry makes a highly agreeable and ingratiating Elliott Grey, who, if he never quite suggests the heroic military sort, is a jolly good fellow on his own account and an admirable aid to that military Sherlock Holmes of his, whom he "once befriended."

And Miss Elsie Ferguson, looking like the loveliest of miniatures in ivory, is a really adorable Rose Leigh. She has grace and charm and the suggestion of youthful exuberance of spirit with an appealing note and a genuinely moving pathos in the scene in which the child's loss is first announced. And both she and Mr. Cherry play their wooing scenes delightfully.

Mr. Gillmore is a pleasant and appealing Matthew Leigh, but his habit of searching for his waistcoat pockets appears to be incurable. Opposite him, a very comely Lady Florence, is Jobyna Howland, and in their household the robust Alice Fischer is, in spite of the housekeeper's tantrums, a most delightful person. And is it not she, after all, who makes the romance possible, at the moment when the wicked Miles sees only disappointment for the lovers?

As that very troublesome outlaw Robert, Mr. Warwick is sufficiently 'orrid, both in manner and person, to satisfy most anybody, and as his friend in villainy John Glendenning is eminently hateful. And Della Fox is a treasure of a maid.

Rosedale, to be sure, is the kind of play in which the characters must seem essentially blind and deaf to make many of the happenings possible.

MISS FOX WEDS MAX LANDAY

Ceremony Performed in the St. Regis Before Many Guests.

The wedding of Miss Ida Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Fox of 45 West Ninety-first Street, and Max Landay, took place this evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Hotel St. Regis. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Mendes in the Louis XVI. reception room under a bridal bower decorated with Easter lilies, bridal roses and smilax.

The bride wore a white satin gown trimmed with old point lace. Her veil was caught up with a chaplet of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids. Her attendants were Miss Rebecca Landay, who was maid of honor, and the Misses Beatrice Kamsler and Beatrice Friedmann.

Maurice Landay acted as best man, and the ushers were Edwin G. Schloss, B. Landay, William Steiner, and Herbert B. Fox.

The ceremony was followed by a large reception and a seated dinner in the marble banquet room for 130 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Fox will spend the first part of their honeymoon in the South and later sail for Europe for the Summer. On their return they will reside in New York.

CELEBRATE CARNATION DAY.

Flower Show Visitors Find Them More Attractive Even Than Roses.

The carnation had the floor at the International Flower Show at the New Grand Central Palace yesterday, and if the sweet-scented flowers did not make as brilliant a showing as the roses of the previous day, they proved to be more attractive as table decorations. These tables, which are adorned daily with the flower of the day, are attractive features of the show. Mrs. H. McK. Twombly won the first prize for table decorations yesterday, the second went to George Cook of Washington, and the third to S. Anderson of Buffalo, N. Y.

The miniature estates which the children visiting the show ask to have bought for them to play with were judged yesterday, and George Grant Mason of Tuxedo Park captured the first prize.

The American Carnation Society's gold medal for the best 100 carnations scoring not less than 90 points, went to the Cottage Garden Company; a silver medal to Albert Roper of Tewksbury, Mass., and a third prize medal to M. A. Patten of Tewksbury. The same first prize winner carried off the gold medal of the Perpetual Flowering Society of England, the second prize silver-gilt medal went to Peter Fisher of Ellis, Mass., and Mr. Patten won this third prize also.

The newest and smallest variety of maidenhair fern, the only specimens in the United States, was shown yesterday. It was in twenty pots, in different stages of development up to its greatest height, six inches. It was from the greenhouse of J. J. Goodwin of Hartford, Conn., a first cousin of the late J. Pierpont Morgan. Many old-fashioned flowers were shown, larkspur, hollyhocks, and peonies among them.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in The New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

LIPTON CHALLENGES AGAIN — GIANTS WIN — YANKEES LOSE — BOXING — POLO

LIPTON CHALLENGES WITH 75-FOOT BOAT

THINKS DIFFICULTY SOLVED

Says New York Yacht Club Must Either Race or Give Him the America's Cup.

LONDON, April 8.—Sir Thomas Lipton, the British yachtsman, to-day sent an unconditional challenge for a series of races for the America's Cup, and after ten years' undisturbed possession of the trophy American yachtsmen must again prepare to defend it.

Lipton's challenge was cabled to the New York Yacht Club to-day through the Royal Ulster Yacht Club.

After the challenge had been sent Sir Thomas Lipton said:

"They will either have to race or give me the cup."

The cablegram transmitted to the New York Yacht Club reads as follows:

"I have the honor to inform you that the Royal Ulster Yacht Club has received the following communication from Sir Thomas Lipton:

"'Although our opinions differ from those of the New York Yacht Club as to the meaning of the Deed of Gift, in the interests of yachting and with a view to eliminating any possible source of discord I shall be glad if you will inform the New York Yacht Club that I withdraw all stipulations as to the size of the yacht defending the America's Cup and I look forward to a good race with my 75-footer in 1914.

THOMAS J. LIPTON.'

"We have the greatest pleasure in transmitting the foregoing, and trust that the New York Yacht Club will share the view of the Royal Ulster Club that Sir Thomas Lipton has solved the difficulty in a satisfactory manner. By separate cablegram I am sending the formal challenge.

E. F. PATTERSON,
Honorary Secretary."

The formal challenge is worded precisely as was the former challenge, with the exception of the clause stipulating the size of the defender which has been omitted.

British yachtsmen believe that since Sir Thomas Lipton declares in the unconditional challenge his intention to enter a 75-footer, the American syndicate must build a boat of approximately the same length. To exercise their freedom of the terms given them by the Deed of Gift of competing with a 90-footer would here be considered unsportsmanlike.

The building of a new Shamrock will commence immediately. Charles E. Nicholson, the yacht designer of Gosport, England, came to London to-day for a consultation with the challenger.

"Well, they have made up their minds they would not accept our challenge with limitations, and as they would not come to my wishes I have gone to them," Sir Thomas said to The Associated Press.

To the question: "Do you think you will win?" the British yachtsman replied:

"I must confess frankly I think I shall give the cup a bit of a fright. I think I shall raise hopes in its breast that it will see its native soil again, if only for a short time. I am anxious for a race and not for the prize. Some of the best friends I have are in America, and they are anxious to see my Shamrock at Sandy Hook again."

"The challenge," Sir Thomas continued, "was drawn up a week ago at a meeting of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club, but at my request it was delayed on account of the death of the late Commodore J. Pierpont Morgan. I have received a number of expressions of regret from prominent Americans, and also assurances that had the conditions been omitted my challenge would have been accepted. I cannot speak too highly of the treatment I always have received at the hands of the New York Yacht Club. The only discord has been that we differ on the meaning of the Deed of Gift. I am sure if any error of judgment occurs during the next races it will be in my favor."

Acceptance of Challenge May Be Delayed Ten Days.

The cable announcing the challenge from the Royal Ulster Yacht Club on behalf of Sir Thomas Lipton was received yesterday by the New York Yacht Club. Although the members of the club had been led to expect an unconditional challenge from the British yachtsman, it was thought that, in view of the action of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club in postponing action on the challenge for a week owing to the death of ex-Commodore J. P. Morgan, further postponement would be probable until after the funeral of Mr. Morgan.

No official action will be taken by the American club at present, and, although no announcement was made of the fact, it is understood that further action will be deferred at least until after Mr. Morgan's funeral.

The announcement that Sir Thomas had challenged with a seventy-five-foot boat occasioned little surprise, as, in view of his previous challenge, it was felt that he would be represented by a boat of the same waterline that has been so successful in European waters during the last year.

While there is little doubt that the challenge will be accepted, it is an open question whether a seventy-five-foot boat will be built specially to race the challenger, though it is the general impression, however, in the event of the acceptance of the challenge, a seventy-five-foot boat will be built by a syndicate. A member of the New York Yacht Club, in discussing the point yesterday, said:

"The New York Yacht Club has an absolute right to select as its representative a vessel of such size, power, and type as it might see fit, (always within the extreme limits fixed by the deed.) The provisions of the deed of gift, which have been published many times, are quite plain."

BROOKLYN Y. C. REVIVED.

Old Club Reorganized After Passing of National Yacht Club.

More than twoscore well-known yachtsmen met at the Assembly in Brooklyn last night and decided to perpetuate the Brooklyn Yacht Club. The organization passed out of existence when the National Yacht Club was formed two years ago. The latter club was unable to weather the gales of adversity and disbanded last Fall. The older members of the club did not care to see the Brooklyn Yacht Club sink below the surface, and last night they reorganized the club.

The organization will retain its membership in the Yacht Racing Association of Gravesend Bay. It will give one championship race this Summer, starting and finishing the contest off the Atlantic Yacht Club at Sea Gate. It is possible that the organization will have a station on the lower bay within another year.

Among those at the dinner last night were: T. J. Moore, J. Peterson, former Commodore A. C. Soper, A. MacDougall, W. Van Wyck, W. F. Andress, W. P. Kiggins, Conrad V. Dykman, A. B. Mann, W. W. Van De Water, H. Bigg, N. R. Middleton, W. Dannenfeld, W. W. Wingate, D. S. Griffin, C. A. Kelley, and V. Hugo Koehler.

NATIONAL LEAGUE OPENING.

Brooklyn and Philadelphia Will Play Championship Game To-day.

Major league baseball, scheduled to continue for 180 consecutive days before the world's championship battle of 1913, is due to begin to-day. The start, however, will be confined to a single game—in Brooklyn's new baseball park—with the other major league cities held in leash until to-morrow for the general opening in both leagues.

It was by special dispensation of the National League that the opening in Brooklyn was advanced a day this year in deference to the fact that a fine new stadium has been erected there. The game to-day will be with the Philadelphia Club, and indications are that a record crowd will be seen at the opening ceremonies if rain does not interfere.

President Ebbets plans to have as big a time in the Superbas' new home as happened last Saturday, when the Yankees were the guests of the Brooklyn team at Ebbets Field. Shannon's Twenty-third Regiment Band will give a concert, starting at 1:30 o'clock, and the Philadelphia and Brooklyn teams will march across the field at 3:15 o'clock and raise Old Glory, while the band will play "The Star Spangled Banner." Mr. Ebbets will sing the National anthem, and he requests every one present to join in the singing. Alfred E. Steers, President of the Borough of Brooklyn, will throw out the first ball to William Klem or Al Orth, who will be the umpires.

To-morrow, in the National League circuit, there will be openings at New York with Boston, at Cincinnati with Pittsburgh, at Chicago with St. Louis, and a second game of the Philadelphia-Brooklyn series in Philadelphia.

In the American League cities Thursday's games will be New York at Washington, Philadelphia at Boston, Chicago at Cleveland, and Detroit at St. Louis.

GIANTS RETURN HOME.

All Will Be Seen in Games with Yale at Polo Grounds To-day.

The Giants will finish up their long series of exhibition games this afternoon when they return to the Polo Grounds for the annual games with the Yale team. Following the custom of the past two years Manager McGraw will send two teams against the collegians, playing a double-header of five-inning games. In the opening battle the full team of regulars will be seen, and in the second clash the second string players will get their chance. Pitchers will be changed several times during the game so the spectators will have a chance to see practically all the players in action. Jim Thorpe, the most noted of McGraw's recent acquisitions, will be at first base or in the outfield in the second game.

The first game will begin at 2:15 o'clock, and there will be a short intermission of about ten minutes between the games. Yale will put the same team in the field for both games.

Manager McGraw and his players arrived home early this morning after a training trip which covered about seven weeks. They left Washington late last night on the final lap of their long journey from Texas. The team lost only one of its sixteen exhibition games en route, and is said to be one of the best conditioned clubs that McGraw ever brought back to New York. The Yale team will leave New Haven this morning, arriving in New York shortly before noon.

A WORD WITH UMPIRES.

President Lynch Tells Them to Enforce Rules at All Times.

A meeting of the umpires of the National League was held yesterday in the offices of Thomas J. Lynch, President of the league, in the Metropolitan Tower. Aside from President Lynch and Secretary Heydler, the conference was attended by the following: Robert D. Emslie of St. Thomas, Can.; William J. Klem of Lakewood, N. J.; Charles Rigler of Cleveland, Ohio; William Brennan of St. Paul, Minn.; M. W. Eason of Carille, Ariz.; C. B. Owens of Kansas City, Kan.; A. L. Orth of Lynchburg, Va.; W. J. Byron of Detroit, Mich., and W. J. Guthrie of Chicago, Ill.

Umpire Henry O'Day, who was expected to attend, failed to put in an appearance.

Playing rules were gone over and thoroughly considered with a view to securing uniform interpretation on disputed points. Special attention was given to the proper enforcement of the pitching rules, as well as the rules for the conduct of players on the field. President Lynch cautioned his officials to enforce the rules and at all times to use their best judgment in their capacity as masters of the field.

Wednesday—Klem and Orth at Brooklyn.

Thursday—Klem and Orth at New York; Rigler and Byron at Philadelphia; Owens and Guthrie at Chicago; Brennan and Eason at Cincinnati.

American Association Changes.

CHICAGO, April 8.—Contracts and releases in the American Association of Professional Baseball Clubs since March 22, were announced to-day as follows:

Contracts: Indianapolis, J. J. Clarke; Kansas City, Robert Rhodes, Harry Morgan, George Zabel, Thomas Downey, M. J. Regan, W. J. Barbeau and Roy Baxter; Louisville, John J. Stansbury, N. Maddox, J. A. Niehoff, Sherrod M. Smith, John J. Powell, Jasper Weaver, Al Beaumiller, E. J. Weinburg and Eugene Woodburn. St. Paul, E. W. Walker, B. H. Van Dike, Thomas Hemphill, James O. O'Rourke, Jr., A. E. Pettit, J. I. O'Donnell, A. J. Leclair, Guy Urban, Elmer Rieger, Edward Kruger, Louis La Roy, J. J. Riggert, W. K. Autrey, John Lewis, Ray Thomas, Harry Hinchman, Elmer Steele and Harry Gardner.

Al Bridwell Heard From.

CHICAGO, April 8.—President Murphy of the Chicago Nationals, who shared a great deal of worry with Manager Evers as to the fate of Al Bridwell, the shortstop, who disappeared in the direction of Portsmouth, O., at the time the flood struck that city, was relieved to-day to receive a letter from the infielder saying that he would report to-morrow. Bridwell has been too busy shoveling mud out of his house to write. Manager Evers said Bridwell would be in the regular line-up on Thursday, when the season opens.

Stanford Nine Goes to Japan.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., April 8.—Leland Stanford, Jr., University announced to-day that it would send a baseball team to Keio University, Japan. The contract from the Japanese University agrees to pay $3,500 to the Stanford managers for the trip. The American team will stay thirty days in Japan and agrees to finance a return visit of the Keio University team.

Tinker Boosters Going to Cincinnati.

CHICAGO, April 8.—Arrangements were completed for a special train which is to carry several hundred Joe Tinker "boosters" to the opening baseball game of the season at Cincinnati Thursday. President Herrmann of the Cincinnati National League club telephoned here that there was every prospect of the grounds being in good condition. Pittsburgh will be the opposing team.

American League Opening Umpires.

CHICAGO, April 8.—President Johnson of the American League has announced the following assignments of umpires for the opening games on Thursday of this week: At Cleveland, O'Loughlin and Ferguson; at St. Louis, Evans and Hildebrand; at Boston, Dinneen and Hart, and at Washington, Connolly and McGreevy.

Ball Players' Appeal.

David Fultz, President of the Baseball Players' Fraternity, yesterday sent a letter to Presidents Lynch and Johnson of the National and American Leagues respectively, asking them to revise their procedure in disciplining players. The Fraternity asks that players be given a hearing before they are suspended after removal from the game by umpire, and in case such procedure is impracticable, that the men be given an opportunity to file an affidavit explaining their side of the case.

GIANTS GET EVEN WITH THE SENATORS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 8.—The Giants evened up with the Washingtonians to-day in the second and last game of the series by a 4 to 2 score. The splendid pitching of Mathewson and Marquard and a home run by Merkle were the principal elements in the victory of the champions. In the fourth inning Merkle pummeled a circuit slam to centre with two on bases, and that one stroke was the coup de grace in the undoing of the Senatorial team. Previously Merkle made an error, which brought upon him cries of "bonehead" from the stands. His vehement smash was in the nature of a fitting retribution.

Both Matty and Marquard showed tiptop form. This was the first time Matty has set about seriously to show what he could do, and he displayed a line of pitching far superior to anything he had shown previously this Spring. He had speed when he wanted to use it, mixed up his delivery with telling effect, and had a big drop which the Washingtonians couldn't hit. Of the six hits made of him two were because Burns and Murray each misjudged a fly ball.

Marquard's twirling was smooth and effective. The Rube's slow ball, which he is cultivating with unusual care this season, interspersed with his fast one, had the Washington batters tied into knots. There was effective pitching on the Washington side, too, and the Giants didn't loom up formidably with the oak. Their batting has been light the two days here, and they can stand more practice against good pitching in order to have their eyes primed for big-league mound opponents. They found Southpaw Boehling very troublesome to-day. The umpiring of Colliflower created displeasure on both sides and there was much fuming over decisions. The sixth inning brought a wrangle in which the umpire and rival players were mixed, and McGraw and others both gave and received caustic, pointed remarks concerning what the disputants didn't know about baseball.

The second squad of New Yorkers arrived here this morning after a successful career in the grass leagues and two of them took part in the game. Herzog was hurt by a bounding ball in the eighth inning and was relieved by Fletcher. Jim Thorpe batted for Matty in the sixth inning. It was the first time the Sac and Fox Indian ever faced a major league twirler, and just to show that he appreciated that fact he struck out.

The first man who faced Matty slapped him for a two-bagger. It was a two-bagger because Murray misjudged the ball. But when Moeller tried to stretch the hit into a triple he overlooked Murray's throwing prowess. Murray made a beautiful relay to Doyle, who passed the bulb on to Herzog, who grabbed it with one hand and swung it on to Moeller.

There was one out in the fourth inning when Doyle singled to centre. He stole second and Murray was passed. All the "bone" that Merkle had was in his bat, or some other hard substance, for he smeared a home run past Milan. The Washingtonians made one run in the same inning. With one out Foster's punch was misjudged by Burns. Milan grounded to Merkle. Gandil's burning liner was entirely too hot for Doyle and the ball tore out of Larry's grasp. Foster scored from second base on the play. Morgan promptly hit for two bases, and it was up to Ainsmith, who poked a little grounder to Mathewson.

Snodgrass came around in the fifth on a single, a pass to Shafer, Burns's infield out, and Doyle's sacrifice fly. In the sixth Merkle opened with a single and Herzog walked. Meyers grounded to Foster. The latter fumbled momentarily, but his throw to Morgan forced Herzog. The Washingtonians then collared Merkle between second and third bases, but before the double play was accomplished Meyers had reached second base. There was considerable of a kick when the Washingtonians contended that Meyers, too, was out. They argued that Herzog had stood on second and interfered with a play on Meyers. A double play was as much as the umpire would allow and in due time the heated debate subsided.

Boehling was the first man up in the eighth and Marquard passed him. Moeller singled. Foster forced Moeller, and Milan's fly to Murray brought Boehling home. Gandil, a dangerous batter, was up next, but he was taken care of by Doyle and Merkle.

Pitcher Bader, who was with the Giants' second squad, has been returned to the Dallas Club. The score:

Red Sox Blank Harvard.

BOSTON, April 8.—The Red Sox returned to-day to Fenway Park, scene of their world series exploits, and defeated the Harvard College nine, 5 to 0. The crimson runners never passed second base, Leonard and Foster, the Red Sox recruit pitchers having their game well in hand at all times. Boston scored all its runs off Pelton who pitched the first six innings for Harvard. The crimson twirler was effective in spots, striking out three men in the second inning. His passes at other times were costly. The score by innings:

No Yale-Harvard Conference.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 8.—Owing to the inability of the Harvard and Yale track authorities to get together for a conference over plans for the proposed meeting with Oxford and Cambridge, it has been decided at Yale, according to an announcement made to-day, to have a committee formulate suitable arrangements which will, after being put in shape, be submitted to the Harvard authorities for suggestions and approval. A conference between the two universities was set for last evening in this city, but when it was found that no Harvard representative was present the committee plan was decided upon.

Columbia and W. and M. To-day.

Following their defeat on Monday by Amherst, the Columbia baseball team was put through strenuous practice yesterday on South Field in preparation for a game to-day on the home diamond with William and Mary College. Coach Lauder paid special attention to the batting practice, the Blue and White players falling down in the pinch hitting in the game with Amherst. It is probable that Brooks and Rappaport will be used by Columbia for today's game.

BASKET BALL MEN MEET.

Out-of-Bounds and Jump-Off Rules Changed by Collegiate Association.

The Collegiate Basket Ball Rules Committee yesterday announced changes in rules as follows:

The out-of-bounds rule was changed to a uniform ruling that penalizes the team that causes the ball to go out of bounds and gives it to the opposing team in every case. This will tend to simplify the game and make it easier for the spectators to understand the decisions, and should be the means of making many Young Men's Christian Associations and preparatory schools adopt the collegiate rules.

The second change in the rules concerns the "jump-off," and at all times when play is started by two men jumping for the ball each player is to keep one hand behind his back, thus jumping with only one hand upheld. This will prevent many of the fouls usually caused by the players pushing or clawing at each other while in the air.

The members instructed Ralph Morgan, Secretary of the committee, to endeavor to form a league among the colleges of New York State and Pennsylvania. Accordingly a call for two conventions has been sent out, one to be held at Houston Hall, Philadelphia, on the day of the Pennsylvania relay races, April 26, and the other in New York City. This date to be determined later.

Among those who participated in the work of chainging the rules were Dr. L. J. Cooke, University of Minnesota; Dr. James Nainsmith, University of Kansas; Oswald Tower, Williams; Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft, Princeton; L. W. St. John, Ohio State University, Columbus; Harry A. Fisher, Columbia, and Ralph Morgan, Pennsylvania.

Dr. Raycroft was re-elected Chairman of the committee for the third time, making the coming term his fourth. Both Ralph Morgan and Harry A. Fisher were re-elected for the tenth consecutive time to their respective posts of Secretary and editor of the book of rules. The committee met at the Hotel Imperial.

SANDS DEFEATS CUTTING.

New Yorkers in Hard and Long Match at Court Tennis.

BOSTON, April 8.—Two New York players, Charles E. Sands, a former champion, and S. Fulton Cutting, a Harvard student, fought out a long, hard match in the second round to-day of the National Amateur Court Tennis championship at the Tennis and Racquet Club, the former winning in five sets.

G. S. Derby of the local club had little difficulty in eliminating R. Gambrill of Harvard and New York in straight sets. The summary:

Second Round—G. S. Derby, Boston, won from R. Gambrill, New York, 6—3, 6—3, 6—1; C. E. Sands, New York, won from S. Fulton Cutting, New York, 3—6, 5—6, 6—1, 6—2, 6—3.

D. P. Rhodes, Boston, won from Philip Stockton, Boston, 6—4, 6—0, 4—6, 4—6, 6—2; Joshua Crane, Boston, won from G. McC. Sargent by default.

Bundy Won't Play in Cup Tennis.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8.—Thomas Bundy of Los Angeles, joint holder with Maurice E. McLoughlin of the National tennis doubles championship, will not participate in the preliminary Davis Cup matches in New York June 6, 7, and 8. Business interests prevent his making the Eastern trip at the time. McLoughlin, National champion in singles, will leave for New York several weeks prior to the matches in order to obtain necessary practice on turf courts. What little playing the champion has done during the Winter has been on asphalt. Jones and Rice of the Australian Davis Cup team are scheduled to arrive at San Francsco on April 25. Arrangements are being made for several exhibition matches, in which they will compete against McLoughlin and other Californians. The Australians will be joined in New York by Boust, the third member of the team, who is now in England.

Cornell Gets No Hit Off Trayers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 8.—Jim Trayers, the young pitcher of the Catholic University nine, held Cornell hitless to-day, the Brooklanders winning a fast game 3 to 2. Cornell managed to get two runs with the aid of batsmen being hit and errors. The Catholic University aggregation won the game in the eighth inning, when Butler pegged to centre field, allowing Trayers to score the third and final tally.

Butler caught a clever game, notwithstanding his bad heave which cost the Cornell tribe the game. O'Connor, on the mound for the Ithacans, allowed the Brooklanders six hits. Trayers was blessed with great support, no less than twenty-one assists being credited to the Catholic infield. Only one ball went to the local outfield in the nine innings of play. The score:

Athletics Win Final Game.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., April 8.—The Athletics closed the Spring series to-day by defeating the Phillies, 6 to 5. It was the Mackmen's fifth victory out of six games, the other game ending in a tie. Durning pitched his first game for the Athletics and did good work until the eighth inning, when the Phillies made five runs on five hits. The Athletics hit Moore hard, while Mayer was effective. Connie Mack returned from the South, where he has been with the Yanigans. He viewed the game from a box. The score:

Wireback Defeats Maupome.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., April 8.—In the National Billiard League three-cushion tournament to-night, Joseph Wireback of Pittsburgh defeated Pedro Maupome of St. Louis, 50 to 47, in ninety innings. Wireback had a high run of 6 and Maupome's best efforts netted 4. Should Pittsburgh win to-morrow night, a tie for first place will result with Chicago.

New York Billiardist Defeated.

Frank Jones, representing Philadelphia in the National Billiard League, defeated Paul Miller of New York at Doyle's last night by a score of 50 to 27 in fifty-nine innings. Jones had a high run of 5, while Miller's best effort was 4. To-night Harry Goldman will play Jones in the final game of the series.

YANKEES TROUNCED OVER IN NEWARK

Pitcher Russell Ford Lets Indians Gather Dozen Runs in Two Innings.

The Yankees tubed over to Newark yesterday afternoon and closed their exhibition season by running a poor second to Harry Smith's Indians of the International League. The ineffectiveness of Russell Ford in the second and sixth innings, coupled with some schoolboy playing by his supporting cast, enabled the Indians to collect a dozen runs in these two innings, and these allowed the home team to breeze in with victory. The final count was 12 to 7.

The "charley horse" which Manager Frank Chance sprang during the game in Brooklyn on Monday kept the peerless leader from taking part in yesterday's contest, and Claude Derrick was also out of the line-up as a result of the Brooklyn conflict. Harry Wolter was delegated as manager and Charlie Sterrett took the manager's place at first base. Pep Young was in Derrick's place, and he will undoubtedly be kept there during the first week of the pennant race. Chance expects to be in the game when the Yanks line up to-morrow for that little session with Walter Johnson of Washington.

The Yanks managed to push as many safe hits into the box score as the Indians, and there is little difference in the cold figures which tell of the fielding mistakes. But by all the rules of the game the major leaguers deserved to be on the losing end of the battle. They showed poor judgment in base running and fielding. It looked like a case of the boys playing "hookey" while the boss was away.

In the opening inning Birdie Cree pushed one of Gaskell's shoots high and far away over Collins's head in centre field and pulled up at third base before the ball was returned. But Birdie overlooked the necessary duty of touching first base on his travel around the paths, and the long wallop went for nothing. In the third inning Bert Daniels helped to break up another rosy chance by a poor attempt to steal third base with nobody out and Ford on first. In the second inning Bob Williams helped the Indians in their run collecting by letting a little pop fly drop between himself and Ford, and it went for a hit. Ford kept the parade in motion a minute later by the wildest kind of a toss to catch Myers at third base. It was weird baseball by the major leaguers, and the home wits, who occupied a section of the stands behind third base, had a most enjoyable afternoon with the Yankees.

Five hits in the second inning, coupled with a hit batsman, a pass, and two stolen bases, netted the Indians six runs, and another half-dozen runs were chalked up in the sixth inning on five hits, another pass, and a hit batsman. This was the end of Ford, who gave way to Ray Keating at the beginning of the seventh. The big fellow pitched a much better brand of ball during his short term than Ford had shown during the other innings.

Gaskell pitched the first five innings for the Indians, and George Bell, formerly with Brooklyn, finished the game. Each was touched up for six hits, but in no such clusters as the Indians made off the Yankee boxmen.

The Yankee hoodoo, which was so prominent in Brooklyn on Monday, got busy in the ninth inning yesterday and forced Roy Hartzell to the bench. Hartzell was hit by a foul, which glanced off his bat and landed on his temple, knocking him out temporarily. He was down two minutes, but was finally able to walk to the bench. Jack Lelivelt took Hartzell's place at bat and spanked out a pretty double to left field, which accounted for the last two runs. The score:

Paddy Green a Pirate Now.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., April 8.—Barney Dreyfuss announced to-day that he had bought Patrick Greenier, known as Paddy Green, from the New York Americans. Green is a pitcher whom the Yankees bought last year from Holyoke for $7,000. Dreyfuss won't tell what he paid for Green. Green is twenty years old and stands more than six feet in height. He was on the training trip to the Bermudas. Chance wanted to farm him out for the season, but Dreyfuss refused to waive. Dreyfuss wired Green to report immediately.

Two Home Runs for Schulte.

CHICAGO, April 8.—Frank Schulte, who predicted a few days ago that he would make thirty home runs this season, to-day drove out two of them and materially assisted the Chicago Nationals in winning 12 to 0, a practice game for Minneapolis, champions of the American Association. Humphreys started to pitch for Chicago, but hurt his hand in the first inning. The score:

POLO PLAYERS SPILLED.

R. L. Agassiz and L. E. Stoddard Thrown When Ponies Fall.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 8.—The polo games to-day came near being marred by an accident toward the close of the third contest, when R. L. Agassiz and L. E. Stoddard collided and Mr. Agassiz was thrown under his mount. The two, who had been playing the star game for their respective sides, went after a ball together. Stoddard's pony bearing over against Agassiz and causing both mounts to stumble and fall. Agassiz was thrown under his horse, while Stoddard fell clear. Fortunately the only injuries were a shaking up for both Stoddard and Agassiz.

Capt. Harry Payne Whitney's Team A gained the laurels in three brushes. In the first contest they defeated Team B 4 to 2.

The second brush was much closer, and but for Whitney's work in the last period Team C would have walked away with the game. La Montagne scored the opening goal shortly after the period opened, but aggressive work by Agassiz and Milburn brought Team C within striking distance and Harrison whipped the ball between the posts.

At the start of the second period Milburn and Harrison again broke away and the latter player again scored with a long stroke that made the goal at a difficult angle. When Phipps added another shortly afterward, it looked like the downfall of the Whitney combination.

In the last period Team A started to play. Whitney tied the score with a long shot, and later, when he and La Montagne carried the ball half the length of the field, it was again Whitney who made the score.

The last game brought Teams B and C together, and it also brought L. E. Stoddard into the limelight. He scored five out of the six goals made by his team and was all over the field. The line-up:

Team A—C. C. Rumsey, R. La Montagne, Jr., H. P. Whitney, D. Milburn.
Team B—L. E. Stoddard, J. M. Waterbury, Jr., L. Waterbury, H. S. Phipps.
Team C—J. S. Phipps, H. W. Harrison, R. L. Agassiz, D. Milburn.
Referee—Juan Fuentez.

$2,500 FOR FLOOD FUND.

Up-Staters Tardy in Sending In Amounts Pledged for Sufferers.

Billy Gibson, Treasurer of the Flood Sufferers' Benefit Fund, which held a series of boxing and athletic events in the Twenty-second Regiment Armory last week, made the statement yesterday before the New York State Athletic Commission that, although unable to render a full account of his stewardship in connection with the money received as the result of the series, he was able to guarantee the fund at least $2,500.

Through the failure of contributors to the benefit located in the upper section of the State to send in the amounts for which they announced themselves liable, Gibson anticipated that he would be unable to make a full accounting before the session of the commission next Friday, when he hoped to have in all of the returns, and when he would be enabled to give a complete list of the expenditures and receipts.

Remsen Makes Perfect Score.

In one of the most sensational finishes ever seen in a trapshooting tournament, G. S K. Remsen won the second of the series shoots over the traps of the Bergen Beach Gun Club yesterday. Remsen needed a straight string of 25 targets to give him the first prize. He was in the final squad, and although a strong wind was blowing across the meadows, the steady gunner broke every target. It gave him the match with a total of 92 out of a possible 100 targets. The only other gunner to make a straight score was J. Voorhees. Second prize ended in a tie between L. Schorty and P. Von Boeckman. Each had a total of 91 targets. Then came J. A. Welbrock, Dr. Sauer, and M. R. Guggenheim. The shoot was the second of a series of three matches for prizes offered by J. F. James. The third and last shoot will be held in May. Forty gunners in all competed yesterday.

No Watchung Steeplechase Race.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., April 8.—The Watchung Hunt Club will be unable to hold its annual Spring steeplechase meet this year, owing to the fact that there is no available track for the purpose. The Plainfield Driving Park has been cut up into building lots, leaving no other suitable place. There is a movement on foot to combine the local meet with the one in Monmouth County, if arrangements can be made.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

The Atlantic Garden Athletic Club, Bowery and Canal Street, will stage the only boxing show scheduled for New York to-night. The card is composed of three ten-round bouts between heavyweights, middleweights, and welterweights. The main event will bring together Soldier Kearns and Soldier Delaney, both of Brooklyn. Tommy Bergen of Lewiston and George Ashe of the east side will come together in the ten-round semi-final, and the first bout will show Benny Franklin vs. Italian Joe Gans.

The weekly show of the Forty-fourth Street Sporting Club, with Gunboat Smith and George Rodel in the feature bout, will be put on Friday night instead of Thursday, as Amsterdam Hall is rented for other purposes to-morrow night. Smith is working out at the Sharkey Athletic Club and Rodel is training in the Bronx.

Joe Mooney and Frankie Conifrey have been matched for the star bout of ten rounds at the Fairmont Athletic Club on Saturday night, and the winner will be sent against Kid Williams at the same club in three weeks. In the other ten-round bout of Saturday's show Joe Kucera, the navy featherweight, will oppose Babe Davis.

Matchmaker Leo Flynn of the Olympic Athletic Club has arranged the following card for next Monday night at the Harlem Club: Young Otto vs. Paddy Sullivan, Kid Ghetto vs. Kid Black, and Battling Hurley vs. Young Evans.

Frankie Fleming of Canada and K. O. Egers of the West Side will come together in the star bout at the New Polo Athletic Association of Harlem on Friday night. This will be the only ten-round bout of the show, but there will be a six-round semi-final and four-round preliminaries.

JOE RIVERS WHIPS LEACH CROSS IN RING

Neither Boxer Shows Much Skill in Ten-Round Bout at St. Nicholas A. C.

The ten-round bout between Joe Rivers of California and Leach Cross of the east side last night at the St. Nicholas Club, was in many respects a disappointing affair. In view of the former contest between the pair it was expected that the battle would assume a near-championship affair, but instead the bout did not materially differ from dozens of contests that take place in and around New York. Both boxers have been in line for the highest lightweight honors, but neither showed sufficient class to be placed near the top of the ladder.

Both boxers are possessed of dangerous right punches, and each tried to reach his opponent, but with little success. From a boxing standpoint the efforts of the two lightweights failed to please the big crowd of fighting fans present. Rivers not only outboxed Cross, but also outfought him. Rivers blocked many of the east sider's wild swings and jabbed his man repeatedly throughout the ten rounds. Cross was unable to elude the straight arm jabs of the Californian, and appeared to show undue respect for his opponent's fighting ability. As a result Cross did not show his usual aggressiveness, and was on the receiving end in the majority of the rounds.

Both boxers have much the same style of action, but when it came to boxing Rivers was easily in the ascendancy. Cross appeared to be anxious to end the contest with a single punch, but the Californian, with one experience before him, was wary and kept well out of harm's way. Rivers devoted his attention to a straight left jab in the face with an occasional right cross. This blow landed several times and rocked the east sider each time it found a resting place.

Cross appeared handicapped by weight, as he was but 132½ pounds at the ringside. He looked thin and drawn, while Rivers, who was but half a pound heavier, was sturdy in appearance. The latter allowed Cross to do the leading in the early rounds, but as the local man did not show any particular desire to adopt this style of boxing, Rivers, in the latter part of the contest, assumed the aggressive and kept Cross on the jump most of the time. The Californian made a mark of Cross's face, which was badly swollen, with a big lump over the left eye. Rivers carried few marks of the contest away with him.

The first five rounds were amateurish and Referee Dan Tone was kept busy separating the pair. There was considerable infighting, but the blows lacked effectiveness. It was not until the latter part of the second round that Rivers assumed the lead, when he landed several hard blows on the face and body. Cross ducked low and Rovers turned a somersault over the east sider's back.

It was not until the fourth round that the fast work was started, and even then there was little damage done. Rivers stuck out his left glove and Cross ran into it a number of times. The last named landed two swings, one on the ear and the other in the face, but both lacked steam.

Rivers opened the fifth round with a rush and reached the New Yorker's face and whipped over his right, which found a resting place on his opponent's forehead. The Californian followed these blows with a hard right smash over the eye. Cross managed to get home a stiff punch in the face, but received hard right and left smashes in return. The promise of fast fighting for the remainder of the contest was not borne out in the sixth, in which the boxers repeatedly went to a clinch. The best work in this round was near the bell, when the pair engaged in a hot mixup, with little to choose between them.

In the seventh Rivers rocked Cross with a hard smash over the eye, and in a second attempt missed and again fell over his man. A hard right-hand cross caught the east side boxed on the jaw, which rocked him badly, but he managed to retain his position. He looked weary going to his corner.

Rivers gave a pretty exhibition of blocking in the eighth, and worked his left jab with effect. The ninth round was a fast one and Cross made a better impression. It was his best round of the session. He reached the Westerner's head and body, but did not seem to worry him a whole lot. Right and left swings marked the closing round and Cross was tiring rapidly under the punishment he was receiving. He made several frantic efforts to turn the tide with wild swings, but failed to reach Rivers, who ended the contest with a couple of hard smashes in the face.

BROWN'S BOXING FIZZLE.

Management Refunds Money When Star Bout Fails.

Brown's Gymnasium was the scene of several knockouts last night, when boxers, the majority of whom were unknown to fame, handed the "sleep" punch to their still less experienced opponents. Young Green made Young Russell quit at the end of the first round, while Alf Meyers surprised himself when he found that he had given the quietus to Young Rose, who apparently went down and out in the third.

Young Brooks and Eddie Owens, 155-pound lads, mixed matters in a satisfactory manner for two rounds, at the end of which the referee stopped further hostilities when it looked as though Owens might get hurt if he permitted the affair to continue. Jimmy Powers of Hoboken had the better of his milling with a boy who refused to give even an alias, and who had probably ten pounds the better of the weights. Powers scaled about 105 pounds.

Defections by several of the men signed for the main attractions warranted the management in calling off the rest of the show, with the result that all those who had purchased tickets had their money refunded.

Automobile Club Chooses Officers.

Quality Never Varies

Over in Bonnie Scotland where the eye for color and the skill for weaving are handed down for generations, you expect to find wonderful woolens.

That's what happened when we developed these "Scotch Mists."

'Twas a trick no one had ever done before.

We thought we knew how, and sure enough we did!

Had a cloth specially woven on our ideas—thought out in New York and worked out in Scotland.

So this Spring, for the first time, we have these "Scotch Mist" cheviots made into smart, practical raincoats.

Most attractive "misty" mixtures.

A distinct break-away from the everyday "Mackintosh."

Some cut "regular," some with raglan shoulder.
$30, $32 and $35.

Everything men and boys wear.

TO PROTECT THE FARMER.

Assembly Passes Bill to License Commission Merchants.

ALBANY, April 8.—The Cole Commission Merchants bill, aimed at unscrupulous and financially irresponsible persons who sell farm produce on commission, passed the Assembly to-day by a vote of 110 to 9. The bill would amend the agricultural law by requiring commission houses dealing in farm produce to take out a State license and give a fidelity bond of $3,000 to protect the farmer who ships to the commission merchant. The bill would also give to the farmer the right to hale the commission merchant who defaults in payment or does not give a full account for goods received, before the State Commissioner of Agriculture for a hearing. Sustained charges would result in the revocation of a license.

Vetoed Bill Not Goldberg's.

In an Albany dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday it was said that the bill to amend the law in relation to compensation for so-called appearances in legislative matters, more easily identified as the "Lobby bill," which Gov. Sulzer vetoed, was a bill introduced by Assemblyman Goldberg of the Eighteenth New York District. Assemblyman Goldberg was not the author of this bill. It was introduced by Assemblyman Greenberg of the Twenty-sixth New York District.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Emeralds Are Getting Scarce.

Fine emeralds are not increasing in number, according to Meyer D. Rothschild, head of the American Gem and Pearl Company, and discriminating gem buyers are beginning to look on these stones as the best possible investment.

A perfect emerald of fair size is a rarity, which fact adds to the value and cost of these stones. They are very soft when first taken from the mine, but harden on exposure to the air. Their vivid green color is supposed to come from the oxide of chrome they contain. Most of the best emeralds come from the mines of the Muzo, near Bogota.

Coal Mines Under Headway.

"The anthracite mines have been slow in gettnig under full headway after the March shutdowns," the Coal Trade Journal will say to-day, "not so much from lack of orders as from physical conditions at the collieries. Many of them, especially in the Schuylkill region, were partially flooded by the heavy rains toward the end of last month, and not until the beginning of the current week were they able to turn out a normal output.

"Viewed in its entirety, the bituminous trade is in a healthy condition, though the spot market remains in a more or less dormant condition, without any signs of an early return to life."

New Artificial Silk.

Belgium appears to be the on' country where the manufacture of artificial silk by the old guncotton process still yields handsome profits, according to The Manchester Guardian. This appears to be due to the fact that alcohol and ether are obtainable there much more cheaply than elsewhere.

The competition of the newer processes is apparently regarded seriously, for $193,000 is set aside from the profits of the Fabrique de Soie Artificialle de Tubize, a prominent producer, for the purchase of the Belgian patent rights for a certain new method.

Exports to Germany Lead.

According to figures issued yesterday by the local Custom House, exports, exclusive of specie, from New York in the week ended April 5 were valued at $18,657,721, against $15,111,509 in the corresponding week in 1912. The exports to Germany topped the week's list with a value of $3,700,355. England was second with $2,771,327. The only other countries to pass the $1,000,000 mark were the Argentine Republic and the British possessions.

Wheat shipments for the week totaled 542,804 bushels. Beef shipments were very light, showing only 77 barrels and 327 tierces.

Printcloths Quiet.

The printcloth market suffered a complete reversal of form yesterday. Buyers were for the most part talking tariff, and the results of the day were meagre. Some 38½-inch, 64-60s, were sold at 5 cents, and there was a fair call for sateens. Otherwise the market was featureless. Reports from Fall River showed that market to be quiet and weak. The day's quotations follow:

27-inch, 56-52s....3c

MAY ON AUTO PROBLEM.

Urges Licensing of All Operators of Motor Vehicles.

ALBANY, April 8.—There are now pending before the Legislature some thirty-two different measures designed to regulate the operation of automobiles. Secretary of State May, in a statement to-day, says this is an indication of the growing demand for legislation which will give the State authorities "proper means of controlling the problem." "Most of these bills," he says, "are ill-advised, and, with the exception of the McClelland-McGrath measure, have been disapproved by the State Department because they are dectively drawn and are unscientific legislation."

Secretary May says that most of the complaints on file in his office against reckless driving "come from owners themselves, who realize that such dangers threaten the safety of the occupants of the motor car more than pedestrians."

"The only accurate means of identification of these offenders," Mr. May says, "must come through the licensing of all operators, as required in all of the Eastern States from Maine to Virginia, with the exception of New York State. Otherwise the owner himself must guarantee that he will be responsible for the acts of anyone who may borrow his car."

The McClelland-McGrath bill embodies a recommendation of the Secretary of State designed to require the licensing of all operators of motor vehicles.

AMONG THE SHOPS.

Ratine handbags are the newest kind to use with the ratine Spring suits. They are in four colors—gray, blue, mustard, and lavender. They are round in form with a handle of ratine, and no metal bar top, though the clasp is of gilt. All are lined with white satin, and are fitted with tiny mirror and white satin purse. They are priced at $5.

A four-by-three-inch memorandum book for madame's desk is shown with ivory covers. The carving on the covers reproduces Thorwaldsen's "Night" and "Morning." These books cost $20 each.

Lisle and silk hose for men are priced at 55 cents a pair. All silk hose are $1 a pair. Either kind are in several colors, but gray and black and white seem popular.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

Wheat prices turned weak upon the publication of the Government crop report and closed 1 to 1⅛c net lower. Corn prices closed at a net loss of ⅝ to ¾c, and oats ⅜ to ⅝c in sympathy with the other markets. Cotton was steady at a decline of 3 points for April, while other months were 4 to 6 points net higher.

WHEAT.

The Government crop report, published at noon, made the condition of wheat on April 1 91.6 per cent., compared with 93.1 per cent. in December, 80.6 last year, and a ten-year average of 86.3 per cent. The Government made no estimate on yield, as next month's report will include the revised acreage, and the Agricultural Bureau reserves its figures on the crop until it has decided on the acreage to stand to harvest. It was figured, however, that the present condition of 91.6 would indicate a yield of 16.6 bushels per acre, which, on the acreage sown, would point to a crop of 537,600,000 bushels, compared with 399,919,000 last year. During the morning the market moved within a comparatively narrow range, although there was more or less liquidation before the report, as it was expected that the condition would be high. Operations at no time during the day were of an aggressive character, but after the trade had heard the Government figures there was a gradual decline in prices, and at the close the market was weak, with a net loss of 1 to 1⅛c. Private advices from the West and Southwest were of a very favorable nature and there was little to complain of in connection with the present crop prospects. The foreign markets were very steady to firm and the indications of strength abroad had a tendency to discourage heavy risks on the selling side. The European visible supply showed an increase of 2,600,000 bushels for the week, but Bradstreet's world's visible decreased 527,000, compared with an increase a year ago of 4,414,000. An official French report made the condition of Winter wheat on April 1 in that country 73 per cent., compared with 71 per cent. last year. In the local market No. 2 red Winter wheat was quoted at $1.11½ elevator and $1.13 free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, $1.01¾ free on board, afloat.

CORN.

The corn market was steady early in the day, owing to continued light offerings prompted by the small receipts at interior points and owing to unsettled weather over the West, which, it was feared, would delay planting. Late in the day there was a sharp decline, however, in sympathy with wheat, and final prices were ⅝ to ¾c net lower. Bradstreet's visible supply showed a decrease of 2,537,000 bushels for the week, compared with a decrease of 1,395,000 last year. In the local market export corn was quoted at 60¼c, free on board, afloat.

OATS.

There was comparatively little feature to the oats market, but prices early were steady on the weather and the light movement. Late in the session there was increased dealing and prices were easier in sympathy with the other markets, closing ⅜ to ⅝c net lower. Bradstreet's visible decreased 821,000 bushels compared with an increase of 320,000 last year. The local cash market was steady, standard white quoted at 40c; No. 3, 39 to 39½c; No. 4, 38½ to 39c; natural white, 38 to 40c; white clipped, 38½ to 41c, all track.

COTTON.

Reports of a break in the levee on the Arkansas side of the Mississippi River, about twenty-three miles south of Memphis, prospects of showers or rains in the eastern belt, and somewhat better cables than expected, failed to create any important buying power in the cotton market to-day. This may have been partly due to the unsettling influence of tariff agitation and the claims of manufacturing interests that proposed duties will greatly disturb business, while the report of the International Spinners' Federation, showing comparatively large stocks of American cotton in the hands of the world's spinners, had also a tendency to counteract bullish influences. At any rate, trading was very quiet, and prices fluctuated within a range of 5 or 6 points, with the close steady at a decline of 3 points on April, but generally 4 to 6 points net higher.

The break in the Mississippi levees comes at just about the same time as the break of last season, and in practically the same locality. Private wires from Memphis said that about 25,000 acres of cotton land had been flooded, but it was generally believed that the river would drain rapidly enough to permit of planting, and no one seemed to think that the overflows so far reported would have any material influence on the new crop outlook. The river was reported to be still rising at Memphis, however, and the situation in this respect caused some little anxiety, owing to the possibility of further breaks, although the outlet afforded by the overflow already reported should relieve the situation to some extent. According to the reports of the International Federation of Cotton Spinners, British mill stocks of American cotton on March 1 were 326,034 bales, against 287,276 last year, with total mills stocks of American 3,267,962 bales, against 2,815,942 last year. Last season the mills continued to take American cotton very freely at advancing prices during the Spring and Summer, owing, perhaps, to the unfavorable start of the crop now being marketed, and the nervousness which was felt with reference to an adequate supply during the growing season.

The market opened steady, at an advance of 3 to 4 points, in response to relatively firm cables, but, failing to meet any important demand, eased off to about the closing figures of Monday during the middle of the day. Sellers, however, seemed no more willing to operate aggressively than buyers, and prices later rallied on covering or Wall Street buying, and closed at practically the best point of the day. Private cables from Liverpool reported spinners calling, also claiming that the financial and political horizon was clearing. Southern spot markets officially reported were unchanged to 1-16c higher.

The local market for spot cotton was quiet and unchanged, at 12.60 for middling upland; sales nil.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was firm during the early part of the session, prices advancing in sympathy with a firmer tone to the hog market and on covering, but late in the day there was renewed liquidation and prices broke sharply, closing at the bottom. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 12,000; estimated for Wednesday, 28,000. Kansas City received 17,000 and Omaha 10,500.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The cottonseed oil market was steadier around the opening and during the first part of the day owing to buying by commission houses and influenced by continued light offerings of crude and the early firmness in lard. When the lard market declined in the late afternoon it appeared to be the signal for renewed aggressive selling, and prices late in the day were easy, closing at a net loss of 4 to 9 points.

COFFEE.

The volume of business was the largest in years, sales aggregating 357,750 bags, and making new low records for the season. The market reached 320 to 395 points below the high point made in October and December. Havre went down 2¾ to 3f, while Hamburg lost ¾ pfennig. At the start in New York distant positions showed comparative steadiness, but coffee came out in large blocks and at previous low figures stop loss orders were uncovered in abundance. There was a late partial reaction, but closing quotations were 37 to 44 points net lower. Cost and freight offers from Brazil were easier, especially from Rio, and the spot market was practically demoralized. Quotations showing 11⅛c for Rio 7 and 13¼c for Santos 4s.

SAFETY AND INCOME

A few years ago 3½ to 5 per cent. was the prevailing return on sound investment bonds. Today 4½ to 6 per cent. is to be had from those of equally high standard. The investor who looks for safety and liberal income, combined with a reasonably broad market, should not allow this opportunity to slip by.

Breaking Ground Early

The preparation for future Income is like the construction of a building. The earlier the ground is broken and work begun, the sooner will results be realized. The laying of the first brick of the building is similar to one's first bond purchase. First Mortgage Bonds, when purchased from a conservative banking house are an ideal nest egg toward that end.

We would be glad through personal interview or by mail to give our aid in the selection of even $100 bonds.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Rise Briskly in Last Hour—Excellent Winter Wheat Report.

There was perhaps not as much spontaneity about the rapid rise in prices during the closing hours of trading yesterday as might have been desired, but the day's news supplied some excellent grounds for greater optimism than had been felt at the opening of the week. The European situation was subordinated to other factors yesterday, but some signs of weakening by the Balkan States which had been opposing the demands of the European powers in respect to Scutari were helpful to the extent to which it suggested the lifting of an obstacle to the establishment of peace. This more than offset as a market influence a hardening of discount rates in one or two of the European markets, and viewed as a whole, the news from abroad supplied a good foundation upon which to build up improved sentiment in response to the several matters here at home which were of hopeful import. These included an excellent report on the condition of the Winter crop and a very satisfactory statement from the copper trade.

Comment on the President's message on the tariff was more or less perfunctory if for no other reason than that Wall Street had previously formed its estimate of what Mr. Wilson was likely to say, and found no reason to adopt new ideas on this point as a result of the actual delivery of the President's address to Congress. The tariff proposals and the income tax were much talked of, but there was even more general disposition yesterday than on Monday to look upon the Underwood bill as marking the extreme of tariff reduction proposals and to consider these as subject to modification in the direction of lesser departure from existing rates of duty. Very naturally the income tax plan was not liked. Perhaps the most thoughtful of the Street comment on the question was to the effect that if the income tax was needed at all it would be vastly better to make it general in its application. But despite the active discussion of the revision of the tariff it hardly seemed to be a potent market influence yesterday. Certainly it offered no obstacle to the successful pursuit in the afternoon of active operations on the long side which moved prices upward in brisk fashion.

The Government report on the condition of Winter wheat placed it on April 1 at a figure which equaled the highest trade expectation and one which gives promise of a very plentiful yield, particularly when the condition estimate is viewed in conjunction with the general belief that the Winter killed area, which will not be reported by the Government until the next monthly report, has been smaller than usual this year. The report makes a good beginning for this years' news regarding the crops which from this time on become an increasingly important factor in the general business and financial situation. The Copper Producers' Association reported a decrease of over 18,000,000 pounds during March in the supply of the metal in the hands of the producers. This bore out recent reports regarding the improved position of the trade, and offered in part the explanation of the rise which has lately taken place in the price of copper. The buying of copper for immediate delivery during last month, representing the filling of requirements of manufacturers who had allowed their stock of the raw metal to run low, appears to have been an important factor in bringing about the large reduction in stocks.

More was heard yesterday regarding the plan which the Union Pacific Directors have been devising to meet the requirements of the decree of the Supreme Court compelling the surrendering of control of the Southern Pacific. It seemed pretty definitely assured that the plan to be submitted to the court as soon as the Judges of the circuit come together, will not call for any underwriting arrangement, and that it will include a provision under which a considerable period of time would be allowed for the actual liquidation of the Southern Pacific stock held by the Union Pacific. The financial community was still in ignorance, however, regarding the attitude of Mr. McReynolds, although it was understood that whatever his views they will probably be expressed before the court when the plan is submitted, rather than in any further conferences with the representatives of the railroad. The Union Pacific plan includes no provision for a change in the status of the Central Pacific. It remains to be seen whether the court will feel called upon to embody in its decree some arrangement in respect to the Central Pacific, which would go beyond a mere disposal by the Union Pacific of its Southern Pacific stock.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 3½@4 per cent., with the last loan at 3¾ per cent. Most of the day's business was done at 3¾ per cent.

Time money rates were 4½@5 per cent. for sixty days to six months.

Commercial paper was quoted at 6 per cent. for the best names.

The local banks have lost $2,190,000 on their Sub-Treasury operations since Friday.

FOREIGN RATES.

Discount rates abroad yesterday were: London, 4¼ per cent. for short bills, 4 3-16@4¼ for three months; Paris, 4 per cent., and Berlin, 4⅜ per cent. Money was 3@3½ per cent. in London, and 4 per cent. in Berlin.

The Paris check rate on London was 5f. 25c., and the Berlin check rate on London was 20 marks 48 pfennigs.

CABLE AND SIGHT RATES.

London—Cable, $4.87; demand, $4.87½.

Switzerland—Cable, 5.19⅜ less 1-32; check, 5.20.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Union Pacific Marking Time.

Information concerning the doings of the Union Pacific Directors by way of carrying out the Supreme Court's dissolution order has become very misty in the past few days. One member of the board has told inquirers that he has been temporarily "bottled up," while another has fallen into the habit of referring all questions to Judge Lovett. "There can't be any actual news just now," said an active member of the board yesterday, "for the reason that nothing is being done. We have not been able to learn where Mr. McReynolds stands as regards the questions we submitted to Mr. Wickersham, and I am sure that there will not be any plan announced in the next week."

Some Probabilities.

It appears probable that the plan as next submitted will turn about the simple proposition of obeying the court's order to sell control of the Southern Pacific. No mention will be made of Central Pacific at this time. The court will be asked to give the Union Pacific a reasonable period in which to dispose of the Southern Pacific stock, so that it may be distributed gradually. The limit set by the decree made it necessary to dispose of the shares by May 10. That leaves only one month in which to get a plan approved, and the Directors are becoming anxious lest the Circuit Court meet so late that it would not be possible to make any further changes in the plan in case the one submitted should not meet all of the requirements. If Union Pacific is allowed a year or more in which to effect a sale of its $126,650,000 of Southern Pacific stock it will not be necessary to form a new syndicate.

To Decide on Closing.

At their regular meeting to-day the Governors of the New York Stock Exchange will take action regarding the observance by the Exchange of Mr. Morgan's funeral, to be held, it is expected, next Monday. It is probable that the decision will be to close the Exchange from 10 till 11, or from 10 till noon. The possibility of the Supreme Court handing down the Minnesota rate decision soon after noon precludes any movement to suspend trading during the afternoon.

B. & O. Bonds Being Distributed.

Bond men were pleased at the behavior of the Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s on the second day following the dissolution of the underwriting syndicate, which freed upwards of $50,000,000 which had been apportioned to the syndicate members. There were sales yesterday on the Stock Exchange of $884,000 full paid and $532,000 of the part paid bonds, but the price did not go below 93, which represents a two-point decline from the original offering price. At that figure the bonds are apparently finding a ready market, and the bond dealers say that they are being distributed to investors. They found encouragement in the fact that there was a market for new issues "at a price," even if there was not a very healthy demand for issues on a 4½ per cent. basis.

Closing Price of "IGL Pr."

Long after the market had closed yesterday there appeared on the tape the following bid and asked quotation: IGL Pr 10-64. The symbol stands for International Agricultural Corporation preferred, and the fact that no more than 10 was bid for a stock which is on a 7 per cent. dividend basis was a distinct surprise to those who happened to glance over the ticker at the time it appeared. Apparently the ticker operator had delayed sending the quotation out in its regular place until he had verified the figures, for it did not appear until after the other closing and high-and-low prices had been printed. On the previous day the stock was offered at 69 without any bids being made. The preferred shares sold some time ago at 76, but have been very inactive lately. There was a nine-point break in the common stock to 22 last week, but no further radical movement occurred in either issue until the unusually wide difference between the bid and asked prices appeared yesterday. The sudden fall yesterday aroused much conjecture as to what the bid for the common stock would be with the preferred on the exceptional basis revealed by the ticker.

Calm Toward the Tariff.

The equanimity with which the stock market received the proposed tariff bill before Congress was the subject of more discussion in the Street yesterday than in the hours of business which succeeded the publication of reductions asked on the previous day. There were numerous close observers of events in American industries who wondered whether the same composure would be to the fore six months hence, provided the tariff law is in effect then as prepared, when the demand of Europe for her own goods might be satiated. Steel men frankly say that the proposed removal of duty on rails and the reduction on other commodities does not appeal very warmly to them just now, one way or the other, because the companies of England and Germany are not able to supply urgent demands of customers of their own people. They are booked up for months ahead and cannot possibly seek to compete with our manufacturers in our markets in that time. This condition may or may not continue, but there is small question but that the pleasant state of business abroad at present is preventing a lot of worry in this country.

Bank Statements Called For.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The Controller of the Currency to-day issued a call for a statement of the condition of all National banks of the United States at the closing of business on Friday April 4.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

London Market Recovers After Depression—Prices Easier in Berlin.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, April 9.—The Times will say in its City article to-day:

"With money in abundant supply the rates on day-to-day advances were very easy, and the balances difficult to lend at the close. The discount quotations were weak at the opening, but became steady when a rumor circulated that a very large amount of gold would probably be sent to Brazil during the next few weeks. Nothing definite was known, but the impression in well-informed quarters was that the withdrawal of sovereigns might be made from the Bank to-morrow in connection with these operations.

"The stock markets showed weakness at the opening, the operators being unfavorably impressed by the Montenegrin refusal to accept the powers' decision. Later in the day rumors were current that Montenegro was acceding to the powers' demands and that Servia was withdrawing her troops, whereupon the bears hurried to cover. There was thus a fair recovery in most departments. In some cases the highest quotations were not fully maintained, but the tone on the whole at the close was not bad. American railroad securities rallied in common with other markets. The efforts of the bears to depress the quotations on the proposed tariff changes did not meet with any success."

PARIS, April 8.—Prices were steady on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 86f. 57½c. for the account.

BERLIN, April 8.—Prices were easier on the Boerse to-day.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Business on the Consolidated Stock Exchange was on a heavy scale, the transactions totaling 73,930 shares, representing the biggest day since January 14 last. Prices closed at or near their best, the sessions ending with a general recovery in progress from a sharp decline which had taken place in the early afternoon. The good exhibit of the Government crop report and the showing of the monthly Copper Producers' statement helped along the closing buying movement.

PETROLEUM PROFITS.

Mexican Companies Show Earnings for Common 5.89 Per Cent.

The consolidated income account of the Mexican Petroleum Company, Ltd.; the Mexican Petroleum Company of California and the Huasteca Petroleum Company showed, when issued yesterday, net profits for the year ended on Dec. 31 of $2,849,771 after there had been deducted for depreciation $295,000. The payment of preferred dividends required $959,982, leaving $1,885,424 for the common stock, the equivalent of 5.89 per cent. on the $32,000,000 shares outstanding.

The balance sheet showed assets amounting to $55,617,814. Of this total oil lands, leases and other properties supplied $51,464,439 and current assets were figured at $3,889,942 in the way of supplies on hand and accounts receivable.

ALLIS-CHALMERS SALE.

Chicago Property Bought for $1,000,000 by J. H. McClement.

CHICAGO, April 8.—The Chicago property of the Allis-Chalmers Company, which was placed in the hands of a receiver a year ago, was sold at public auction to-day for $1,000,000 to J. H. McClement of New York.

MILWAUKEE, April 8.—Attorney General Owen this afternoon advised the Secretary of State that the Allis-Chalmers Company of Milwaukee should be allowed to file its articles of incorporation. Ten days ago, when the company made application for such filing, two Milwaukee attorneys protested. The Attorney-General overruled all their objections.

Panhandle Shows Gains.

The Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway Company, the Panhandle, reported yesterday net income in the year ended on Dec. 31, 1912, of $6,186,249, an increase of $956,646 over 1911. Dividends of 5 per cent. on the preferred and common stocks required $3,232,468, the sinking fund received $756,645 and appropriations for betterments and additions to road and equipment absorbed $1,400,000. The balance carried to the profit and loss account was $62,972.

COPPER METAL DECREASES.

New High Record for Domestic and Foreign Deliveries.

The monthly statement of the Copper Producers' Association for March, issued yesterday, showed a decrease in the amount of surplus metal on hand of 18,032,928 pounds, and an expansion of deliveries to both domestic and foreign consumers which established a new high record at 154,284,777 pounds. The report reflected heavy buying of copper throughout the month, particularly in the closing days after the fall of Adrianople had stimulated European demand. The inroad into stocks on hand reduced the aggregate amount to be carried over into April to 104,269,270 pounds from 122,302,198 pounds at the first of March.

Copper was turned out by the refineries in March to the extent of 136,251,849 pounds, an increase of 5,302,000 pounds over the February record. The daily output was, however, 300,000 pounds less than in the shorter month. Domestic deliveries amounted to 72,585,471 pounds, an advance of 19,908,979 pounds over the preceding month. Export deliveries were not on so large a scale, gaining no more than 5,530,783 pounds to 77,699,306 pounds, the greater portion of the shipments occurring in the last half of March.

The previous high record for deliveries was 149,200,000 pounds, in round numbers, last August.

QUIET IN SOUTHERN PACIFIC.

Routine Meeting To-day Unless New Quorum Rule Is Opposed.

The annual meeting of the Southern Pacific Company to be held today will be a routine affair unless minority stockholders offer some objection to the recent action of the directors in making a majority of the stock, exclusive of that held by Union Pacific, a quorum for voting purposes. A prominent interest in Southern Pacific said last night that he would be agreeably surprised if the meeting were allowed to take its usual course. It is expected that two members of the board, whose time has been taken up too largely by their Southern Pacific duties, will resign at to-day's meeting.

E. L. Andrews, counsel for foreign bondholders, has objected to the resolution of the Southern Pacific board declaring a majority of the 54 per cent. of the company's stock not held by Union Pacific a quorum. He maintains that inasmuch as a quorum is defined by the company's charter it is beyond the power of the directors to change it. He has made his views known to Attorney-General McReynolds and is not expected to offer any further opposition at the meeting.

METROPOLITAN LIFE VOTING.

230,000 Ballots Cast—New Directors Added to Old Board.

The annual meeting of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company was held yesterday and about 230,000 ballots were cast. They had been coming in by mail for the last two or three weeks, and it tok thirty clerks all day yesterday to open them. Inspectors of election appointed by the Insurance Department began the count, which will take some time, although there was only one ticket in the field.

Every policy holder of the Metropolitan is entitled to vote, as well as every share of stock. Stockholders cast about 80,000 ballots and policy holders about 150,000. The old board of twenty Directors was re-elected, and its membership was increased to twenty-five by the election of the following new Directors: John Anderson, Alanson B. Houghton, John H. Huddleston, Walter C. Humstone, and Alexander B. W. Kinnan.

NO UNION BAG RECEIVER.

Stockholders Approve Management by Re-electing Old Board.

Stockholders of the Union Bag and Paper Company voted unanimously at the annual meeting yesterday against the appointment of a receiver and placed their approval upon the management by re-electing the five members of the Board of Directors, whose terms had expired. It was announced that the stockholders who signed a petition requesting a receivership, represented less than 3,000 shares.

President Barrett said that the company's business had remained practically stationary for several years. Last year operating profit amounted to $554,000, which was $450,000 less than in the year previous. This poor showing was due to the fact, said Mr. Barrett, that the company had entered into competitive business, and, as prices were lower than in many years, some commodities were sold at a loss.

The Directors re-elected were Philip G. Bartlett, Alfred Clifford, Charles F. Coburn, John F. Derby and Alexander MacLauren.

FIVE TIMES THE BOND INTEREST

We are offering to yield 5.15%, the 5% bonds of a notably successful public service corporation, which is conducting an old-established gas and electric business serving a population of 450,000.

The net earnings of the company for the past twelve months were about two million dollars, or five times the total interest charges. A conservative valuation of the property by which these bonds are secured shows an equity of about seven and one-half million dollars, or eighty per cent above the total bonded debt.

We have long been identified with this corporation and believe that the unusually large margin of safety in equity and earnings renders these bonds an investment of exceptional strength.

ROAD BOUGHT OIL LANDS.

Kruttschnitt Says Agent Acted on Harriman Orders.

Julius Kruttschnitt, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, continued in the witness chair yesterday in the Government's action to cancel a patent granted in 1904 to the company for 6,300 acres of oil land in California. In the course of his examination W. N. Mills, Special Assistant Attorney General, inquired about purchases of oil lands for the Southern Pacific in Texas by an agent named Treadwell, asking if he had not bought fields in his own name with the company's money.

"Treadwell was commissioned by the company," said Mr. Kruttschnitt, "to buy oil lands for the company, and, of course, when he did so he was paid for it. Some of the properties he negotiated were not accepted by me. Sometimes he bought oil lands with his own money for himself."

The witness said that particular activity in buying oil-bearing properties at that time was because of the orders of E. H. Harriman, and the Kern Trading and Oil Company was an organization for the development of the oil lands.

"Mr. Harriman had instructed me to get every engine on the Southern Pacific to burning oil as soon as possible," said Mr. Kruttschnitt, "and it was to carry out that order that I had the Kern Company started. There was never anything about it to be concealed."

The Government charges that the Kern Trading and Oil Company was an agency for fraudulent work in connection with the patent grant.

BIG WHEAT CROP INDICATED.

Condition of Waiter Fields Is 91.6 Per Cent. of Normal.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The average condition of Winter wheat on April 1 was 91.6 per cent. of a normal, compared with 80.6 last year; 83.3 in 1911, and 86.3 the ten-year average. There was a decline of 1.6 points from Dec. 1 to April 1, compared with an average decline of 3.6 points in the past ten years.

The average condition of rye was 89.3 per cent. of a normal, compared with 87.9 last year, 89.3 in 1911, and 90.1 the ten-year average.

OLD BROKERS GETTING BACK

Cut in Seats to Less Than $50,000 Induces Former Members to Return.

The decline in the price of seats on the New York Stock Exchange to figures below $50,000 has resulted in the repurchase of memberships by men who belonged to the Exchange years ago and later went into other lines of work. A number of these sales have been reported in the last few weeks. The Board of Governors investigated some of them, it was said in Wall Street yesterday, to discover whether any out-and-out speculation existed in the transactions, but found nothing more than normal purchases at bargain prices.

Some of the old members have appeared on the board room floor after an absence of as long as fifteen years. There were several who had been active traders in the market and found it would be cheaper to have their seats back than pay full commissions.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Rabbit Skins Cut—Tax Upheld on Splash Mats and Flint.

The Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday overruled a protest filed by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company against a tax under the Tariff act of 1909 on splash screens or mats. The Collector at Baltimore returned the articles at 40 per cent. ad valorem, under Paragraph 214, as painted or decorated. The railroad asked 35 per cent., under Paragraph 215, as household furniture, or 15 per cent., under Paragraph 470, as paintings. Judge McClelland decided.

The board sustained a protest by G. A. Van Rossan on dressed and dyed rabbit skins(taxed by Collector Loeb under the present law, Paragraph 439, at 35 per cent. ad valorem as manufactures of fur. The importer established the goods to be furs dressed on the skin not further advanced than dyeing, and dutiable at 20 per cent. under the same paragraph.

The B. F. Goodrich Company of Cleveland failed to receive a reduction on pneumatic tire fabric, held at 45 per cent. ad valorem under the act of 1909, Paragraph 330, being in chief value of cotton. The protestants contended that the fabric was entirely of cotton and should come in as countable cotton, under Paragraphs 315 to 320, inclusive.

The board decided that crushed flint imported by the Armour Sandpaper Company was properly taxed under the present law, as an unenumerated manufactured article, at 20 per cent. ad valorem.

INVESTMENT FEATURES

1. Bonds are an absolute first mortgage on all the property, rights and privileges of the Company, now or hereafter owned or acquired. The Company owns lands, timber rights, mills, etc., in Gaspe and Bonaventure Counties, province of Quebec. Area of tract over 630 sq. miles.

2. Values of standing timber and pulp wood, according to Lemieux Bros. & Co., $10,827,200 or over 3¼ times bond issue. Mills, equipment, quick assets, etc., not included. The size of tract and quantities of timber and pulp wood insure permanency of value far beyond life of bonds. Values of twice bond issue should remain when bonds are all retired, without regard to regrowth or increasing value of timber.

3. Sinking Fund of $3.00 per thousand of timber and $1.00 per cord of pulp wood cut will supply ample funds to meet bonds and together with surplus earnings probably retire all before due dates at call price of 103 and interest. $1,000,000 Reserve Bonds can only be issued under proper restrictions for new improvements, acquisitions, etc., at 80% of cost.

4. Careful estimates of President of the Company indicate net earnings applicable bond interest of $399,000 per annum, or nearly 2¼ times requirements. As bonds mature, interest charges will be constantly decreasing, and proportion of surplus therefore increasing.

5. Management is in exceptionally strong hands. Mr. R. F. Whitmer, of Wm. Whitmer & Sons, Inc., President, and Mr. W. H. Sharp, of Jessup & Moore Paper Co., Vice President. Location of property and physical operating conditions particularly favorable. Readily accessible to principal markets of Europe and America.

TO THE HOLDERS OF THE First Lien Refunding Five Per Cent Gold Bonds
OF THE
KANSAS CITY RAILWAY & LIGHT COMPANY
Maturing May 15, 1913.

In view of the approaching maturity, on May 15, 1913, of the above-mentioned Bonds and of the fact that other large issues of bonds and notes secured upon property of the Company or of some of its subsidiary corporations have matured and are about to mature, the undersigned, holding and representing a large amount of the First Lien Refunding Bonds, (certain of the undersigned being also members of the Committee representing the Company's Gold Notes or of the Committee representing the Metropolitan Street Railway Five Per Cent. Bonds, and as such already familiar with the situation of the Company's affairs and properties,) believe it of importance that the holders of the Bonds above mentioned shall be in a position for prompt and concerted action before the date of maturity of these Bonds, and, therefore, have consented to act as a committee for the protection of the interests of the holders of the First Lien Refunding Five Per Cent. Gold Bonds.

Holders of these Bonds are requested to deposit their bonds, with May 15, 1913, coupons attached, on or before MAY 1, 1913, with THE NEW YORK TRUST COMPANY, 26 Broad Street, New York City, as depositary under an agreement providing for such deposits dated April 3, 1913. Transferable certificates of deposit will be issued therefor. Deposits may also be made with the OLD COLONY TRUST COMPANY, 17 Court Street, Boston, the agent of the depositary.

The Committee will collect interest on the Bonds, if and as paid, and when received will promptly pay the same to the holders of certificates of deposit representing the Bonds in respect whereof such payments of interest shall be made. No plan of reorganization or of refinancing which does not involve realizing in cash for the benefit of the Bondholders the full amount due upon their securities will be undertaken by the Committee until the same shall have been submitted to depositors as provided in the deposit agreement. Copies of the deposit agreement may be obtained by application either to the depositary or to its agent above mentioned. More detailed information may be obtained by application to the Secretary of the Committee.

FORECLOSURE SALES.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE SALE PURSUANT TO ADJOURNMENT.—DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES, SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF OHIO, EASTERN DIVISION.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to and by virtue of a decree of foreclosure and sale made and entered the 19th day of December, 1912, in the above entitled cause, and in pursuance of an order directing adjournment of sale, entered therein on the 31st day of January, A. D. 1913, the undersigned, ELMER W VOORHEIS, the Special Master appointed in and by said decree, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, at the station building of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, in the City of Springfield, County of Clark, State of Ohio, on the 17th day of April, 1913, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, all the railroads, property, premises, and franchises ordered and decreed by said foreclosure decree to be sold by the undersigned.

For a more specific description of such railroads, property, premises, franchises, and equipment so to be sold, reference is made to said foreclosure decree filed in the office of the clerk of said court at Columbus, Ohio, on the 19th day of December, 1912, and to the notice or advertisement of sale heretofore published by the undersigned Special Master Commissioner, in the following newspapers, viz.: New York Times and Springfield Sun, on the 24th and 31st days of December, A. D. 1912, and the 7th, 14th, 21st, and 28th days of January, A. D. 1913.

The above-mentioned railroads, property, premises, and franchises specifically described herein and in said decree as aforesaid will be sold as an entirety in one lot or parcel.

With said property there shall be included and sold one-half of the supplies and materials in the possession of the Receiver at the time of sale, the division thereof to be made by the Receiver subject to order of the Court, and also one-half of the locomotives, cars, and equipment generally belonging thereto and purchased during the receivership under authority of the Court, all such equipment to be taken by the purchaser subject to the terms and conditions of any equipment trust agreement, or agreement for repairs or purchase, the identity of the equipment to be determined by the Receiver in accordance with the records in his possession subject to supervisory order of the Court.

The Special Master will accept no bid of less than $1,550,000 for the railroads, property, premises, and franchises directed to be sold by said decree, and no bid will be accepted by said Special Master unless the bidder place in his hands at the time of bidding, as a part of his bid and a pledge to make the same good if accepted and the sale confirmed, the sum of $100,000 in cash, by certified check, or certificate of deposit approved by the Special Master, which sum shall be forfeited in case the bidder who is successful shall fail to make good his bid and comply with the terms of the said decree and of any orders thereafter made as to future payments or otherwise, but the same shall be applied on the purchase price in case of such compliance, or returned in case the bid is not successful or the sale shall not be confirmed by the Court. The right of the Court is reserved to reject any bid and to retake and resell the property, or any part thereof, upon failure of the purchaser to comply with any order of the Court as to the payment of the remainder of the purchase price, or any part thereof, or upon failure of the purchaser to comply with any condition of the sale or any order of the Court in that regard. Included in the upset price of $1,550,000 above mentioned is the sum of $139,940.80, with interest thereon to September 1st, 1912, in the further sum of $25,518.31, being that portion of the receivers' certificates issued and outstanding which is apportionable against the mortgaged railroads, property, premises, and franchises if established as a claim prior to the aforesaid Ohio Southern Division mortgage, and the purchaser or purchasers, in lieu of depositing in the registry of the Court said sum of $139,940.80, together with the interest amounting to $25,518.31, may as part of such purchase price give a bond in such amount as shall be approved by the court, conditioned upon the payment of said sum, with the interest accrued and to accrue thereon, if established as a claim prior to said Ohio Southern Division mortgage.

So much of the purchase price as is not in said decree directed to be paid in cash may be paid either in cash or in claims, payable under Article 4 of said decree, or in receivers' certificates, payable under Article 4 of said decree, or in bonds issued under said Ohio Southern Division mortgage, with overdue coupons thereof, at such proportion of value as the holders thereof would be entitled to receive thereon on distribution of the proceeds of the sale, in case the purchase price were wholly paid in cash.

All taxes and assessments upon the railroads, property, premises, and franchises sold, and all said receivers' certificates, and all claims payable under said article 4 of the said decree, will be allowed out of the purchase money, where the purchaser produces proof of such liens and claims, and receipts for the payment thereof, or surrenders such certificates, and the Special Master will in his discretion accept temporarily, instead of the actual delivery of the said bonds and coupons or receivers' certificates, the certificate of any trust company satisfactory to him that it holds the said bonds and coupons or receivers' certificates subject to the order of said Special Master, and will deliver them to him on demand, for cancellation or other disposition.

Any person proposing to purchase at the said sale the said railroad property, premises, franchises, and equipment is referred to the said decree in this notice specifically mentioned for a more full and complete description of the railroads, property, premises, franchises, and equipment therein directed to be sold, which it is proposed to sell in accordance with this notice, and also for the terms and conditions upon which the sale of the said railroads, property, premises, franchises, and equipment shall be made. Certified copies of the said decree will be in the possession of the said Special Master at the time and place of sale, and may be inspected by interested persons or bidders.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE SALE PURSUANT TO ADJOURNMENT.

CHANCERY SALE.—In pursuance and by virtue of the amending decrees of foreclosure and sale in favor of The New York Trust Company, complainant, made and entered by the District Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Michigan, Southern Division, and of the District Court of the United States for the Northern District of Ohio, Western Division, and of the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of Ohio, Eastern Division, which amended decrees were dated on the 9th day of December, A. D. 1912, and entered in said Eastern District of Michigan, Southern Division, December 9, 1912, in said Northern District of Ohio, Western Division, December 12, 1912, and said Southern District of Ohio, Eastern Division, December 12, 1912, in causes pending in said respective courts, and which were entitled: The New York Trust Company, complainant, vs. Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, et al., defendants; Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company, complainant, vs. Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, defendant; William J. Courtney, et al., complainants, vs. Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, defendant. (Consolidated Cause. In Equity); the causes pending in the said districts of Ohio, being ancillary to the cause pending in the District Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Michigan, Southern Division, and in pursuance of orders directing adjournment of sale, entered therein on the twentieth day of January, A. D. 1913. Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Special Master Commissioner of said courts, will sell at public auction, to the highest and best bidders, on Thursday, the seventeenth day of April, A. D. 1913, at twelve o'clock noon, standard time, of said day, at the station of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, in the city of Springfield, in the State of Ohio, being on the property described to be sold, all the properties by the said decrees directed to be sold, to wit:

All the properties by the said decrees declared to be covered by the General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage from the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railway Company to The New York Trust Company, dated May 2, 1905, and by the said decrees directed to be sold.

The properties above described covered by said General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage have heretofore been operated as one railroad system, but are so situated with respect to the liens thereon as to compel a sale in parcels. The said properties consist of two parcels, to wit: The first parcel, the Ohio Southern Division, containing 223.85 miles, comprising all and singular the line of railroad from the City of Lima, in Allen County, Ohio, through the Counties of Allen, Auglaize, Shelby, Logan, Champaign, Clarke, Madison, Fayette, Highland, Ross, Pike, Jackson, Gallia, and Lawrence, in said State, to the Village of Rockwood, in said Lawrence County, and all branches, additions and extensions thereof, including the branch or branches extending from said main line at Jeffersonville, Fayette County, northeastwardly through Fayette and Madison Counties to Sedalia, and from said Jeffersonville southwestwardly through Fayette, Greene and Clinton Counties to Kingman, all in said State of Ohio. The second parcel, that portion of the said Railway which extends from Delray (Detroit) to Lima, containing 137.6 miles, known as the Northern Division and that portion of the said Railway which extends from Bloom Junction to Ironton, including the Dean Branch, containing 36.12 miles, known as the Southern Division, there being operated in conjunction with the said Northern and Southern Divisions forty-three miles of leased lines of railroad, making an aggregate of owned and leased lines in the Northern and Southern Divisions of 216.72 miles.

The properties covered by said General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage will therefore be sold as follows: The Special Master Commissioner will first put up for sale that portion of the property known as the Ohio Southern Division described as aforesaid, subject nevertheless to the mortgage thereof from Detroit Southern Railroad Company to Central Trust Company of New York, dated June 1, 1901, to secure an authorized issue of bonds aggregating $4,500,000 of principal, bearing interest at the rate of four per centum per annum, payable semi-annually March and September 1st, and under which bonds to the aggregate principal sum of $4,495,000, have been issued and are outstanding. Said principal outstanding sum has been matured. There is now due upon said bonds $4,495,000 of principal, besides interest thereon at the rate of four per centum per annum from September 1, 1910. Suit for the foreclosure of the said mortgage has been brought and decree of foreclosure and sale was entered therein by the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of Ohio, Eastern Division, December 19, 1912. The Special Master Commissioner will then and whether or not any bid has been received or accepted upon the offering of the Ohio Southern Division immediately put up for sale the parts of the property known as the Northern Division and the Southern Division, generally described as aforesaid, and he will then and whether or not any bid has been received or accepted upon the offering either of the Ohio Southern Division or the Northern and Southern Division, immediately put up for sale the entire property as a unit.

The offerings of the separate divisions will in each case be subject to the sale of the property as a whole and to the right of the Court to accept the bid or bids which it shall deem the highest and best in the interests of the parties. With each divisional parcel sold there will be included and sold as part thereof one-half in value and as nearly as may be one-half in kind and description of the supplies and materials in the possession of the receiver at the time of sale, division thereof to be made by the receiver subject to the supervisory order of the Court; and with each divisional parcel sold there will be included and sold as part thereof the cars and equipment generally belonging thereto, to-wit: in the case of the Ohio Southern Division the cars and equipment included within the Ohio Southern Division Mortgage to Central Trust Company of New York, hereinbefore described, and in the case of the Northern and Southern Divisions the cars and equipment included in the General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage to The New York Trust Company, hereinbefore described, and with each divisional parcel there will also be included and sold as part thereof, one-half of the locomotives, cars and equipment purchased under authority of the Court during the receivership.

The identity of the equipment will in all cases be determined by the Receiver, in accordance with the records in his possession, and subject to the supervisory order of the Court. In case the whole property shall be sold as a unit all of the said supplies and equipment will be included and sold as part thereof. In any event, the purchaser of any equipment which at the time of the sale shall be held under Equipment Trust Agreement or Agreement for Repairs or for Purchase shall take the same subject to all the terms and conditions of such Trust Agreement or Agreement for Repairs or Purchase, including all provisions for deferred payments; and such purchaser shall by such purchase be held to have assumed and to have agreed to carry out and fulfill the terms and conditions of the said agreements affecting the equipment so purchased by him.

The equipment, or parts thereof, is subject to the following equipment trust agreements or agreements for repairs or purchase:

Agreement with American Locomotive Company, dated September 15, 1909, for purchase of eight locomotives, numbered 100 to 107 inclusive, requiring periodical payments to September 15, 1913; amount due after December 1, 1912, $27,911.25.

Agreement with American Locomotive Company, dated December 1, 1910, for purchase of twelve locomotives, numbered 108 to 119 inclusive, requiring periodical payments to January 14, 1916; amount due after December 1, 1912, $77,400.00.

Agreement accepted November 1, 1911, with Crawford Locomotive & Car Company, for repairing two hundred gondola coal cars and two hundred box cars, requiring semi-monthly payments on basis "per diem" rates until full payment; amount due after December 1, 1912, $56,655.15.

Agreement accepted November 9, 1912, with Central Locomotive & Car Works for repair of one thousand gondola coal cars and one thousand box cars, payments to be made semi-monthly on basis of forty-five cents per day per car until full payment; amount due after December, 1, 1912, approximately $500,000.

Agreement accepted November 19, 1912, with Norfolk & Western Railway Company, for repairs to five locomotives, payment to be made in receiver's certificates; amount due after December 1, 1912, approximately $15,000.

Agreement accepted November 9, 1912, with Central Locomotive & Car Works for purchase of five hundred second hand coal cars, payments to be made semi-monthly on basis of forty-five cents per day per car until full payment; amount due after December 1, 1912, $157,395.60.

In the event that the properties shall not be sold as a unit but in separate parcels, as in this notice hereinafter provided, any receiver's obligations and indebtedness incurred after September 1, 1912, and any indebtedness which, pursuant to the provisions of said amended decrees of the further order of the said Court shall have priority over the said Ohio Southern Division Mortgage and said General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage, or either of them, shall be divided between and charged upon the respective divisions of the said railroad in accordance with the principles established by the report of the Master filed in the said Court in the Eastern District of Michigan, Southern Division, December 9, 1912, subject to the further supervisory order of the said Court.

The said Master Commissioner will accept no bid of less than $1,550,000 for the Ohio Southern Division upon a sale thereof as a separate parcel; he will accept no bid of less than $1,650,000 upon the Northern and Southern Divisions upon a sale thereof as a separate parcel, and he will accept no bid of less than $3,200,000 for the whole property upon a sale thereof as a unit. The said minimum sums were fixed by the Court in the said decrees in order to prevent a sacrifice and to protect the interests of all concerned as the least sums for which the said properties respectively should be sold. The Master will not accept any bid unless the bidder shall place in his hands at the time of the bid as a part of his bid and a pledge to make the same good if accepted and the sale confirmed, the following sums in cash, to wit: Upon a bid for the Ohio Southern Division the sum of $100,000; upon a bid for the Northern and Southern Divisions the sum of $100,000, and upon a bid for the whole property as a unit, the sum of $200,000. Said sums may be placed with the Special Master Commissioner by certified cheque or certificate of deposit approved by the Master. The sum deposited shall be forfeited in case the bidder if successful shall fail to make good his bid and comply with the terms of the said decrees and any orders hereafter made as to future payments or otherwise; but each of said deposited sums may be applied on the purchase price of the parcel of the whole property in respect of which the deposit is made in case of such compliance by the purchaser, or returned in case the bid in question is not successful or the sale in question shall not be confirmed by the Court. The deposits in respect of either or both the parcels may at the option of the bidder be deposited on account of the required deposit for a bid on the entire property.

The Court reserves the right to reject any bid, and to resell the property in respect of which the bid shall have been made or any part thereof upon failure of the purchaser to comply with any order of the Court as to payment of the remainder of the purchase price or any part thereof.

There shall be paid in cash of the price at which the said property shall be sold, in addition to the amounts paid at the time of the sale, such further portions of the purchase money as the Court shall direct. The remainder of the purchase money may be paid as follows:

Upon a sale of the Ohio Southern Division wholly or partly in cash and in claims payable under Article 3 of said amended decree, or in receiver's certificates payable under Article 3 of said amended decree, to the extent and proportion that such claims and receiver's certificates are by said amended decree charged upon the Ohio Southern Division.

Upon a sale of the Northern and Southern Divisions wholly or partly in cash and in claims payable under Article 3 of said amended decree, or in receiver's certificates, payable under Article 3 of said amended decree, to the extent and proportion that such claims and receiver's certificates are by said amended decree charged upon the Northern and Southern Divisions.

Upon the sale of the whole property as a unit in cash or in claims payable under Article 3 of said amended decree, or in receiver's certificates payable under Article 3 of said amended decree; and also upon a sale either of the Northern and Southern Divisions or of the whole property as a unit in said General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage Bonds, with overdue coupons thereon, or in said Consolidated Bonds, with overdue coupons thereon, at such proportion of value as the holders thereof would be entitled to receive thereon on distribution of the proceeds of such sale in case such price were wholly paid in cash.

All taxes and assessments upon the property sold and all said receiver's certificates and all claims payable under Article 3 of said amended decree, will be allowed out of the pro-purchase money where the purchaser produces proofs of such liens and claims and receipts for the payment thereof or surrenders such certificates. The Special Master will in his discretion accept temporarily, instead of the actual delivery of the said bonds and coupons or receiver's certificates, the certificate of any trust company satisfactory to him that it holds the said bonds and coupons or receiver's certificates subject to the order of said Master, and will deliver them to him on demand for cancellation or other disposition.

Included in the upset price of the Ohio Southern Division above mentioned is the sum of $139,940.80, with interest accrued thereon, and in the upset price of the Northern and Southern Divisions is the sum of $105,059.20, with interest accrued thereon, being items set forth in Subdivision 2 in Schedule A of a certain Master's Report filed in said cause December 9, 1912, and the purchaser or purchasers in lieu of depositing in the Registry of the Court said respective sums with interest may, as part of the purchase price, give a bond therefor as provided in said decree.

The said Master, in pursuance and by virtue of the amended decrees of foreclosure in favor of the Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company, Complainant, made and entered by the said District Court of the United States in this advertisement of sale first mentioned, dated and entered on the same days and in the same places as the said amended decrees in favor of The New York Trust Company, Complainant, and in pursuance of the orders hereinbefore recited directing adjournment of sale and to due adjournment of such sale, will also at the same time and place offer for sale and in separate parcels all other lines of railway and additional mileage of the defendant Railway Company and other property of any kind and nature which has been constructed or acquired in whole or in part by means of said Consolidated Bonds or with the proceeds of the sale or disposition thereof; subject only to purchase money liens thereon as in said Consolidated Mortgage set forth, not including in said property, however, any property which is subject to the prior lien thereon of the said General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage (all of which said property subject to said General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage, is to be sold under and pursuant to the preceding provisions of this notice); one hundred shares of the stock of the Toledo Southern Railway Company and ten hundred and fourteen shares of preferred stock of the Ann Arbor Railroad Company, being certain property of the said Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company included in the mortgage or deed of trust from that company to Knickerbocker Trust Company, complainant herein, dated May 2, 1905, to secure certain bonds designated as Consolidated Bonds. The Master will accept no bid for the said shares of stock from any bidder who shall not place in his hands or deposit with him at the time of making the bid, as a pledge that the bidder will make good his bid if accepted by the Court, the sum of twenty-five dollars per share in cash, certified cheque or certificate of deposit approved by the Master, which sum shall be forfeited in case the bidder if successful shall fail to make good his bid and comply with the terms of the said decrees, and any orders thereafter made as to future payments or otherwise, but which said sum shall be applied on the purchase price of the said stock in case of such compliance, or will be returned in case the said bid is not successful or the sale shall not be confirmed by the Court. The right of the Court is reserved to reject any bid and to resell the said stock, or any part thereof, upon the failure of the purchaser to comply with any order of the Court as to the payment of the purchase price or any part thereof, in cash or otherwise, as may be directed. If either the said properties, not, as aforesaid, subject to the General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage, or the said shares of stock, shall be purchased by or on behalf of the holders of the said Consolidated Bonds, the remainder of the purchase price over and above the amount in cash required to be paid at the time of sale, may be paid either in cash or in Receiver's certificates, or in claims payable under Article 3 of the aforesaid amended decrees of the New York Trust Company, or in said Consolidated Bonds and overdue coupons thereon, at such proportionate value as the holders thereof will be entitled to receive thereon respectively on distribution of the proceeds of such sale, in case such purchase price were wholly paid in cash.

Any person proposing to purchase at the said sale either the said railway properties or the said stock is referred to the said amended decrees in this notice specially mentioned, and to the notice or advertisement of sale heretofore published by the undersigned Special Master Commissioner, upon the 25th day of December, A. D. 1912, and the 1st, 8th, 15th, 22nd, and 29th days of January, A. D. 1913, in the following newspapers, viz.: Detroit Free Press, Toledo Blade, and Springfield Sun, and upon the 24th and 31st days of December, A. D. 1912, and the 7th, 14th, 21st, and 28th days of January, A. D. 1913, in The New York Times, for a more full and complete description of the property, rights, and franchises therein directed to be sold, which it is proposed to sell in accordance with the foregoing notice, and also for the terms and conditions upon which the sale of the said properties, rights, and franchises shall be made. The said three amended decrees in favor of The New York Trust Company, complainant, are exact duplicates of each other, and the said three amended decrees in favor of Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company, complainant, are exact duplicates of each other, and all of the said amended decrees may be found filed and recorded in the offices of the Clerks of the United States District Courts, at Detroit, Michigan; Toledo, Ohio, and Columbus, Ohio, respectively, and which are subject to the inspection of the public generally. Certified copies of the said amended decrees will be in the possession of the said Special Master at the time and place of sale, and may be inspected by interested persons or bidders.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission has approved the following:

Communication from the Labor Clerk, transmitting appeals of Messrs. Greenberg, Fluor, Grier, Groce, and Leahy that their names be removed from the disqualified list; also communications from the Commissioner of Street Cleaning in which he says that he cannot consent to these men re-entering the service in his department. Mr. Coffey recommends that the requests be denied.

Letter from the Labor Clerk, transmitting request of Michael T. Sheridan that his name be removed from the disqualified list upon which it was placed when he was dismissed from the Department of Street Cleaning. It is recommended that the request be denied, in view of the statement of Commissioner Edwards that he cannot consent to the re-employment of this man in his department.

Report of Mr. Woodward, relative to discrepancies in the dates of birth appearing in the papers of Joseph J. Doyle, appointed a first grade clerk, (after non-competitive examination,) in the Bureau of Buildings, Manhattan. Eligibility not affected.

Supplemental report of Mr. Fuld, of his investigation of the applications filed recently for promotion from the position of Assistant Engineer, Grade D, in the office of the President of Queens.

Request of the President of Queens for authority to employ James E. Connair as stenographer and typewriter, at the rate of $750 per annum.

Letter from the Department of Health, saying that the Department will require fifty-five nurses for temporary service in the infants' milk station, and that the list contains only about twenty-five names. It is requested that another examination be held as soon as possible.

Notifications from the Board of Estimate, of the appointment of the following-named persons, in connection with the investigation of the Departments of Health, Charities, and Hospitals: Dorothy Aidman, investigator; Mrs. F. K. Marx, inspector; Mrs. Grace Lucas, clerk; Dr. John H. Carroll, examining physician; John T. Grayson, draftsman.

Communication from the Police Commissioner, saying that he has granted full pay to Patrolman Edward J. Murray, 172d Precinct, for the period during which he was under suspension, Jan. 30, to March 15.

Supplemental report of Mr. Fuld, of his investigation of the statements made on their experience papers by the ten candidates whose names stand at the head of the list of structural steel draughtsman. Recommends that the report be filed.

United States.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an examination for marine oiler at $720 a year in the Quartermaster's service, New York City, on April 22.

No educational test will be given, and applicants will not be assembled for a mental examination. The examination will consist of the subjects mentioned below, weighted as indicated: Physical ability, 40; training, experience, and fitness, 60.

All statements relating to training, experience, and fitness are subject to verification. Applicants should name in their applications, as references, employers or other persons who are competent to furnish information relative to the applicant's fitness for the position sought, and these persons will be communicated with. Unless answers are received from these persons within two weeks from the date of sending of the communications the applications may be canceled.

The following physical defects will debar applicants from any examination: Insanity, tuberculosis, paralysis, epilepsy, blindness, loss of both arms or both legs, loss of arm and leg, badly crippled or deformed hands, arms, feet, or legs; uncompensated valvular disease of the heart, locomotor ataxia, cancer, Bright's disease, and diabetes. In addition, persons who have lost an arm or a leg, or who are ruptured, are ineligible for appointment to positions in the Custodian Service. Other physical defects will render applicants ineligible for any particular service or position when, in the judgment of the commission, such defects would disqualify them for the duties required.

An applicant who is unable to write may have his application filled in by another and sign it by mark, which must be properly witnessed, but only those eligibles will be certified for appointment in the Custodian Service whose applications are in their own handwriting.

The age limits for the different branches of the service are as follows: Quartermaster's Department at Large, males, 20 to 50 years; females, 18 to 50 years; Engineer Department at Large, 18 years or over; Custodian Service, 18 to 55 years; other branches, 20 years or over. In the Custodian Service the age limits are waived in the case of honorably discharged soldiers and sailors of the civil war, and in all branches of the service the age limits are waived in the case of persons honorably discharged from the military or naval service of the United States by reason of disability resulting from wounds received or sickness incurred in the line of duty. This examination is open to all citizens of the United States who comply with the requirements. For application and examination blank, Form 1800, address the Secretary of the Board of Civil Service Examiners, H. C. Coles, Custom House, New York.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The southwest disturbance has moved very slowly eastward in the last twenty-four hours because of the existence of abnormally high pressure to the east and north of its centre, which is over Texas. The influence of this storm is widespread, causing rains or snows, in some cases heavy in the West Gulf States, the Mississippi and lower Ohio Valleys, the Plains States, and the Rocky Mountain region.

In all other parts of the country the weather remained fair.

Temperatures are abnormally high in the Gulf States, and are considerably below normal in the Northern and Middle States east of the Rocky Mountains.

The southwest disturbance will move slowly northeastward, attended by general rains which will probably overspread the Middle Atlantic States by Wednesday night and New England during Thursday. West of the Rockies the weather will be generally fair Wednesday and Thursday.

Temperature will be considerably lower Wednesday in the South Plains States and Thursday in the Gulf States, while changes elsewhere will not be decided.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate north; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate north, shifting to east; South Atlantic Coast, moderate east.

Steamships departing Wednesday for European countries will have moderate north and northwest winds and generally fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Wednesday, probably followed by unsettled at night. Thursday, rain; moderate north shifting to east winds.

Southern New England—Fair Wednesday, Thursday, increasing cloudiness, probably followed by rain, moderate north winds.

Western New York—Increasing cloudiness Wednesday, probably followed by rain at night. Thursday, rain; brisk and high east winds.

Northern New England—Fair Wednesday. Thursday, increasing cloudiness, moderate north winds.

3 A. M.	33	35	4 P. M.	36	49
6 A. M.	31	33	6 P. M.	36	48
9 A. M.	32	38	9 P. M.	34	42
12 M.	35	44	11 P. M.	33	40

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 40; for the corresponding date last year it was 34; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 45.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 35; at 8 P. M. it was 44. Maximum temperature, 49 degrees, at 2:30 P. M.; minimum, 32 degrees, at 7 A. M. Humidity, 58 per cent., at 8 A. M.; 30 per cent at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.28 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.20 inches.

EDUCATION NOTES.

The public school year will end on June 30. It will be on a Monday. The pupils, however, will be through with all their work on Friday, June 27. Then will intervene two holidays, Saturday, June 28, and Sunday, June 29. There seems no good reason for making the children return to school on June 30. In view of this fact the Committee on Elementary Schools has adopted a resolution recommending to the Board of Education that the schools be closed for the year on June 27.

The following have been placed on the eligible list of teachers of shopwork in elementary schools: Benjamin Baumritter, 14 East 103d Street, 84.58; John V. Stankevitch, 447 Lincoln Place, Brooklyn, 83.165; Moses Birn, 82 Avenue C, 79.415; Jacob Yules, 15 Sherlock Place, Brooklyn, 78.5; Herbert E. Roszel, 114 Twelfth Street, College Point, L. I., 75.83; Edward M. McCord, 23 Manhattan Avenue, 75.635.

The following have been placed on the eligible list of teachers of cooking in elementary schools: Gertrude Elizabeth Russ, 335 Colfax Avenue, Scranton, Penn., 88.5; Helen McClure, 1,987 Morris Avenue, the Bronx, 85.5; Martha Ellen Thomas, 157 Glenwood Avenue, Yonkers, N. Y., 84.25; Juanita Brown, White Plains, N. Y., 83.5; Anita Thimig, 164 Albany Avenue, Brooklyn, 81; Julia Agnes Dunne, 402 East Eighty-third Street, 79.5; Marion B. Wagstaff, 19 Holly Street, Cranford, N. J., 79.5; Amy Grace Lee, 456 West 141st Street, 79.25; Helen C. Kellogg, 376 Clinton Street, Brooklyn, 78.5; Henrietta Gregory, 57 Washington Street, Long Branch, N. J., 78; Amie Frances Burke, 9,208 Hough Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio, 76.5; Constance C. Hart, 601 West 127th Street, 75.5; Regina Marie Kavanagh, 677 Hancock Street, Brooklyn, 74.25; E. Naomi Rinn, 126 Wright Street, Stapleton, S. I., 73.5.

SUMMONSES.

SUPREME COURT, NEW YORK COUNTY.—THE J. CHR. G. HUPFEL BREWING COMPANY, Plaintiff, against JOHN L. VALLELY, Defendant.—Summons.—County Clerk's Index No. 4,945.—1913.

To the above-named defendant:

You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action, and to serve a copy of your answer on the plaintiff's attorneys within twenty days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service; and in case of your failure to appear, or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated February 18, 1913.

To the defendant, John L. Vallely:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication, pursuant to an order of the Honorable Vernon M. Davis, a Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, dated the 17th day of March, 1913, and filed with the complaint in the office of the Clerk of the County of New York, in the County and State of New York, on the 17th day of March, 1913, the original complaint having been filed in said office on February 18th, 1913.

Dated New York, March 17, 1913.

CHRIS. G. HUPFEL, Attorney for Plaintiff, No. 59 Wall Street, Boro. of Manhattan, N. Y. City.

F. E. GILBERT'S WILL.

Former Consular Agent at Biarritz Leaves Most of Estate to Wife.

The will of Frederick E. Gibert, formerly United States Consular Agent at Biarritz, France, was filed yesterday for probate in the Surrogates' Court. Mr. Gibert died on Feb. 3, leaving an estate, the New York part of which is estimated at more than $100,000 realty and more than $2,000 personalty.

Mr. Gibert provides for a $3,000 annuity to Agnes Dussés of Biarritz. The rest of his estate is left in trust for the benefit of his wife, Alice E. Gibert of New York, now temporarily living in Biarritz, and Frederick E. Gibert, a son, who lives in Paris. The wife is to receive the net income up to $10,000 a year, after which the son receives $2,000 a year, and in case there is any other income, it goes to the wife. The son is residuary legatee.

A codicil shows that Mr. Gibert had also made a French will and that his house, the Villa Zarbias, Avenue des Pyreneés Biarritz, goes to the wife, as well as an automobile and furniture and personal effects. In leaving this to his wife he says: "I do not suppose that my son will take advantage of the French law and claim what the law gives him unless his mother is willing that it should be so." The Villa Zarbias, according to the will, cost about 250,000 francs and is mortgaged for 150,000 francs.

Referees' Sales

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action and bearing date the 10th day of March, 1913, I, the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesrooms, No. 3208-3210 Third Avenue, in the Borough of the Bronx, City of New York, on the 16th day of April, 1913, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by Joseph P. Day, Auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

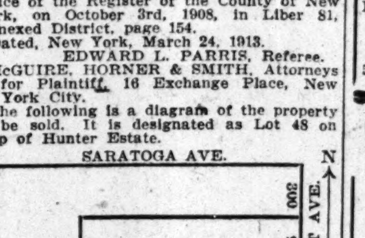
All that certain lot, piece or parcel of land with the building thereon situate, lying and being in the Borough of the Bronx, in the City, County, and State of New York, which on a certain map entitled "Map of 327 lots, known as the Hunter Estate, property of the Hudson P. Rose Company, situated in the Borough of the Bronx, New York City," surveyed by Peter Elbert Nostrand, C. E. and City Surveyor, dated New York, June 6th, 1906, which map was filed as No. 1130 in the office of the Register of the County of New York, on the 14th day of June, A. D. 1906, is known and designated as and by the lot number forty-eight (48.) Said premises being the same which were conveyed to James Lista by deed from Hudson P. Rose Company, dated September 14th, 1908, and recorded in the office of the Register of the County of New York, on October 3rd, 1908, in Liber 81, Annexed District, page 154.

Dated, New York, March 24, 1913.

EDWARD L. PARRIS, Referee.

McGUIRE, HORNER & SMITH, Attorneys for Plaintiff, 16 Exchange Place, New York City.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold. It is designated as Lot 48 on map of Hunter Estate.



The approximate amount of the lien or charge, to satisfy which the above-described property is to be sold, is $3,245.74 with interest thereon from the 4th day of March, 1913, together with the costs and allowance amounting to $218.09 with interest from March 10th, 1913, together with the expenses of the sale. The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments and water rates, or other liens, which are to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money, or paid by the Referee, is $324.12 and interest.

Dated New York, March 24th, 1913.

EDWARD L. PARRIS, Referee.

Spring Cruises
Jamaica—Panama Canal
Our low summer rates to Jamaica and the Panama Canal are in effect May 1 to Oct. 1.
They offer a splendid opportunity of seeing the wonders of the great enterprise at Panama at little expense.
Summer climate there is delightfully cool and even—from 74° to 84°. Our big, cool steamers are the only ones sailing from any American port designed and constructed specially for service in the tropics.
The staterooms are all outside, unusually large, bright and comfortable, and many have connecting private baths.
Powerful blowers on the promenade decks force the cool, invigorating air from the sea into all staterooms, social halls and dining rooms.

PUPILS MOURN McGOWAN.

Flag Intended as Birthday Gift Is Put on Bier.

There was an air of deep sorrow in the Washington Irving High School yesterday. Teachers and pupils realized that they had lost their long-time friend, Patrick F. McGowan, whom they called the father of the school.

A beautiful "Gowan" flag, a flag with stripes of green and white, and the "gowans" or daisies in the corner, a companion to one with which they had honored Mr. McGowan in their school exercises, and which, according to his desire, was made for him, to be presented on his birthday, May 27, now lies beside the flowers sent from the school on his bier. A large tablet of daisies, bearing the name of the school, "Washington Irving," is one of the pieces sent by the teachers of the school, and a wreath with "W. I." on it has been sent by the Alumnae Association.

The school will not be closed to-day at the time of the funeral. It would be the last thing that Mr. McGowan would wish, the teachers say. He believed in work. But in each of the 210 rooms there will be held at 10 o'clock, the hour of his funeral, a short memorial service. A girl in each room will rise and say:

"There are now being held the funeral services of the founder of this school, Patrick F. McGowan."

In a few words she will tell of Mr. McGowan's association with the school, his constant interest in it and work for it. One of his favorite songs will be sung.

It has been suggested that a chorus of the Washington Irving girls sing at the funeral services, but that could not be arranged.

Suggestions for some permanent memorial to Mr. McGowan in the new school building for which he worked so earnestly have been made. One of them is for chimes in the organ. Other suggestions were for mural decorations in the music room or a stained-glass window in the auditorium. The Alumnae Association has proposed that Mr. McGowan's birthday be celebrated by the school each year, and the first selebration will be held this coming month, the 27th of May. The subject will be the service and character of Mr. McGowan. Dr. E. L. Stevens, Superintendent of High Schools, will preside.

At the McGowan furneral services at St. Ann's Roman Catholic Church, at 112 East Twelfth Street, this morning, the Washington Irving School will be represented by Principal William McAndrew and by the heads of the seven different divisions of the school—Miss Idalette Carpenter, Miss Helen L. Cohen, Miss M. V. Linden, Miss Eleanor Nightengale, Miss Rachel Bergamidi, Miss Ida G. Galloway, and Miss Mary Hooker Johnson.

LEGAL NOTICES.

STATE OF MAINE,
CUMBERLAND, SS.
SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT—In Equity.
The Wireless Liquidating Company vs.
United Wireless Telegraph Company.
Notice to Stockholders and Creditors:

To all persons claiming to be STOCKHOLDERS OF THE UNITED WIRELESS TELEGRAPH COMPANY, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Maine:

The undersigned, having been appointed by the Supreme Judicial Court of the State of Maine, Special Master in the above cause, to hear, determine, and report to said court who are the bona fide stockholders of said corporation and the amount and nature of their respective holdings, hereby gives public notice that all persons claiming to be stockholders of said United Wireless Telegraph Company, are hereby required to file with the undersigned as Special Master on or before August 1, A. D. 1913, being the day limited by the decree of said Supreme Judicial Court made and filed on the 18th day of March, 1913, all certificates of stock in said company owned or held by them in order that the validity of said stock may be lawfully determined and that the dividends thereon may be declared and paid out of the assets of said company available for the purpose, which are now or may hereafter come into the custody and control of the Receiver of said United Wireless Telegraph Company appointed by said court and that in default thereof they will be forever barred from participation in the distribution of such assets of said corporation.

Each person claiming to be a stockholder in order to have his claim properly considered and determined must before filing his certificates of stock as above directed, execute and annex thereto an affidavit in support thereof, wherein is set forth the number and kind of shares held—the number of certificate or certificates, with date thereof—of whom and when purchased and consideration paid for same and the amount of the indebtedness, if any, owing by said holder to said United Wireless Telegraph Company.

AND

To all persons claiming to be CREDITORS OF THE UNITED WIRELESS TELEGRAPH COMPANY, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Maine:

The undersigned, also having been appointed by the Supreme Judicial Court of the State of Maine, Special Master in the above cause, to hear, determine and report to said court the names of all persons or corporations who are proved to be lawful creditors of said corporation and the nature and amount of their valid claims, hereby gives public notice that all persons or corporations claiming to be creditors of said United Wireless Telegraph Company, are hereby required to file with the undersigned as such Special Master on or before September 1st, A. D. 1913, being the day limited by the decree of said Supreme Judicial Court made and filed on the 18th day of March, 1913, any claim or claims made against said United Wireless Telegraph Company owned or held by them in order that the validity, nature and amount thereof may be lawfully determined and that dividends thereon may be declared and paid out of the assets of said company available for the purpose which are now or may hereafter come into the custody and control of the Receiver of said United Wireless Telegraph Company appointed by said court and that in default thereof they will be forever barred from participation in the distribution of such assets of said corporation.

In order to have his claim properly considered and determined a claimant must support his claim by an affidavit filed therewith, wherein is set forth a statement of his claim, signed by him, the consideration therefor, and whether any, and if so what securities are held therefor, and whether any, and if so, what payments have been made thereon, and that the amount claimed is justly owing from said United Wireless Telegraph Company, and if said claim is founded upon an instrument in writing, the same shall be filed with said claim—if such instrument is lost or destroyed, the statement of such fact and the circumstances of such loss or destruction shall be filed with said claim. And if the Master shall so require, additional proof shall be furnished by said claimant in support of his claim.

I hereby appoint April 30th, May 14th-28th, June 18th-25th, July 9th-23d, 1913, from ten o'clock in the forenoon until four o'clock in the afternoon of each of said days, and Room 15, No. 95 Exchange Street, Portland, Maine, as the time and place for hearings on any claims by stockholders that may be questioned by the Master or contested by parties in interest entitled to contest same.

AND

I hereby appoint May 1st-15th-29th, June 19th and 26th, July 10th and 24th, August 7th and 21st, 1913, at the same hours and at the same place, for hearing on any claims by creditors that may be questioned by the Master or contested by parties in interest entitled to contest same.

JAMES E. HEWEY,
Special Master United Wireless Telegraph Co.
Appointed by the Supreme Judicial Court,
Cumberland County, Maine.
Portland, Maine, March 26th, A. D. 1913.

Bankruptcy Notices

AT A STATED TERM OF THE UNITED States District Court for the Southern District of New York, held at the Post Office Building, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 8th day of April, 1913. Present, Hon. Julius M. Mayer, District Judge.—In the matter of JOSEPH ZIMMERMAN, alleged bankrupt.

It appearing to my satisfaction by the petition of Isidor E. Schlesinger verified the 8th day of April, 1913, that on the 10th day of March, 1913, a petition was filed herein praying that the above-named Joseph Zimmerman be adjudicated a bankrupt, and that on the said day a subpoena directed to the said Joseph Zimmerman was issued to the Marshal of the Southern District of New York, and that the said Marshall was unable to serve the said Joseph Zimmerman with said subpoena, and it further appearing that the said Joseph Zimmerman, the alleged bankrupt, is not within the jurisdiction of this Court, so that with due and diligent effort personal service could be effected, it is now on motion of Isidor E. Schlesinger, attorney for petitioning creditors and receiver,

ORDERED, that on or before the 23d day of April, 1913, the said Joseph Zimmerman appear, answer or demur to the petition, praying that he be adjudicated a bankrupt, and filed in the office of the Clerk of this Court on the 10th day of March, 1913, and in case of his failure to appear, answer or demur to the said petition, an order be entered here in adjudicating the said Joseph Zimmerman a bankrupt, and it is FURTHER ORDERED, that this order be published in The New York Times once a week for two consecutive weeks, said publication to commence not later than the 9th day of April, 1913, and that a copy of this order be mailed to the said Joseph Zimmerman at his last known residence on or before the first day of the publication of this order.

J. M. MAYER,
United States District Judge.

Bounded on the north by land late of Isaac M. Brokaw and Manning Randolph; east by land late of Manning Randolph and George Drake Smith; south by the aforesaid road, and west by land late of William Nelson and Isaac M. Brokaw."

PARCEL NO. 2.

"All those certain lots, pieces, or parcels of land at Breslau, in the Town of Babylon, Suffolk County, and State of New York, and known and distinguished on a certain Map entitled Map of property at Welwood, Long Island, on South Side Railroad, made by J. Sammis, Surveyor, in 1869, and on file in Clerk's office of Suffolk County, as and by the Numbers 7, 8, and 9 on Block 15, Sheet 3, and by the Numbers 7, 8, 9, 10, and 11 on Block 1, Sheet 2, and by the Numbers 46 and 47 on Block 14 on said Map, Sheet 3, each of said lots being 25 feet front and rear and 100 feet deep, with the appurtenances."

PARCEL NO. 3.

"All that certain piece or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying, and being in the City of Perth Amboy, in the County of Middlesex, and State of New Jersey.

"Beginning at a point on the westerly side of Mechanic Street, distant three hundred fifty feet southerly from the southwest corner of Mechanic Street and Buckingham Avenue; thence running southerly along the westerly side of Mechanic Street one hundred fifteen feet; thence westerly at right angles to Mechanic Street one hundred fifty-two and a half feet to lands of Mrs. Hartung; thence northerly along the line of lands of Mrs. Hartung one hundred fifteen feet; thence parallel with the second course one hundred fifty-three and 65-100 feet to the place of beginning."

PARCEL NO. 4.

"All those certain lots, tracts, or parcels of land and premises, hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying, and being in the City of Perth Amboy, in the County of Middlesex, and State of New Jersey.

"Beginning at the corner formed by the intersection of the westerly side of Catherine Street with the northerly side of Easton Street and from thence running northerly along the westerly line of Catherine Street one hundred and twenty-five feet to a point and from thence running westerly on a line at right angles to said Catherine Street one hundred feet to a point and thence running southerly on a line parallel with Catherine Street one hundred and twenty-five feet to a point and from thence running easterly along the northerly line of Easton Street one hundred feet to the point or place of beginning. Being known as Lots 20, 21, 22, 23, and 24 on Map of Patterson Grove Lands of the Estate of E. M. Patterson, deceased, Perth Amboy."

PARCEL NO. 5.

"All those certain lots, tracts, or parcels of land and premises, hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying, and being in the City of Perth Amboy, in the County of Middlesex, and State of New Jersey, being lots numbered 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9 on Block P as shown and designated on a certain map on file in the Clerk's office of said Middlesex County, entitled 'Map of lands belonging to Jane E. Arnold and others situated in Perth Amboy, N. J., November 1, 1875, J. Opperman, Surveyor,' and numbered 148, which said lots taken together form one tract and as such are bounded and described as follows:

"Beginning at a point on the westerly side of Railroad Avenue, distant thirty and eighty-three one hundreds (30 83-100) feet northerly from the northwesterly corner of Hall and Railroad Avenues, and in the southerly line of lot number two, (2;) thence running westerly at right angles to said Railroad Avenue one hundred (100) feet; thence northerly parallel with said Railroad Avenue two hundred (200) feet; thence easterly at right angles to the said last mentioned line one hundred (100) feet to said Railroad Avenue, thence southerly along the westerly line of said Railroad Avenue two hundred (200) feet to the point or place of beginning."

PARCEL NO. 6.

"All that lot, tract, or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying, and being in the City of Perth Amboy, in the County of Middlesex, and State of New Jersey, known and designated as lot number ten (10) on Block 'P' on a map of lands of Jane E. Arnold and others, situated in Perth Amboy, N. J., Nov. 1st, 1875, J. Opperman, Surveyor.

"Beginning at a point in the westerly line of Railroad Avenue, distant two hundred thirty and eighty-three one hundredths (230 83-100) feet northerly from the northerly line of Hall Avenue; thence running westerly at right angles to Railroad Avenue one hundred (100) feet to the line of lands of the Perth Amboy and Woodbridge Railroad; thence northerly and parallel with Railroad Avenue twenty-five (25) feet; thence easterly at right angles to Railroad Avenue one hundred (100) feet; thence southerly along Railroad Avenue twenty-five (25) feet to the place of beginning, otherwise known as 633 to 653 State Street, inclusive."

PARCEL NO. 7.

"All that tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying, and being in the City of Perth Amboy, in the County of Middlesex, and State of New Jersey.

"Beginning at a point where the northerly line of Keene Street intersects with the easterly line of Chester Street; running thence (1) northerly along the easterly line of Chester Street one hundred and seventy-one and fifty-one-hundredths (171.50) feet to the southerly line of Grove Street; thence (2) easterly along the southerly line of Grove Street fifty (50) feet; thence (3) southerly in a line parallel with the easterly line of Chester Street one hundred seventy-one and fifty one-hundredths (171.50) feet to the northerly line of Keene Street fifty (50) feet to the point and place of beginning."

That none of the aforesaid described parcels are subject to any mortgage, except Parcel No. 1, which is subject to a mortgage of eight thousand seven hundred and fifty dollars, ($8,750.) That a meeting of creditors has been called heretofore to authorize the sale of the properties above described and at a meeting called pursuant to said application the sale of said properties by the trustee herein was authorized. That the trustee has since received an offer of fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000) for the purchase of Parcels Nos. 5 and 6 described above, and an offer of nine hundred dollars ($900) for Parcel No. 7; also an offer of thirty thousand dollars ($30,000) for all of the property herein described; and the trustee asks that a meeting of creditors be called to consider the aforesaid bids, and also such other bids as may be received or made for the aforesaid property, as will more fully appear by said petition on file herein.

You are hereby notified that a meeting of creditors will be held before me at Room 66 in United States Court House and Post Office Building, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 19th day of April, 1913, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to consider the bids received and to be received for the sale of the aforesaid property, and to advise the trustee in relation thereto and for such other and further business as may properly come before the said meeting.

Dated New York, March 24, 1913.
SEAMAN MILLER,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

NO. 17,872—IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF the United States for the Southern District of New York.—In the matter of CHARLES ROSENBAUM, Alleged Bankrupt.

To the creditors of the above-named alleged bankrupt:

Please take notice that on the 7th day of April, 1913, the above proceeding was duly referred to me as Referee for the purpose of calling a meeting of creditors to consider the offer of composition of twenty per cent. cash made by the alleged bankrupt herein, and to do each and every other thing necessary in and about carrying out said offer of composition.

Please take further notice that a special meeting of creditors will be held at the office of William Allen, No. 67 Wall Street, New York City, on the 22nd day of April, 1913, at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon, at which time the said creditors may attend, act upon the offer of composition herein of twenty per cent. cash, prove their claims, examine the alleged bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting. WILLIAM ALLEN, Referee in Bankruptcy, 67 Wall Street, New York City.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Investor Buys Wellsmore Apartment for About $1,300,000—Residential Plot in 96th Street Purchased by Edward Shearson—Big West Side Deals—Bronx and Long Island Market.

A deal involving one of the best of newer west side apartment houses, and which represents to the purchaser an investment of considerably over $1,000,000 added genuine activity to the realty market yesterday and furnished another illustration of the willingness of investors to buy well managed properties in favorable locations.

The property sold was the southeast corner of Broadway and Seventy-seventh Street, occupied by the twelve-story Wellsmore apartment house erected about two years ago by Bing & Bing. It has a frontage of 105.6 on Broadway and 160.4 on the street, with irregular rear lines. It has been held at about $1,300,000 and is admirably situated for light and air, as adjoining, on the south, is the low building of the Manhattan Congregational Church.

The J. Romaine Company were the brokers in the transactions, which is one of the largest of the year. It was sold for the Charter Construction Company, composed of Bing & Bing.

"The buyer is a New York investor," said Charles Griffith Moses, of the brokerage firm, who owns several other prominent Broadway corners, and who has acquired this property as a permanent investment. "This purchase, following along the lines of the comparatively recent sales to men like Mr. Dupuy and Mr. Evans, is a significant illustration of the ability of the market to absorb high class modern fireproof apartment houses for investment."

The building plans when filed placed the cost at $650,000. The Wellsmore contains 48 apartments and five stores, showing a rent roll of $120,000 a year. The J. Romaine Brown Company has been appointed agentof the building by the owner.

Richard Trimble Resells Plot.

Richar Trimble Treasurer of the United States Steel Corporation, has disposed of the easterly half of the 75 foot plot on East Ninety-sixth Street, which he purchased several weeks ago from Isaac H. Clothier of Philadelphia.

Edward Shearson, of the banking firm of Shearson & Mammill, is the buyer of the plot which measures 37.6 by 100 feet on the north side of the street, 262.6 feet east of Fifth Avenue.

Both owners, it is said, will break ground at once for the erection of private dwellings for their own occupancy.

Investors Buy Uptown Apartments.

The St. Paul apartments, a five-story structure occupying a plot 32.6 by 100 at 54 Lenox Avenue, has been sold by Peter Cogley to an investor. Herman Le Roy Edgar negotiated the sale.

The Paul Jones, a six-story apartment house covering the block front on the west side of Wadsworth Avenue, between 184th and 185th Streets, has been sold by the American Real Estate Company to the Arco Realty Company.

The structure occupies a plot fronting 179.10 feet on Wadsworth Avenue and 70 feet on either street, and is one of the largest structures in the neighborhood tributary to the 181st Street Subway station. It was built about three years ago at an estimated cost of $250,000 by the Getskay Realty Company.

Deal in Yorkville Section.

Hellner & Wolf and the Markwin Realty Company have purchased for speculation the five three and four story dwellings at 114 to 122 East Eighty-seventh Street, located about midway between Park and Lexington Avenues. The property measures 92.10 by 100.8, and is one of the largest parcels under single ownership, suitable for reimprovement, and adjacent to Park Avenue, in that section.

John J. Kavanagh accumulated the site for the new owners. The following were the sellers: No. 114, Simon Baer; 116, Diederich Heyen; 118, Hannah Von Hofe, and 120-122, the Katolischer Gesselen Verein.

John Palmer has bought through N. A. Berwin & Co. from Charles M. Gay the two four-story single flats at 158 and 160 East Seventy-ninth Street, on plot 40 by 102.2, located 90 feet east of Lexington Avenue. The seller was represented by Frank B. McAnerney.

The Private Dwelling Market.

Adolph Platky has sold to a client of L. J. Phillips & Co. 46 West Ninety-second Street, a four-story dwelling on a lot 18 by 100.8. The buyer is an investor.

Bronx Borough.

John Palmer has sold to an investor, 1,249 Tinton Avenue, southwest corner of 169th Street, a five-story double flat, on plot 80 by irregular. The seller bought this property about a year ago from George Engle.

C. J. Elgar has sold for a client to Joseph F. A. O'Donneil, 680 East 139th Street, a five-story apartment house, on a plot 40 by 100. The property was held at $50,000 and adjoins the new Subway station, 38th Street and Cypress Avenue.

Uren, Inc., has sold for Benenson Realty Company the six-story new law apartment house, 51 by 98, at the northeast corner of 182d Street and Park Avenue, to an investor.

Epstein & Yarfitz and E. A. Weinstein have sold for Martin A. Cohen the five-story tenement, 630 East 137th Street, on a plot 25 by 100, to M. Reinitz. The buyer gives in part payment a house in Bridgeport, Conn.

S. Cowen has sold for C. Hauck to R. Goldberg 756 Westchester Avenue, extending through to 731 Tinton Avenue, a four-story flat, on lot 25.3 by 76 by 29.9 by irregular, adjoining the south corner of 156th Street. The same broker also sold for M. Lawry the plot, 50 by 100, on the south side of Garrison Avenue, 75 feet east of Bryant Avenue.

Pauline Haebler has purchased for investment from the Harry Goodstein Realty Company 232 Cypress Avenue, southwest corner of 138th Street, a six-story flat, with stores, on plot 100 by 40.2. In exchange Mrs. Haebler gave the five-story flat, with stores, at 2,423 Bathgate Avenue, southeast corner of 188th Street, on plot 89.4 by 32.

Long Island.

The Rickert-Finlay Realty Company has sold to John F. Murray, President of the John F. Murray Advertising Company, for investment, a plot with 290 feet frontage on the southeast corner of North Drive and East Drive, Kensington, Great Neck.

The Windsor Land and Improvement Company has sold at Rockville Centre to H. Kearney a plot 20 by 122, on Brooklyn Avenue; to N. Offerman, a plot 20 by 83, on Long Beach Road; to H. Castens, a plot 40 by 100, on Fortescue Avenue. The same company sold at Floral Park, to C. J. Carroll, a plot 20 by 114, and to P. Neary, a plot 20 by 124, on Plainfield Avenue; to M. Callahan, a plot 60 by 100, on Primrose Avenue; to B. Roth, a plot 40 by 100, on Aspen Street; to J. Faulkner, a plot 40 by 100, on Geranium Avenue.

$250,000 Mortgage on Cort Theatre.

The Title Guarantee & Trust Company has loaned on first mortgage $250,000 to the Ocean Crest Realty Company, covering the Cort Theatre, a fireproof building located on the south side of Forty-eighth Street, 300 feet east of Seventh Avenue, on a plot 95 by 100.5. This mortgage is for 5 years at 5 per cent.

Murray Hill Residence.

Plans have been filed for a four-story private dwelling for Thomas Smidt on the south side of Thirty-ninth Street, 80 feet east of Lexington Avenue. It will have a frontage of 43.4 feet and a depth of 53.2 feet, with a facade of limestone. The style of the facade will be French Renaissance. Rogers & Zogbaum are the architects and have placed the cost at $55,000.

Big Factory for Brooklyn.

The Turner Construction Company has been awarded the general contract by the Robert Gair Company, paper goods manufacturers, for a ten-story factory building to be erected at Washington and Front Streets, Brooklyn. The building will occupy a plot 200 by 125 feet and be built of reinforced concrete throughout. Work will begin at once.

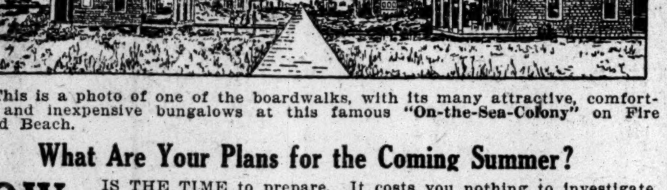
SALTAIRE



This is a photo of one of the boardwalks, with its many attractive, comfortable and inexpensive bungalows at this famous "On-the-Sea-Colony" on Fire Island Beach.

What Are Your Plans for the Coming Summer?

NOW IS THE TIME to prepare. It costs you nothing to investigate. Words cannot describe the pleasures to be had at SALTAIRE. Let us introduce you to any one of those who enjoyed the many attractions last Summer. Let their enthusiasm speak for itself.

The past season was really the first that this now famous Summer colony was in full swing. Yet this Summer over 100 bungalows will be occupied by their owners.

SALTAIRE is within commuting distince of the city, with many improvements—water, gas, miles of boardwalks already installed. Club house, tennis courts, &c., planned for the coming Summer.

DO NOT DELAY. START YOUR BUILDING AT ONCE,

so that when others are suffering from the hot days and nights you will be enjoying the cool breezes from the Atlantic Ocean on one side, with Great South Bay on the other. All salt water sports—the finest fishing, boating, bathing in the world.

BIG VALUES. LITTLE PRICES. EASY TERMS.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY.
An established mail-order house, dealing in staple articles and covering the entire country, will dispose of an interest to an active man who is competent to act as Secretary. The business was started a few years ago with limited capital and has shown remarkable growth. Volume now exceeds $700,000; should reach $1,000,000 within a year, and through the aid of parcels post and additional capital $5,000,000 within five years. ASSAIL CENTRAL'S WEST SIDE PLAN

Storm of Protest Rages Around Death Avenue Proposal at Public Hearing.

MANY ORGANIZATIONS HEARD

Pleas Made for Riverside Drive Realty Owners—Traffic Improvements Imperative, Says Prendergast.

A storm of criticism raged all day yesterday around the proposal before the Board of Estimate for the improvement of the New York Central's west side lines. A few voices were raised in its behalf, but most of the speakers found fault with it either from the artistic, the economical, or the humanitarian point of view, and the hearing was adjourned till to-morrow afternoon to give another opportunity for an expression of opinion. Controller Prendergast took occasion to say that the plan, as reported by the Terminal Committee of the board, was not supposed to be perfect, and the members of the board would be very glad to have suggestions for its improvement.

During most of the day President Mitchel occupied the chair, as Mayor Gaynor had other matters on hand. He has the chief responsibility for the plan, and he answered many of the criticisms from the chair. Calvin Tomkins, ex-Dock Commissioner, who ascribes his removal to his failure to appreciate the Board of Estimate plan, did not address the board, but filed instead a memorandum of some of his views.

Charles L. Craig, counsel for the West End Association, was the first speaker and took as his line the damage likely to be inflicted on property values along Riverside Drive. Property owners in this district possessed, he argued, a vested interest in the preservation of the character of the locality and were assessed at $250,000,000.

"Riverside Park," he asserted, "was created as a waterfront park and paid for by assessment on the understanding that it would always remain so. You cannot convert to railroad purposes this park. We want you to adopt such a plan as will enlarge and complete the park and preserve its landscape features."

As he spoke he was frequently interrupted by President Mitchel and Park Commissioner Stover, but when Mayor Gaynor appeared he at once quelled any symptom of disorder. An unfortunate man in the front row ventured on mild applause as Mr. Craig spoke.

"You get out," said the Mayor, and the man went.

Number of Railroad Tracks.

The number of railroad tracks to be used by the New York Central underneath the Park disturbed Mr. Craig a good deal. Some of the plans, he said, showed eleven tracks, but Mr. Mitchel assured him that six was more likely to be the number, as the committee had not yet decided what should be done with the land, stilll unmade, beyond the sixth track.

Two and a half feet of earth, Mr. Mitchel said, was the amount which would be spread over the covering of the Central tracks in Riverside Park.

"What can you grow on two and a half feet of earth?" demanded Mr. Craig.

"Shrubs and grass, I am informed," replied the President.

Julius Henry Cohen, appearing for the Citizens' Union and the Riverside Branch of the Women's Municipal League, took the ground that the city had not realized that it could demand what it pleased from the railroad company, and had been too willing to adopt the company's suggestions. He objected strongly to the proposed railroad yard to be constructed between Riverside Drive and the river from 137th to 157th Street.

"But," asked Mr. Mitchel, "if such a yard is necessary, where else could you put it?"

"In some other section," replied Mr. Cohen. "We are not here now to make suggestions, but to prevent you destroying our beautiful park."

The Citizens' Union, Mr. Cohen went on, considered that the committee's plan gave the New York Central a monopoly, and it preferred the Tomkins proposal, which provided an elevated railroad open to all lines on equal terms.

"What was the alternative?" asked Mr. Mitchel. "How could we get the New York Central out of the way?"

"There was no need to treat with it on equal terms," said Mr. Cohen.

"We went over that most thoroughly," broke in Controller Prendergast. "It was the most delicate point in our negotiations."

"A surrender to the railroad?" asked Mr. Cohen softly.

"Don't call it a surrender," retorted the Controller. "This plan is not final and we are open to suggestions. There were no more disappointed people in the city than the railroad. They wanted an elevated line below Thirtieth Street."

Business Side Forgotten.

Then Mr. Prendergast asserted that in discussing the ethical and aesthetic sides of the problem the business side had been forgotten.

"Better traffic facilities," he said, "must be provided. It is a very serious question how this can be done, and it affects the cost of living. It is at least as important as the aesthetic and ethical sides, and we are anxious to hear suggestions that will be at once practical and not too burdensome to the railroad and the city."

George L. Rives, appearing for the New York Hospital, which has bought the plot between Eleventh and Twelfth Avenues and Fifty-fourth and Fifty-fifth Streets, asked the modification of the plan for the new Twelfth Avenue line below Fifty-ninth Street. He thought that the proposed freight subway might be constructed under Eleventh Avenue as far as De Witt Clinton Park, and that the new Twelfth Avenue might be built from the southern side of the park to Forty-fourth Street, instead of beginning at Fifty-ninth Street. In that way the hospital site and the De Witt Clinton Park would be saved.

In any case, Mr. Rives asked that the city buy the whole of the hospital plot if it was going to take any of it.

The "Wonder Tour" Through the Northwest

Have you ever been to Glacier Park? Have you ever been to Yellowstone Park? Have you been to the North Pacific coast? No?

Well, I would like to have the privilege of explaining how you can arrange a Summer Tour to include all three, stopping at Glacier on the way out and Yellowstone on the way back.

It's the most interesting, fascinating trip in the world, and Railroad, Hotel and Stage facilities are so perfect now, that the trip is a joy from start to finish.

I would like to send you maps and pictures and booklets describing these places, and I would like you to let me help you plan a trip and tell you all about the service and the cost. Will you allow me to do this? Address

MICHIGAN BURIES SUFFRAGE.

Women's Amendment Swamped—Republicans Claim State Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, April 8.—Woman suffrage met a staggering defeat at yesterday's election in Michigan. With only about one-third of the votes counted the result stands 51,035 for and 92,644 against the amendment, an adverse majority of 41,589. Practically all these returns are from the cities which were expected to go against the amendment, but the margin is far too large to be overcome by the rural element.

Detroit's majority of 22,000 against the amendment is nearly twice that of last November. This seems to be due to lack of interest on the part of men who voted for the amendment before, the total vote being about 34,000 less than at the November election. The opponents of suffrage, with an efficient organization, backed by both Democratic and Republican political machines, as well as the Brewers' Association, got out their Detroit voters while the suffragists stayed at home. It was a case of campaign experience versus lack of it.

It is reported that the Brewers' Association offered cash prizes to saloon men up State for increasing the anti-suffrage vote in their counties. The returns from the country undoubtedly will greatly reduce the apparent majority against the women. The bad roads prevented thousands of farmers from voting, and this cut down the women's vote.

In Detroit, with twelve districts missing, the vote is 45,475 against suffrage and 17,177 for it, a majority of 28,298. In the November election the total vote was about 96,000, divided 54,000 to 42,000. The returns from the other counties are so incomplete that a comparison cannot be made.

All of the other constitutional amendments voted on at yesterday's election, including the initiative, referendum, and recall, carried by good majorities.

The Republicans are claiming the State ticket by pluralities of 30,000 to 50,000. Judge Alfred J. Murphy, Democratic candidate for Supreme Court Justice, furnished the liveliest contest against the Republicans, and his supporters say that they will not admit defeat until the complete vote is in. The Progressive Party, which led the ticket last Fall, will finish a poor third.

A practically complete city count shows that Detroit adopted the measure for municipal ownership of street railways by a vote of 39,563 to 9,164. The next step in the city's fight for 3-cent fares is for Mayor Marx to appoint a commission of three men who will have power to construct extensions, build competing lines, or negotiate for the purchase of the Detroit United Railway.

ANTI-PARADE ORDINANCE.

Fifth Avenue Association Ready to Go to Aldermen.

An attempt to restrict the number of parades on Fifth Avenue will be made at the next meeting of the Board of Aldermen, when an ordinance will be introduced by Alderman Folks forbidding the use of the avenue to all processions except those of the National Guard, the United States Army and Navy, the Police, Fire and Street Cleaning Departments, associations of veteran soldiers, parades of a patriotic character, and those which take place on a National holiday.

Bruce M. Falconer, counsel for the Fifth Avenue Association, has drawn up a brief for the ordinance which says that processions keep all traffic off Fifth Avenue during the parade period, causing great financial loss to Fifth Avenue merchants and shopkeepers; that they increase the number of cases of disorderly conduct and larceny and give pickpockets an opportunity to ply their trade among the crowds, and that they leave the avenue afterward covered with dirt and rubbish of all kinds.

"The passage of this legislation," said Mr. Falconer, "would be a great boon not only to those who reside or have a place of business upon or near Fifth Avenue, but to the many thousands who use it and the neighboring streets and avenues, either on foot or in vehicles."

STOP "TEA ROOM" DANCING

But Patrons of Places with Hotel Licenses Are Not Molested.

Chief Wallace of the Bureau of Licenses formally recommended to Mayor Gaynor yesterday that all dancing be prohibited in dancing halls under the jurisdiction of his bureau and in buildings in which liquor is served before 6 o'clock in the evening. Chief Wallace submitted a report on his inspections of the dance halls and "tea rooms" where afternoon dancing is in vogue, and the whole matter now lies in the hands of the Mayor. When asked what action he would take, the Mayor said he had nothing more to say for the present, but that complaints against places within the bureau's jurisdiction would be duly investigated.

To offset any possibility of a wholesale revocation of dance hall licenses, it became known yesterday a movement had been started to obtain an amendment to the city charter taking away from the Chief of the License Bureau the power to revoke arbitrarily a license without a hearing. Adolf Fuesskind, proprietor of Terrace Garden, in East Fifty-eighth Street, and President of the Ball Room and Park Proprietors' Association, admitted that he had sent letters to all the State Senators advocating such a limitation of power.

Afternoon dancing in the "tea rooms" under the supervision of the license bureau has been absolutely stopped.

"If we can get the Mayor to grant us a license for the afternoon dancing," said Joseph B. Malley, of the George Rector establishment at Broadway and Sixty-first Street, "we would be the first to dispense with the serving of liquors. We would be glad to serve only tea, lemonade, and other soft drinks."

While the ban continues on the restaurants, those places like Bustanobys, on West Thirty-ninth Street, Reisenweber's, and Louis Martin's, which have hotel licenses, continue their dances in the afternoon without molestation.

BETTS GETS TWO YEARS.

Former Insurance Official Goes to Prison for His Thefts.

Frederick A. Betts, the former Assistant Secretary of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and former Insurance Commissioner of Connecticut, was sentenced to not less than two nor more than five years in State prison yesterday by Justice Seabury in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court.

Betts pleaded guilty to stealing large amounts of money from employes of the insurance company by representing that he was the head of a real estate syndicate. His thefts are said to have reached $100,000 in all and to have extended over a period of two years. They ranged anywhere from $500, the lowest, to $2,500, the highest, single amount.

$1,000,000 TO HIS FRIENDS.

John A. Casey Provides for Sale and Distribution of His Estate.

By the wil of John A. Casey, known as the "Resin King," filed for probate yesterday in the office of Surrogate Ketcham in Brooklyn, he leaves the bulk of his estate, which is estimated at $1,000,000, to his friends. The chief beneficiary is John Henry Wagener of 490 Summit Street, South Orange, N. J., who was associated with Mr. Casey in business. He receives $10,000 in cash, $500 additional as his fee as executor of the estate besides his commissions for his work in that position, and half the dividends on 60 per cent. of the stock of the John A. Casey Company as long as he lives.

His nephew, James J. Casey of 67 Coles Street, receives $10,000. To his first cousins, John Manning, Margaret Manning, and Mrs. Sabina White, the testator leaves $5,000 each.

CANNOT CHECK UP MULRANEY'S STORIES

ANOTHER TO ROSALSKY

Father Curry Gives Favorable Testimony for Him in Account of Talk with John Dowling.

Three statements each differing from the previous one and all at variance with his last statement given before Judge Rosalsky in the Death House at Sing Sing were credited yesterday to John Mulraney, convicted of the murder of Patrick McBreen, when the hearing of his assertion of innocence was continued before Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions. This testimony was given by Mulraney's former lawyers, Ezra Prentice and F. R. Limberg, and followed testimony favorable to Mulraney given earlier in the day by the Rev. Father James P. Curry of St. James Roman Catholic Church.

Father Curry testified that he had a conversation with John Dowling, who had previously told the story of the murder of Patrick McBreen, known as "Paddy the Priest," and said in that account of the crime that Mulraney shot McBreen. Father Curry said that in his conversation with Dowling he denied that Mulraney shot McBreen.

"At first Dowling was sullen," said Father Curry, "but when he found out that I was a Catholic he began to speak. He talked very rapidly, and, speaking of the crime, said he was 'hearing voices coming to him' which kept saying 'Mulraney's guilty,' and that notwithstanding these voices he wanted to say that Mulraney was not near the scene of the crime."

"Didn't you think this might be a put up job?" asked District Attorney Rubin.

"Well," replied the witness, "I thought that possibly Mulraney might have told Dowling what to say, and I asked an attendant if it were possible for them to communicate with each other, but the attendant said they were on different tiers and it was not likely."

Deputy Warden Hanley of the Tombs was then called, and Joseph A. Shay, Mulraney's present counsel, asked:

"Is it customary in the Tombs to allow prisoners charged with murder to walk about?"

"The cell doors are unlocked and they can visit each other," was the reply.

Mr. Limberg quoted Mulraney as saying in his first statement:

"I was just out of Auburn Prison and looking for a job. I couldn't get one, so I went out looking for a clothing store to break into. I went to one and also to the cellar of 502 West Fifty-third Street, where I took out a memorandum book I had and tore some pages out. These pages had the names of some men whom I wanted to join a club.

"This, I am told, had much to do with my arrest. Dowling was with me but refused to break into the store, saying it was too big a chance and that he had a wife and kids. That was on Oct. 2 or Oct. 3, I don't know which."

McBreen was murdered at 2:30 o'clock on the morning of Oct. 4.

"We then went home and I went to bed."

Mr. Limberg then read Mulraney's second statement which was made several days later, and was to the effect that he got drunk on Oct. 3 and remembered nothing later.

Mr. Prentice in reply to Mr. Rubin's questions repeated that a third statement had been made by Mulraney. In this statement Mulraney said that he was taking his sister-in-law, Mrs. Emma Davidson, home on the night of the murder.

"Why didn't you call witnesses for Mulraney?" asked Mr. Rubin.

"I was thoroughly familiar with the case," said the witness, "and I knew that Mulraney wanted to prove an alibi."

Mulraney, in testifying before Judge Rosalsky in Sing Sing, said that he had not been with Dowling on the night of the murder and had not even been down to Fifty-third Street, but had been taken home drunk by William Reilly and Nicholas Jacobs, who met him coming out of Sweeney's saloon.

Another stir was caused in the courtroom when Mr. Shay announced that he had received a letter from Ernst Fritz Hoyer, a trained nurse. Hoyer said he was employed in Bellevue and that Dowling said to him:

"I'm going to die anyhow. I want company. Mulraney has got to die sometime, and he may as well die soon, and in the electric chair as anywhere else."

The hearing will be continued to-day and it is thought likely that Hoyer will be called as a witness.

FRIEDMANN IN PROVIDENCE.

Physicians of That City to be First to Learn His Treatment.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, April 8.—Dr. Friedrich F. Friedmann, who is here to demonstrate his discovery for the treatment of tuberculosis, had a cordial welcome on his arrival this afternoon. From the time Sophia Berger, whom he treated in New York City three weeks ago, placed a large bouquet of carnations in his arms in the Union Station until he went into a private conference in the Narragansett Hotel with Dr. W. L. Harris and Dr. W. G. Dwinell, he was the centre of attraction.

The official greetings were extended in Gov. Pothier's office. The Senate and House adjourned on the physician's arrival to give opportunity to the lawmakers to meet him.

"While here," Dr. Friedmann said this evening, "I shall instruct a certain number of physicians in the use of my vaccine. They will be permitted to observe me, and I shall explain from time to time the method of treatment.

"The Providence doctors will be the first to benefit by my discovery, as I have decided to give the secrets to them owing to the great courtesy they have shown to me and the cordial welcome I have received from your Governor."

Dr. Friedmann examined two severe cases of tubercular affection of joints this evening and said he probably would hold a clinic on them. He will leave the city at 9 o'clock to-morrow to visit the State Sanatorium at Wallum Lake. There he will treat as many of the 200 patients as possible in the day of his stay.

FALL KILLS ARMY AVIATOR.

Lieut. Chandler Dies, Lieut. Brereton Hurt in Drop to San Diego Bay.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 8.—Lieut. Rex Chandler, Coast Artillery Corps, U. S. A., was killed instantly this morning and Lieut. Lewis H. Brereton, U. S. A., was hurt badly in the fall of a hydroaeroplane into the bay. The accident occurred shortly before noon near Fort Rosecrans. Boats put out from the fort immediately. The dead and injured men were taken to the fort hospital. No explanation of the accident has been obtained. The wreckage of the plane still was in the bay late to-day.

Lieut. Brereton, with Lieut. Chandler as his passenger, started from the Army Aviation School on North Island at 10 o'clock. Watchers on shore saw the plane plunge almost straight into the water from a height of 100 feet.

This has been a disastrous year for airmen. The first to lose his life was Mallot, a Frenchman, who was a passenger with Jacques Le Vasseur when the latter man's machine fell in a flight at Fecamp, France. Le Vasseur was injured slightly, but Mallot was killed instantly. Twenty-one other persons have been killed this year—eight more than the aviation deaths for the same time last year. The death of Lieut. Chandler stretches the list of aviation fatalities to 242.

HOTEL APPEALS TO COURT.

Avenel Would Enjoin Waldo from Stationing Men on Premises.

Ever since the beginning of the graft crusade in Harlem the Hotel Avenel at 124th Street and Lexington Avenue has been under the close scrutiny of policemen who have been stationed in the building to warn prospective guests of the "disorderly" nature of the resort. This hotel is now owned by the Baltic Hotel Company, but was formerly owned by George A. Sipp, and later by Thomas Dorian, both of whom aided District Attorney Whitman in obtaining the indictment of ex-Inspector Sweeney.

Maurice M. Meyer, lawyer for the Baltic Hotel Company, appeared before Supreme Court Justice Lehman yesterday and asked for an injunction restraining Commissioner Waldo and the City of New York from stationing policemen on the premises of the hotel. In arguing for the injunction Mr. Meyer called Justice Lehman's attention to a decision handed down by Mayor Gaynor fifteen years ago when he was a Justice of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn. Justice Gaynor in that case had refused to dismiss a warrant against a Police Captain who had stationed one of his patrolmen in an alleged disorderly resort to warn prospective guests of the character of the place. Justice Gaynor held that such an act on the part of a police official was a form of oppression and that the police official ought to be arrested for it.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Louis H. Hahlo produced five affidavits by five different policemen setting forth eight pages of the names of couples who had registered at the Avenel on Feb. 28, March 1, and March 2, many of whom had come without baggage.

"Admitting that that is true," said Mr. Meyer, "and supposing that the 66 rooms in the hotel were rented 162 times in three and a half days, and that some of those couples that registered did not have baggage, that would not be proof that the premises are disorderly; it would amount merely to suspicion."

Justice Lehman, in reserving decision, said that he would have to take into account general knowledge of the way in which disorderly resorts are conducted.

HEARING ON POLICE BILL.

Public Discussion of Reinstatement Measure Set for Tomorrow.

Mayor Gaynor will hold a hearing tomorrow on the bill fathered by Assemblyman Ingraham, which, if it becomes a law, will enable the Police Commissioner to reconsider all reductions in grade which have occurred in the department.

It applies to reductions made by previous heads of the department by stipulating that reductions to date may be reconsidered within one year from the date at which the measure goes into effect, and that thereafter reductions may be reconsidered within one year after the date at which they are made.

Ex-Detective Guilty of Extortion.

Ex-Detective J. J. Doyle, who for twenty-two years was a member of the police force, was convicted of attempted extortion at 10 o'clock last night by a jury before Supreme Court Justice Garretson in Brooklyn. Together with ex-Detective Robert Seleske, Doyle was accused of having tried to extort $100 from Victor Filmon of 27 St. Mark's Place, Manhattan. This was last October. Seleske was convicted in January.

GAYNOR DEFENDS POLICE.

Writes to Mr. Albertson That They Are Still the Finest.

In a letter yesterday to Kerr F. Albertson of the New York Granite Company, Mayor Gaynor defended the Police Department, saying that the abuse heaped upon it in the past year was wholly unmerited. This is the letter:

City of New York.
Office of the Mayor.
April 8, 1913.

Dear Mr. Albertson: I am glad to receive your letter about the police. There is no better police force in the whole world. And the detective branch of it is recognized everywhere as the best in the world. The abuse heaped on the force for now over a year is wholly unmerited. There are a few grafters on the force. I have been driving them to the wall ever since I have been here. All the revelations that have been made are by criminals whom the police put out of business. I expected more revelations than we have had. If we had left these criminals alone there would have been no revelations. Every time we threaten a person running a house of debauchery or gambling now he threatens to go and disclose to the District Attorney. We tell him to go ahead—that is what we want him to do

Sincerely yours,
W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

Kerr F. Albertson, Esq.

The Mayor, when seen, would not discuss the letter or the police situation.

8 TO 12 YEARS FOR ARSON.

Jacob Schiffer, Another Customer of Izzie the Painter, Sentenced.

After pleading guilty once to arson in the third degree, withdrawing that plea later and entering one of not guilty, and then pleading guilty to arson in the second degre, Jacob Schiffer of 307 East 102d Street was sentenced yesterday by Judge Malone to not less than eight or more than twelve years in the State Prison.

Schiffer was arrested in Montreal, Canada, following an indictment obtained as a result of the confession of Isidor Stein, a confessed "firebug." He admitted that he had hired Stein to set fire to his flat at 309 East 102d Street in order that he might collect $410 insurance. Stein received $50 of this for setting the fire.

F. L. Eames Estate, $665,814.

According to the transfer tax appraisal filed in the Surrogate's office in Brooklyn yesterday, the estate of Francis L. Eames, one time President of the New York Stock Exchange, amounts to $665,814. The property is largely in stocks, including shares in the Pullman, General Electric, American Smelting and Refining and the Federal Mining and Smelting Companies. Mr. Eames died at his home, 125 Remsen Street, Brooklyn, in November last. The estate goes to his daughter, Mrs. Ethel E. Sanderson of Brooklyn.

FINGER-PRINT CLUE FOR SAFE-BLOWERS

Best Trace in a Long Time Obtained from an Eighth Avenue Butcher Shop Job.

When detectives who had been assigned to an Eighth Avenue safe-blowing case emerged last evening, after a still hunt through the records in the Identification Bureau, there was an air of content at Police Headquarters, for this Eighth Avenue case had furnished the most distinct and perfect finger prints found in a long time, and the counterparts of those finger prints were found in the catalogue made under the supervision of Inspector Faurot. The detectives knew who cracked that safe as surely as if they had been hidden in the same room when the work was done. It was only a question of finding the men, and last evening detectives went out to get the thieves.

When they are rounded up the police feel confident that they will have under lock and key the men who have been at work among the small safes of the city for the last six months. Time was when a safe-blowing was more or less of an event, but there have been so many of them recently that shopkeepers seldom trust money behind the iron doors over night. For some time the police have been convinced that much of the safe-blowing in the smaller shops of Manhattan and the Bronx was the work of a single gang, acting probably under the direction of one man. With the new finger prints in their possession they believe they can get their hands on the gang and probably on that individual.

The prints were found on the glass door of the ice box in the butcher shop at 616 Eighth Avenue. This is run by Max Cohn. On Saturday night when he closed his shop and started for his home in Brooklyn, he took with him the bulk of his cash on hand, leaving only $30 for change purposes when the store should be opened again on Monday morning. Cohn did not believe in trusting valuables to a mere safe on a brightly lighted New York thoroughfare.

On Sunday morning, the store was opened by the vegetable man, who runs a stand in the shop and who came around to wet down his perishable stock. He had hardly stepped inside when he saw that something was wrong. The safe was gone from its accustomed place at the front of the store. He found no traces of burglars until he came to the rear window, which bore the marks of a jimmy. Further search showed him that the safe had been wheeled into the huge ice box, and that the wreckage of it was there still amid a confusion of meats.

The vegetable man went out and called a policeman of the West Thirty-seventh Street Station to take charge and a little later detectives examined the premises. They found that after the safe had been trundled to the shelter of the ice box, beeves and shoulders of other meat had been heaped about it to deaden the sound of the exploding nitro glycerine. The explosion had "blown" the safe, but it had also blown the meat, destroying $100 worth. Of course the $30 was gone from the safe.

The police do not suppose for a moment that the fresh finger prints found on the glass of the Cohen icebox will lead to the men who robbed the safe of the Hester Street pawnshop when a King's ransom in jewels was stolen. But they do believe the Eighth Avenue safe was blown by the same crowd that has done much of the unending string of smaller safe robberies—attacks on the prosperity of butchers, bakers, furniture dealers, clothing stores and the like all over the city. These men have worked cautiously. They have usually been careful not to leave good finger prints. They have tried an infinity of frills in their work.

This most recent case was not the first use of a butcher's icebox. That was tried in a Harlem market months ago. The safeblowers have resorted to similar devices to deaden the sound of the explosion and to remove the safe from the view of any passing patrolman. They have carried amazingly heavy safes down long flights of stairs. They have even set up a dummy safe of black cardboard to fill the accustomed place under the lights while the real safe was being cracked in the back of the shop.

DOVER

It may or may not have been Emerson who said that the man who could do some one thing—even the making of a mouse trap—better than his neighbor, though he build his house in the wood, the world would make a beaten path to his door.

We are told that in our "Dover" we have produced a better model than any of our neighbors.

We have not built our house in the woods, but in the most convenient shopping centres of seventeen of the largest cities in the country. And this advertisement will show you the path.

RESTAURANTS.
CAFE BOULEVARD
are seen at the Cafe Boulevard. The old-world spirit appeals to them. The dinner at seventy-five cents, with Vienna coffee, is like the best they have had in Europe. The impression is heightened by Hazay Natzi's Hungarian orchestra and the Cabaret. At 10:30 the guests dance.
